FOX RANCHING COMPANY HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Charles Dalton Silver Black Fox Co. History of Interest to All Ranchers.

The annual meeting of the Charles Dalton Silver Black Fox Co., was one of the events in St. John last week.

This company was organized two years ago with a capital of $625,000, and the fact that it had for its president and largest shareholder, Hon. Charles Dalton, a great pioneer of the industry, gave it more than usual prominence in commercial circles. The loss last spring of twenty litters, estimated to be worth $240,000, caused a big sensation at the time. This disaster to the company was, of course, fully dealt with in the directors' report submitted at the annual meeting. The cause was attributed to the heavy snow and sleet storm of April last, which covered the barns and shutes. A panic, it is believed started in the ranch. The mother foxes in their alarm sought to remove their young from the dens, which were warm and comfortable with the result that the pups perished in the snow and were afterwards devoured by the old ones. Other ranches in the neighborhood suffered heavy losses in a like manner. To guard against a recurrence of such losses in the future, the Dalton directors have erected close board fences on the sides of the ranch most exposed to storms, they have removed the dens from the side of the pens where the animals might have been disturbed by the friction of wires during a heavy wind, and they have built new houses, in two compartments, affording more air space, one of them being a larger room outside the den to which the mother fox could take her young in case of alarm and where they will be protected from snow.

During the storm, referred to, a couple of pairs of foxes, much tamer than the others, and consequently not affected by alarm, saved their young, and pups born after the storm were raised without difficulty, eleven in all surviving the debacle, ten of which were raised to maturity.

One fox was killed by its mate in the middle of March and the pet sold in the London market for £80 ($400). Although killed at a time when the fur would not be in its prime, the pet brought the fifth highest price in the June sales. The animal had not been a very healthy one, having been injured in the head some time before the mate killed her. Had she been in good condition, and killed earlier in the season, the pet would have brought $1500 to $2000. One pup died when two months old. Of the ten animals which survived, three were sold and the remaining six were put back in the ranch to the credit of the shareholders; making for next year breeding twenty-three pairs in all.

Owing to the drop in prices caused mainly by the war, it was decided not to sell the three pairs. The proceeds from those sold was sufficient to pay expenses and leave a balance of $1800 and consequently no dividend could be paid.

At the meeting, there were naturally a number of disappointed shareholders who had questions to ask and these were answered fully and satisfactorily by the directors. It was shown that despite the heavy losses the capital of the company was unimpaired, and three pairs of breeders added to the ranch. Reports had been circulated that, for a few, pups had been born, as the foxes were too old to breed.

Mr. A. B. Warburton, one of the directors, emphatically denied this. The oldest pair was ten years of age, and they had bred twice since being acquired by the company. The ages of the others ranged all the way from six years down to this spring's pups.

Mr. Dalton, who has had a quarter of a century experience in raising foxes, stated that he had incurred losses in the past through snow storms. The mother foxes had taken away their young, buried them in the snow and subsequently devoured them.

A number of optimistic speeches on the situation were delivered by a number of the shareholders. Several money men stated that in many industrial companies in which they were interested, the dividends had been either cut or passed altogether. The Dalton Company paid 40 p. c. last year, and although nothing was paid this year the shareholders had an average of 20 p. c. for the two years—not a bad showing.

One of the shareholders asked Mr. Dalton on the event of no young foxes being sold from the ranch next year, how would the company raise money to pay expenses. Mr. Dalton said that he did not anticipate any such condition, even if the war was not over by that time, but if it were absolutely necessary to do so, pups could be sold for these there was a good market in the States, if not in England.

An interesting statement was made at the meeting by Mr. S. J. Wedlock, who is managing director of the Canada Atlantic Fox and Fur Co. Ltd., a company capitalized at a million dollars. Mr. Wedlock, while abroad selling stock, had a conversation with Revillon Bros., the great fur dealers of New York. They just received a large consignment of pelts from the Hudson Bay district. They informed him that they had a pair of wild silver skins which were worth $4,000 for the pair, and said that the price of two ranch bred pure silver skins should bring considerably more money. They had no such skins on hand, and were desirous

PRESENTED WITH PURSE

("Canadian Grocer," November 20th) Prior to his departure from Peterborough, Ontario, for St. John, N. B., N. C. Cameron, who has been the secretary of the Peterborough branch of the Retail Merchants' Association for some time was presented with a purse of gold by the association there. A special meeting of the executive of the R. M. A. there was held on Friday evening last, at which the gift was tendered, and at which several speeches eulogistic of the work of Mr. Cameron were made. Particular reference was made to the fight he put up during his tenure of office against transients who attempted to do business in that city without paying the necessary license. For some weeks past he has been engaged in organization work in St. John, and has been appointed Provincial Secretary, with headquarters in that city.

A SIMPLE WAY TO REMCVE DANDRUFF

Prevent Falling Hair and End Itching Scalp.

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need) apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve, and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you value your hair, you should get rid of dandruff at once, for nothing destroys the hair so quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, stringy, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everybody notices it.
