They suggest the foregoing plans in the earnest hope that no delay may be offered in commencing with early spring, believing that if proceeded with, as directed, and managed in the manner described, there can be no doubt of the success of the whole undertaking, all of which is respectfully submitted on behalf of the Executive Committee.

President of the York County Agricultural Society.

Fredericton, N. B., December 31st, 1861.

P. S.—They recommend the discontinuance of showing animals and articles at our Exhibition by numbers. It gave general dissatisfaction at the Provincial Exhibition, and is being generally disapproved of at our own Shows, and we should leave off a practice which is one of the relics of ignorance. It is not the paltry prize that exhibitors look after, and it is not to be kept in ignorance of what is going on that people interested in these annual exhibitions attend, and they are also of opinion that it makes no more honest decisions by the judges. They would also inform the Society that our late and worthy Patron has left this Province, his term of administration having expired. The Patronage of the Society is therefore vacant.

P. P. S.—Since the foregoing Report was adopted by the Society, the County Council held its annual meeting in January and passed the order for the Warden to issue the debentures, which has accordingly been done, by the Mayor and Warden on behalf of each corporation, and was put into the hands of our Treasurer, J. A. Beckwith, Esq., on the 17th February, 1862.
