SHOULD WOMEN VOTE?

There was a stirring debate in the House of Assembly last evening, in relation to the propriety of granting the franchise to women.

The value of $100 or personal property is the value of $400, or the value of $1000, or the value of $2000.

The result of the discussion so far is to show that the leader of the government is strongly opposed to granting the franchise to women.

perance movement. People hearabout, who read the Advance and know Mr. Smith will realize that such an action must emanate from a person either interested or inspired. Who ever came was operating on Mr. Stevens when he was in the city.

Mr. Stevens replied to this in a very vigorous fashion, saying among other things: "Who is D. G. Smith? He was years ago and subsequently following his natural predilection joined the Black Cross company, the maddest crowd probably that ever played that maddest and most immoral game. So he came to New Brunswick."

Smith, whose proper name is Smith, (he having changed it for prudential reasons when he came to the province) has always been a rowdy, a profligate and a law breaker and someone who knows him cares a continental for his opinion on any matter.

This is a strong language, and Mr. Smith says in his paper that he has taken steps to bring Mr. Stevens to account, and feeling remarks that "if a man whose life and character are in accord with the best standards of citizenship can be so slandered with impunity, it will be thought a disgrace to the country in which we live."

While this is quite true, and we would suggest that a better way for Mr. Smith and Mr. Stevens to make up and be friends, accusations that are not supported by facts should be withdrawn without any loss of dignity, and trust this course will be adopted by our Monitor and Chatham contemporaries.

The fact that brother Smith is and always has been a total abstainer, should not cause him to fail to see and admit the numerous shining virtues of brother Stevens. He has not thought a disgrace to the country in which we live.

Advantage printing office. The Gazette's staff—none of whom we are personally acquainted with—must we suppose, include some creature who can be cunningly hired to do such work by one of the few persons who make a business of fighting as this way.

We suggest to the Gazette writer—whatever he may be—that he engaged in a kind of dirty work that ought to keep him from looking an honest man squarely in the face.

We do not believe that either Sir Richard or his party deserve to face the country at the present and, if they have not the moral courage to do so, they should be asked to resign.

It was quite like Sir Richard Cartwright to visit Sir John A. Macdonald with being afraid to face the country just because of the Jenette bill agitation.

Greenshield, Toronto, who was asked to go to make arrangements to turn the Martin-Henry rides into repeating arms, arrived in Ottawa today on his way home.

He completed the experiment with small arms, and it was favorably reported on by the small arms committee of the Imperial parliament.

He has brought a couple of converted rifles here with him and will give an exhibition before the end of the week before Sir R. Cartwright and Sir Fred Middleton.

All correspondence relating to the Imperial resolutions were brought down today. Lord Knutsford is acknowledged their receipt, intimating that further resolutions were forwarded, he would glad to obtain the government's views thereon.

A delegation of the Fruit Growers' Association waited on the finance minister to-night and asked a grant of $1000 towards their annual meeting here.

Mr. Miles of Amqui, supported the request and took occasion to call the government's attention to the fact that lines subsidized by Canada charge higher freight rates than those of the U.S.

In the Senate today, Sir John Macdonald of British Columbia called attention to President Harrison's late proclamation against the Behring sea, and also asked as to the compensation to owners of vessels owned there in 1887.

Mr. Macdonald stated that the government had received intelligence that the Imperial navy council had decided the United States set of the chain of exclusive control of Behring sea. He thought it was but a formal notice by the president to America.

The question of compensation would be definite tomorrow. In reply to Mr. John Thompson, he said he had received intelligence that the Imperial navy council had decided the United States set of the chain of exclusive control of Behring sea.
