the eminent playwright and producer of such successes as

'The Rose of the Rancho," 'The Bird of Paradise, "Omar, the Tentmaker," # is sending to London his

the hilarious, wholesome comedy of domestic life by John Hunter Booth, author "The Masquerader." which kept New York, Boston and Chicago laughing over a year at

Henry's efforts to keep

Polly smiling. List-en!

Henry, an underpaid, retiring clerk in a New York office, leads his wife, Polly, to believe he is a mem-ber of the firm. Polly, with social ambitions, wants an aristocratic country home—gets it. Wants a big house-warming party with such entertainers as Caruso, etc—gets then. A demand for a payment on the house is made the day of the party—the bill for the entertainers, etc., presented about the same time, amounts to over $5,000.

Henry's entire funds total about

How does he escape the sheriff or Can't tell you for laughing.

Only one satisfactory way-go and see Henry Keep Her Smiling amid shrieks of laughter, side-splitting, eye-streaming, cyclonic laughter, of a comedy-intoxicated audience. The play is presented with strikingly beautiful stage settings and played by 25 exceedingly clever artists, cluding the noted English comedian, David Miller, brought over from London by Mr. Tully for this engagement.

Then there are De Witt C. Jennings and Isabel Withers.
