

POOR DOCUMENT

Vol. 2, No. 3

THE STAR, ST. JOHN N.B. MONDAY, JULY 12 1909

FOUR

THE ST. JOHN STAR is published by THE SUN PRINTING COMPANY, (LTD.) at St. John, New Brunswick, every afternoon (except Sunday) at $1.00 a year.

TELEPHONE:—

BUSINESS OFFICE, 25

EDITORIAL AND NEWS DEPT., 1127.

ST. JOHN STAR.

ST. JOHN, N. B., JULY 12, 1909.

THE ORANGEMEN.

Certainly the unfortunate religious animosity which developed during the stirring times of William Third has sufficiently disappeared to make the observation of July 12th in Canada at least, an occasion of general harmony and good feeling. And because the association of Orangemen, although still politically active, means so much less today than when it started, St. John heartily welcomes the many visitors who are now enjoying this city's hospitality. The gathering together of so many men, united in the bonds of even a political fraternity, must be productive of good in no other way than in strengthening the feeling of fellowship which should prevail among all men, and demolishing their racial and religious prejudices.

A suspicious sound came from the cellar. Mr. Vanastorbil sat up in his silk-campaned bed and listened. The ornate clock on the over-mantel struck the hour of midnight. Again came that suspicious sound from the subterranean regions. Burglars busy at the coal bin, eh? It strikes me that this is carrying matters a bit far, doesn't it? remarked Mr. Vanastorbil bitterly. And springing from his couch he grasped his trusty revolver and hastened cellward to checkmate the daring burglar of his precious anthracite. Will S. Gilday.

CARRYING THINGS TOO FAR.

Second Shopgirl—Is she leaving too good. First Shopgirl—No; for better or worse—Brooklyn Life.

THE WOMAN SLAVE HELPS TO ENSLAVE THE GIRLS.

"Then came to them the woman of whom I have spoken. She took them to her room. It was gorgeous with silken hangings and rare bric-a-brac. The furniture was of teakwood, inlaid with mother-of-pearl. On the mantel and cabinets were vases that were worth more than the little shop girls could earn in a dozen years. In a glass case was egg-shell china from Japan, and a king might have called it a museum. The woman offered the argument of the easiest way, and God knows it is a great temptation when one is young and hungry for the soft things of life, and is desperately poor. In the end she prevailed, and the girls were more sophisticated of the two girls."

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

A PSALM OF KNIFE (AND FORK).

Tell me not in mournful numbers There is nothing fit to eat; While there's cabbage and cucumbers every afternoon (except Sunday) at $1.00 a year.

TELEPHONE:—

BUSINESS OFFICE, 25

EDITORIAL AND NEWS DEPT., 1127.

ST. JOHN STAR.

ST. JOHN, N. B., JULY 12, 1909.

THE ORANGEMEN.

Certainly the unfortunate religious animosity which developed during the stirring times of William Third has sufficiently disappeared to make the observation of July 12th in Canada at least, an occasion of general harmony and good feeling. And because the association of Orangemen, although still politically active, means so much less today than when it started, St. John heartily welcomes the many visitors who are now enjoying this city's hospitality. The gathering together of so many men, united in the bonds of even a political fraternity, must be productive of good in no other way than in strengthening the feeling of fellowship which should prevail among all men, and demolishing their racial and religious prejudices.

A suspicious sound came from the cellar. Mr. Vanastorbil sat up in his silk-campaned bed and listened. The ornate clock on the over-mantel struck the hour of midnight. Again came that suspicious sound from the subterranean regions. Burglars busy at the coal bin, eh? It strikes me that this is carrying matters a bit far, doesn't it? remarked Mr. Vanastorbil bitterly. And springing from his couch he grasped his trusty revolver and hastened cellward to checkmate the daring burglar of his precious anthracite. Will S. Gilday.

CARRYING THINGS TOO FAR.

Second Shopgirl—Is she leaving too good. First Shopgirl—No; for better or worse—Brooklyn Life.

THE WOMAN SLAVE HELPS TO ENSLAVE THE GIRLS.

"Then came to them the woman of whom I have spoken. She took them to her room. It was gorgeous with silken hangings and rare bric-a-brac. The furniture was of teakwood, inlaid with mother-of-pearl. On the mantel and cabinets were vases that were worth more than the little shop girls could earn in a dozen years. In a glass case was egg-shell china from Japan, and a king might have called it a museum. The woman offered the argument of the easiest way, and God knows it is a great temptation when one is young and hungry for the soft things of life, and is desperately poor. In the end she prevailed, and the girls were more sophisticated of the two girls."

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

A DAY IN THE LIFE OF THE PRINCESS JULIANA

As H. R. H. the Princess Juliana is now several weeks old, we may begin to speak about her habits and the routine of her daily life. The great event of the morning is the bath, at which both the mother and the grandmother like to assist; then she is dressed in the baby-chings her own mother wore, though many dainty frocks have been added to the existing layette; the one presented by Her Majesty's Mistress of the Robes and the Irish lace robe given by the Dutch colony in London being among the prettiest.

An airing in the garden is the next item on the day's programme. As soon as the weather is suitable the Princess will spend the whole day in the open air, only going indoors for the purpose of meals and dressing, but just now it is not warm enough. Being a springtime baby, Her Royal Highness will have the white muslin to get used to the air, which, it is hoped will harden her so much that she can continue going out during the winter months.

With a view to her future life she has to go out every day; in that respect she will be brought up like Queen Wilhelmina, who drove out in any weather so as not to disappoint the public. If the weather should turn out bad on the day of a royal visit or a national festival, the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world; it is a proverb not applicable to Dutch babies, as "rodding" comfort in the children, which up to that time had been attributed to other causes. So now the cradles are movable; the baby may not even be taken out and walked about the room to be hushed or soothed.

NOT ALLOWED TO SPOIL BABY.

To the young mothers it is often very hard not to be allowed to coddle their babies as much as they like. The little princess is as strictly brought up in this respect as any of her future subjects, and thrives as well on the system as they do.

The Queen also strictly keeps to the appointed hour for meals, which take place every three hours. The fact that the Queen nurses her baby herself is a matter of course. All medical authorities, the leading article in the medical paper, Molecholt, saying: "If Queen Wilhelmina had never done anything else in her life but setting the example she now sets to the young mothers, it is often very hard not to be allowed to coddle their babies as much as they like. The little princess is as strictly brought up in this respect as any of her future subjects, and thrives as well on the system as they do."

THE MYSTERIES OF CHINATOWN.

(By Dorothy Dix.)

A young girl's dead hand has pulled aside the veil that enshrouds the mysteries of Chinatown, and bit by bit the secret of the life that goes on in the crowded, narrow streets of the city within our city are beginning to be known.

The story of three women that I am going to tell you here is a typical one, but it is almost whispered down the streets of Chinatown, and bit by bit the secret of the life that goes on in the crowded, narrow streets of the city within our city are beginning to be known.

The story of three women that I am going to tell you here is a typical one, but it is almost whispered down the streets of Chinatown, and bit by bit the secret of the life that goes on in the crowded, narrow streets of the city within our city are beginning to be known.

The story of three women that I am going to tell you here is a typical one, but it is almost whispered down the streets of Chinatown, and bit by bit the secret of the life that goes on in the crowded, narrow streets of the city within our city are beginning to be known.

The story of three women that I am going to tell you here is a typical one, but it is almost whispered down the streets of Chinatown, and bit by bit the secret of the life that goes on in the crowded, narrow streets of the city within our city are beginning to be known.

The story of three women that I am going to tell you here is a typical one, but it is almost whispered down the streets of Chinatown, and bit by bit the secret of the life that goes on in the crowded, narrow streets of the city within our city are beginning to be known.

The story of three women that I am going to tell you here is a typical one, but it is almost whispered down the streets of Chinatown, and bit by bit the secret of the life that goes on in the crowded, narrow streets of the city within our city are beginning to be known.

The story of three women that I am going to tell you here is a typical one, but it is almost whispered down the streets of Chinatown, and bit by bit the secret of the life that goes on in the crowded, narrow streets of the city within our city are beginning to be known.

The story of three women that I am going to tell you here is a typical one, but it is almost whispered down the streets of Chinatown, and bit by bit the secret of the life that goes on in the crowded, narrow streets of the city within our city are beginning to be known.

The story of three women that I am going to tell you here is a typical one, but it is almost whispered down the streets of Chinatown, and bit by bit the secret of the life that goes on in the crowded, narrow streets of the city within our city are beginning to be known.

The story of three women that I am going to tell you here is a typical one, but it is almost whispered down the streets of Chinatown, and bit by bit the secret of the life that goes on in the crowded, narrow streets of the city within our city are beginning to be known.

The story of three women that I am going to tell you here is a typical one, but it is almost whispered down the streets of Chinatown, and bit by bit the secret of the life that goes on in the crowded, narrow streets of the city within our city are beginning to be known.

The story of three women that I am going to tell you here is a typical one, but it is almost whispered down the streets of Chinatown, and bit by bit the secret of the life that goes on in the crowded, narrow streets of the city within our city are beginning to be known.

POOR BLOOD

Is for want of IRON in it

BLAUDS IRON PILLS

supply IRON to the blood making it rich and healthful.

PER BOTTLE OF 100 PILLS 25 CENTS

FRANK E. PORTER, PRESCRIPTION DRUGGIST

Cor. Union and St. Patrick Sts.

came with had gone, scared, probably, by what they had done. Above the bent face of the benevolent old Chinaman, and he was telling them how it was 'all life' and that he loved them, and that they were beautiful, and what he would do for them if they would stay; but they were hysterical with fear.

THE WOMAN SLAVE HELPS TO ENSLAVE THE GIRLS.

"Then came to them the woman of whom I have spoken. She took them to her room. It was gorgeous with silken hangings and rare bric-a-brac. The furniture was of teakwood, inlaid with mother-of-pearl. On the mantel and cabinets were vases that were worth more than the little shop girls could earn in a dozen years. In a glass case was egg-shell china from Japan, and a king might have called it a museum. The woman offered the argument of the easiest way, and God knows it is a great temptation when one is young and hungry for the soft things of life, and is desperately poor. In the end she prevailed, and the girls were more sophisticated of the two girls."

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

THE PRINCESS JULIANA.

At night the infant Princess sleeps in a room overlooking the palace gardens. She is watched by one of her two nurses, and she sleeps there in the cradle used by Queen Wilhelmina, which was fitted up again for this purpose, by order of the Queen-Mother. The Princess has been away very often during the day of late, as nearly all the royal duties now devolve on him. But the moment he comes home his steps are directed towards her Royal Highness's apartments.

CITY THE SCENE OF SHAM FIGHT

62nd. Regiment Out Saturday

Both Sides Claim Victory—Judges Fail to Render Decision

St. John was the centre of a sham battle Saturday afternoon, when the 62nd Regiment held a miniature war at Port Howe. The regiment was formed into two divisions. The attacking party, under command of Major Farley, assembled at the Barrack Green, and the defensive in command of Capt. Peters and Lieut. May, assembled at Port Howe.

Scouts of the attacking party were sent in advance and the red coats seen throughout the city presented a very active appearance.

Various companies arriving from different directions assembled on Moore street and advanced along Rockland road toward the rocky heights. About one hundred and fifty men comprised the attacking force.

These were aided by two signal stations, one at the fort and the second on the hill back of Rockland road. News of the attacking force was received at the fort from the signallers and upon training the direction of approach, pickets were sent out to reconnoitre and everything made ready for the onslaught, which lasted for nearly two hours.

The attacking party claim to have successfully stormed the rocky incline, but Capt. Peters emphatically asserts that the men who were taken to the rear were not the enemy, but were only officers acting as judges, viewing the battle from advantageous positions. A decision, however, was not rendered.

Sergt. Hopkins, of the R. C. R., instructed the men in various movements, and explained why they should be down, which proved of material benefit.

EXQUIMAUX TO HUNT FOR POLE

NEW YORK, July 10.—Mene Walker, the decorated and homesick Esquimaux boy who sailed today for North Greenland to join his own people, issued a "farewell statement" today in which he declared that upon reaching his destination he will organize a nation and start in search of the pole. He believes that he can succeed where white men have failed, and who for some time has been living with Sedgewick Towers at Tower Hill, about ten miles from St. Stephen, attempted suicide at that place last night. He is in town nearly all day yesterday and it is claimed that he had been drinking heavily. It seems that on his return home that he and Mr. Towers had some words, and he pulled out a .22 calibre revolver and pointed it at his own forehead and pulled the trigger. The bullet struck the bone above his eye and glanced off. It is reported that he was not hurt, but by this time some of the neighbors had gathered and managed to disarm him. Pleading to let him go free some of the residents brought him in town and today he was placed in the jail. He will probably be tried tomorrow for attempting suicide.

NATURALLY.

"What is your name, little boy?" "George, named after Columbus." "I don't see how that can be." "Well, my father lived a hundred years a big enough margin."

Are You Ruptured?

We can fit you with one of the famous JELCO TRUSSES, make you comfortable and secure.

Do not neglect a rupture.

E. CLINTON BROWN

Druggist

Cor. Union and Waterloo Sts.

If You Must Wear Glasses

WEAR BECOMING ONES.

We make a special study in these days of fitting glasses, and assure entire satisfaction, not only for correctness of lenses, but also for the accuracy of the prescription.

D. BOYANER, Optician, 38 Dock St.

FERGUSON & PAGE.

Jewelry, Etc.

41 King St.

CANADIAN ORDER FORESTERS

Assessment System, Fraternal Insurance.

NIGHT OF MEETINGS CITY COURTS.

COURT ST. JOHN, No. 40—Orange Hall, German street, last Friday in month.

COURT UNION JACK, No. 44—Orange Hall, German Street, 4th Wednesday.

COURT NORTH END, No. 57—Union Hall, Main street, last Tuesday each month.

COURT YUKON, No. 73—Orange Hall, Simonds street, Third Wednesday.

COURT HIAWATHA, No. 143—Temperance Hall, Market Building, 1st Wednesday.

Office of the order

PALMER'S CHAMBERS,

44 Princess Street.

R. V. WIGMORE, District Deputy.

D. R. KENNEDY, District Organizer.

Read Classified Ads.

PAGE 3

TRIES TO END HIS OWN LIFE

Calais Young Man Places Pistol to His Head and Fires

ST. STEPHEN, N. B., July 11.—The two Chinamen, who while taking a car ride through St. Stephen and Calais two weeks ago, were arrested by the U. S. Immigration officials in Calais and afterwards sent to Richmond, Va., returned here yesterday looking none the worse for their trip. At the hearing they plainly showed they were merely taking a holiday, and in order to take in the round trip had to pass through Calais. After communicating with the immigration officials at Ottawa they were set free and allowed to return. They both say now that Canada is good enough for them.

A young man named "Dodge" Ferguson, at one time a resident of Calais, but who for some time has been living with Sedgewick Towers at Tower Hill, about ten miles from St. Stephen, attempted suicide at that place last night. He is in town nearly all day yesterday and it is claimed that he had been drinking heavily. It seems that on his return home that he and Mr. Towers had some words, and he pulled out a .22 calibre revolver and pointed it at his own forehead and pulled the trigger. The bullet struck the bone above his eye and glanced off. It is reported that he was not hurt, but by this time some of the neighbors had gathered and managed to disarm him. Pleading to let him go free some of the residents brought him in town and today he was placed in the jail. He will probably be tried tomorrow for attempting suicide.

CAUTION!