

SAY GOLDSTEIN HAS MANY WIVES

Beating of Bride of Two Months Leads to Dis-closures.

Philadelphia, Nov. 6.—Joseph Goldstein, 36, is under arrest here, sus- pected of having nearly a score of wives throughout the country, with at least six living in New York.

Three alleged wives faced him when he was arraigned before Magistrate O'Connor. Another wrote to the police of that city that she was married to Goldstein, but was unable to appear at the hearing.

Police declare they discovered Goldstein's marrying career in a trunk filled with letters from women in various sections of the country pleading with Goldstein to return to them and their children, as well as to send them money.

The letters were found in Goldstein's Philadelphia home after his ar- rest on the charge of beating his wife, Sara, 24, a bride of two months. This led to his undoing, as the alleged latest of his many wives testified at Gold- stein's first hearing her suspicions Goldstein had "other wives."

Mrs. Gustie Lindenberg and Mrs. Margaret Adlestein, both of New York, appeared at the hearing with Mrs. Sara Goldstein as three of Goldstein's wives.

Mrs. Lindenberg, of Eldridge street, said she married Goldstein several years ago, and has two children by the marriage. Mrs. Adlestein, of East 100th street, says she has one child by her marriage.

Police said they found letters from women living in California, Nebraska, and Chicago. Detectives will subpoena them to appear against Goldstein when he is tried.

CATHEDRAL TEA CLOSSES TODAY

One young man was twice fortunate last evening at the fair held in connection with the Cathedral high tea, which closed yesterday, after a very successful three nights. John Stanton, 6 Peters' Wharf, was the winner of a fine electric lamp and a later tier of fancy aprons, both offered at the booth where aprons and handkerchiefs were sold under the auspices of the Society of the Propagation of the Faith. Miss Lottie Gillis, 104 King street east, and Miss Annie Flood, 9 Castle street, each won five pounds of chocolates, and Miss Ethel Flaherty, 28 Exmouth street, another one of the electric lamps. The door prize was won by ticket 1603, but has not been claimed last night. The winner will have a nice box of biscuits, winner will have a nice box of biscuits.

The candy booth has been conducted by different young ladies each evening. They were Miss Marie Dolan, Miss Isabelle Reid, Miss Gertrude Maguire and Miss Mary Killorn for Tuesday night and Miss Kathleen Lundy, Miss Anna Graman and Miss Beatrice Gosnell last evening. Two little girls carried candles among the crowd. They were Miss Katherine and Miss Frances Bardeley.

This afternoon the children will take possession under supervision of Rev. Father McCarthy. Supper will be served for the little folks.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT

Frank Smith, aged 35, was arrested at 12:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Police Sergeant Dykeman on a warrant charging him with assault, causing actual bodily harm to Samuel Swanton on October 31. The prisoner appeared before Magistrate Henderson in the police court during the afternoon and pleaded not guilty, and was allowed out on leaving a deposit of $100 for his appearance in court tomorrow morning. W. M. Ryan appeared in the interest of the accused.

QUEBEC FRENCH IS NOT "PATOIS"

Col. W. C. Wood Gives Entertaining Address to Toronto Women.

The one-sidedness of bilingualism in Canada was emphasized in Toronto in an excellent address given before the Women's Canadian Club by Col. William C. Wood of Quebec City, says the Toronto Globe. Col. Wood, who is a distinguished historian and writer, asserts that there are more French-Canadians who speak the English language than there are Anglo-Canadians who speak the French.

"I am inclined to think that the English language is a little better — no worse, anyway — than the French," declared the speaker, who believes that "bilingualism is a grand thing."

Not a "Patois"

"Do not use the word 'patois' in referring to the speech of the French-Canadian of today, for it is not true," warned Colonel Wood, emphatically. The speech of the French-Canadians is partly old French, but mostly Norman French. "On the whole, the French-Canadian speech of today — though peculiar — is good of its kind."

The service talks of the British Army all originated hundreds of years ago with the army of the French. Col. Wood stated that during a recent visit in France he heard the familiar notes of the ever-welcome dinner or "cook-house" call. Upon inquiry he found that it had been used in the French Army for over two hundred years, and was happily called "La Soupe."

Harmony Is Needed

"We have all kinds of people in the British Empire," declared the speaker, "and what we want is not union, but harmony of all the different parts." In speaking of the French-Canadians, he stressed the point that they are like other peoples, with the same class distinctions and the same differences among themselves. "There are bad, good and middling in the French-Canadian as well as other peoples," he said.

Familiar and well-beloved by the Anglo-Canadians are the verses of Dr. W. H. Drummond, but by the French-Canadians they are hated and detested, according to Colonel Wood. So "little Bateau" and his poor "granpere," and even "Johnny Corneau" find no admirers among the French-Canadians. The speaker stated that this dislike is due to the fact that works of this kind isolate one class, that of the habitants, and the French-Canadian feels that he is being held up to ridicule by the French of France and by the English-speaking people.

Hemon's Book Not Liked

"Marie Chapdelaine," by Louis Hemon, has met with a tremendous success in France as well as in England and America. Here, again, the educated French-Canadian is not pleased or rejoicing over the success of this vivid picture of the life of the habitants. "You may call it superlativeness," said Colonel Wood, "but it is only natural."

Changing Old Names

Colonel Wood spoke disparagingly of the popular practice of changing century-old place names in Canada. Among the illustrations he used the two lakes, Lake St. Lawrence and Lake St. Charles. Construction gangs had been in a measure responsible for the discarding of euphonious old French names and the remaining of these northern lakes.

"That Kruschen feeling" adds And promotes digestion after."

Nothing Upsets Him

Some people are faced by an angry Thanksgiving problem. Either they strictly deny themselves a share in the rich things of the table — and thus become killjoys at the feast; or they take the plunge — and for days afterwards suffer the pangs of an outraged liver.

But you who are wise are faced by no such problem. You know that turkeys and pumpkin pie are meant to be eaten and enjoyed; and at the same time you realize that an extra strain is going to be placed upon your digestive system.

Therefore you take precautions. You take Kruschen Salts.

As a mild but efficient tonic for the liver and kidneys, assisting them in times of stress to do their work thoroughly and regularly, Kruschen is invaluable before, during and after all festive seasons. Start to-morrow morning, taking that "little daily dimeful" in your breakfast cup of coffee or tea — just as much of the powder as will cover a ten cent piece. Taken this easy way, Kruschen is tasteless. But the little dose is sufficient to enable the eliminating organs to perform their duties actively, thoroughly cleansing the system of all impurities. Clear, refreshed blood circulates all over the body, filling you with a tingling sense of health and high spirits. You are well and know it — fit for all the Thanksgiving celebrations.

Start now getting yourself into trim by forming the Kruschen habit of health. Get a 75c bottle of Kruschen at the first druggist's you pass, and form the habit of the "little daily dimeful" at less than half a cent a day.

Put as much in your coffee or tea as will cover a ten cent piece. It's the little daily dimeful that does it.

A 75c bottle of Kruschen Salts contains 150 doses — nearly enough for six months — which means bounding health for less than half a cent a day. The dose prescribed for adults is one 75c bottle.

COP ILLUSTRATES JAYWALKING FOLLY

New York, Nov. 4.—The law tells with much detail how an automobile should comport itself on a public thoroughfare, but it is silent in prescribing conduct for pedestrians. About the only law affecting those who walk is the one prohibiting highway robbery. Police Commissioner Enright has just asked for legislation that would curtail suicidal strolling.

Because of the lack of such restriction, the policeman who preside over the intersections of busy streets have been required to resort to something besides the summons books in their hats to discourage wilful walkers from carelessly colliding with taxis, trucks and trolleys.

A big traffic officer in Seventh avenue tried ridicule as a corrective measure the other day, but it isn't likely that he will employ that method as a regular thing.

A young man who apparently had no interest whatever in the future was crossing east in the avenue while a flood tide of vehicles surged to north and south. It may be that he was enjoying his summer vacation in retrospect and wondering what happened to that little blonde who gave him a wrong city address. Anyway, he was calmly oblivious to assorted automotive vehicles. He ignored five-ton trucks and part-ton runabouts impartially. Most casual of observers had no difficulty in visualizing the crowd in front of the drug store and the clanging approach of the ambulance. It was almost possible to hear the pleas of "Give him air."

Indignant Officer

After a series of hairbreath escapes that made the work of a steeplejack seem like crocheting dories, the youth reached the safety zone provided for trolley passengers. The big policeman had watched the hazardous journey with ever-rising blood pressure. His ruddy face had grown so crimson that he could have flagged an express train with it. He was fuent and to the point.

He said that he had been the unwilling witness of some of the most flagrantly stupid walking ever perpetrated, but that such an exhibition as given by the young man in question had therefore been denied him. His indignation rose as he continued to give voice to it. He said that he would give the young man a faithful impersonation of his matchless jaywalking.

There was a momentary break in the tide of automobiles and the policeman, throwing back his head and gaining skyward, started across the avenue. He walked in that semi-circular posture of children playing at being stout. The young man looked on sheepishly. Scores of those hurrying New Yorkers who stop hurrying when there is something to watch quickly gathered for the demonstration revealing how not to cross a mid-town street.

The officer was halfway over from the safety zone to the curb when a taxicab shot out of nowhere and lent emphasis to the officer's portrayal of the perfect jaywalker by clipping him sharply with the bumper in the calf of the leg.

The young man who inspired the lesson no longer looked sheepish. He said there wasn't the slightest doubt in his mind but that jaywalking was fraught with great danger. The remainder of the audience agreed with him. The taxicab driver reached for his license.

Mines Minister Speaks on Resources — Preserves 3,271,040 Acres.

Defining the policy of the Ontario Government as one which seeks to conserve as fully as possible the fur and game resources of the province, Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, gave to the Toronto Field Naturalists' Club, on a recent evening, a complete picture of the functioning of the Provincial Department of Game and Fisheries.

Dealing with game preserves, Hon. Mr. McCrea announced that during the last month a new preserve of some 800 square miles had been created, bringing the total area of crown game preserves in the province up to 3,271,040 acres. The newest preserve, known as the Superior, was located between the City of Port Arthur and the Village of Schreiber, lying to the south of the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

In general, the minister's address was of an entirely informative character, statistics playing a major role. The province was divided into six districts, he explained, with headquarters at London, Ottawa, Orillia, North Bay, Fort William and Patricia. Aside from the executive staff, there were some 107 employees, wardens, and so forth, under the department. For the fiscal year of 1923 revenues of the department amounted to $891,422, showing a surplus of $23,725.

The six provincial fish hatcheries, located at Fort Frances, Port Arthur, Sault Ste. Marie, Normandale, Mount Pleasant and Glenora, had during the past year distributed some 660,242,611 fry of different species. Commercial fish taken during the year were valued at $2,886,398, while over 15,000 non-resident angling licenses had been issued.

As to the fur industry, the total number of pelts taken in 1923 was 769,070—a value to the trappers of $3,182,995. Some 20,222 hunting licenses had been issued during the year. In the same period the 294 fur farms of the province had increased their animals to 3,277.

Mr. McCrea devoted some time to the success which, he said, had attended the placing of English ring-necked pheasants. So well had the birds become adapted to Ontario conditions that one day's shooting had been possible both this year and last. In this connection, he dealt with enforcement of the Game and Fisheries Act, stating that the number of convictions for the year had been 861; that the total fines collected were $18,145, and that the receipts from the sale of confiscated articles were $10,253.

The vote of thanks to Mr. McCrea was moved by C. W. Nash, Vice-President of the club, who urged even greater conservation of animal life, and seconded by Dr. E. M. Walker, Professor R. B. Thomson, President of the club, occupied the chair.

ASKS FRANCE TO DEAL WITH THE TITLES QUESTION

Paris, Nov. 6.—A bill to sentence the state of nobility and its prerogatives to a slow death has been introduced in the Chamber of Deputies by Rene Renoult, the Minister of Justice.

The bill does not attempt to abolish titles, but by eliminating all government recognition and protection it would tend gradually to rob them of their value and significance. The actual object of the bill is to abolish the registration of titles with the chancellery of the ministry of justice, and to prohibit the use of titles in any public act.

At present, though France is the most republican of nations, the titles of nobility are not only recognized but protected. It is actually criminal not only to assume a title to which one is not entitled, but it is a misdemeanor even to place "de" without right before one's name.
