CANADA'S OFFICES IN LONDON

No Word From Mr. Borden as to What is to Be Done

(Times Special Correspondence). London, Aug. 27.—Now that the discussion of important matters of state which brought Mr. Borden and his colleagues here is over, it is expected that he will find time to consider the question of the location of the new Canadian headquarters in London. So far, it has not been stated whether or not it is proposed to consolidate all the Canadian provincial offices, and we hear a great deal of opposition to such a proposition.

The premier of British Columbia has decided that the London office of his government shall have its own establishment and if the option of the other provincial governments in London is sought, it would be found that their desires lie in the same direction. As to the best site for the new building, there is a difference of opinion. The vicinity of Westminster is favored by one set; the Strand-Adelphi site by another.

ANY WOMAN CAN HAVE BEAUTIFUL HAIR

Dandruff Disappears, Falling Hair Ceases, When You Use Parisian Sage

No preparation has done so much to stop falling hair, eradicate dandruff and make women's hair beautiful as PARISIAN Sage. It is the only certain destroyer of the dandruff microbe, the cause of most hair troubles. PARISIAN Sage is most delicately perfumed. It is an ideal preparation not sticky or greasy. It does not contain poisonous sugar of lead or sulphur or any eye. It is a magnificent dressing for women who desire luxuriant lustrous hair that complies with the requirements of modern life. Nothing can compare with it. It does away with terrible scalp itch over night and causes the hair to grow in abundance. And a large bottle of PARISIAN Sage costs only 20 cents at all drug and toilet goods counters. All druggists guarantee it.

An Experiment By RUTH CAMERON

"YOU may paddle all day long; but it is when you come back at nightfall and look in at the familiar room that you find love or death awaiting you beside the stove; and the most beautiful adventures are not those we go to seek."—Stevenson. "What canst thou see anywhere that thou seeest not here? Behold the heavens and the earth and all the elements, for out of these are all things made."—Thomas A. Kempis. Did you ever try to look at your home town and the country roundabout it as if you had come from a distance to see it? Truly that is a most interesting experiment. On a glorious summer evening just at the witching hour of sunset, three of us were drifting about in a canoe on a body of water near our home. Said one of the three, "How lovely the water-looks to night." Said another, "Really I don't know as I say anything any prettier on my vacation, though I traveled thousands of miles." It is that third member of the party that set up in the canoe and looking around as if he had suddenly seen something new and strange inquired, "Do you folks realize that if we had travelled two thousand miles to see this we would say it was one of the most beautiful places we ever saw?" Whereupon we all sat up, and looking out over the water through eyes from which the scales of habit had been removed for a moment, suddenly realized that that he said was true. Is it not strange how firmly we all cling to the idea that beauty is a thing which must be hunted and journeyed after, and may never by any chance be found at home? Next summer when we go on our vacation, some happy day when our ship comes in, and we sail away in it for a voyage around the world, then, we shall really see something very beautiful. And all the time we sail with the beauty which lies just outside our own door. We wonder at the peasants who live in the most beautiful part of the Alps in the wonderful places that yougers cross the world to see, and who do not realize that a more beautiful life is in the surroundings, so to speak, trouble to lift up their eyes to the hills. If we fail to recognize that measure of beauty, however humble, which lies within our own doors, at least those of us who are not wholly in a felonious arrangement of objects. It is also in an open eye and an eager heart. "Though we travel the world over to find the beautiful," says Emerson, "we must carry a little of the world with us, and that is ourselves." Are you discontented because you cannot travel? Are you fearful because there are so many beautiful things in the world that you will never see? That is hard, my friends, to realize that the most beautiful things of those of those beautiful things which you will never see are just beyond your own doors!

LA MARQUISE de FONTENOY Bishop of London Becomes Chaplain of London Rifle Brigade — A Matter of Genealogy

(Copyright, 1912, by the Brewster Company) Dr. Winton Ingram, whose income is $50,000 a year as Bishop of London, has just been promoted from a fourth class chaplaincy of the Territorial Force of the army, which carried with it the rank of captain, to a first class chaplaincy, with the rank of colonel, and as such attached to the London Rifle Brigade. Others newly entitled to draw pay and allowances as chaplains, are the Rev. Edward Ryle, Dean of Westminster, who looks after the spiritual needs of the Household Cavalry, and the Rev. Dr. Edward Gibson, who is one of the best equestrians of the Royal Household, and who is also a member of the English church who has the rank and pay of a general, namely: Major-General John Taylor Smith, chaplain-general of the army.

Not all the genes and colonies of the French army bearing German names have from Alsace and Lorraine, as so many people suppose. Some of the names of the French army, have completed their education in France, obtained naturalization here, and then returned to France as one of the French army. These people know that no matter how brilliant and clever their sons may be, they are not French until they are in the German army, owing to their inferior social position, and in a great measure, to their religion; for as far as the world is concerned, the spirit of caste is strong among the officers.

HOLD COUNCIL OF WAR

London, Aug. 30.—A "council of war" of the Salvation Army, at which 700 of the leading foreign and provincial officers met under the presidency of General and Mrs. Bramwell Booth, was held at Congress Hall, Chappin. The chief purpose of the meeting was to give the new general an opportunity of meeting his principal colleagues in the organization. The proceedings were marked with much enthusiasm. Speaker after speaker paid tribute to the work of the late general and pledged the loyalty of his followers to his successor. Miss Eva Booth, commander-in-chief in America, is resting after her rapid journey. She sent a message to the meeting stating that the American Salvation Army felt it was the new general the man it wanted. She concluded "they are now standing at attention waiting to obey orders." Sir Stung sent every Salvation Army corps in the world to hold a memorial service at which the "dead march" will be played.

It was at a charity dinner. A careless waiter split a plate of soup over one of the clergymen present. "What—" he began. Then remembering himself he turned to his neighbors and said—"Will some layman kindly say a few words appropriate to the occasion?" Over 20 Years' Established Reputation. COFFEE COOKIES. For Riga-Jig—One cup each of molasses, sugar and very strong coffee; half cup melted lard, two teaspoons soda dissolved in the coffee, two teaspoons cinnamon, and, if you like, a cup of chopped raisins. Flour enough for a moderately soft dough and roll them quite thick. GENIUS AND MARRIAGE. "The married life of a genius is usually unhappy—so is that of his wife." The speaker was Miss Helen Gould, who was discussing marriage in general. "To be the wife of a genius is bad," she said, "but to be the husband of one is much worse. At a musicale I heard a lady say: "Who is that man with the soft-bodied shirt and Windsor tie?" "He is the husband of the wonderful contralto, Vivace," her companion answered. "Yes," said the other, "but who was before his marriage?"—From the Washington Star.

"DARLING" CAME. The stout man lost all picking up a stone the companion of protest in the direction of the struck the man, who looked round what was the matter. "Darling," yelled the man, "for the last time, are you coming?" "Darling" got to his feet, and the job on the pier then melted away to think of other things. Mrs. Gabb—"Yes, my daughter appears to have married very happily. Her husband has not wealth, it must be admitted, but he has family." Mrs. Gadd—"Yes, I heard he was a widower with six children."
