

The Real Gentleman.

A man of true and sterling worth,
A real gentleman, who's worth
And his education,
Though well possessed of "worldly wit,"
Will over estimate himself Above his generation.

No member of the human race, Whose heart is in the proper place,
Will pass his fellow men Because he's not a man of note.
Because he wears a shabby coat,
And happens to be poor.

He knows that property change in time,
That poverty is not a crime.
He needs not over to be told That poverty is worth that gold,
The dingle in the road.

He knows that men depend on self,
As good or better than himself, In lowly paths he leads His spirit, just as pure and true As breath beneath the heaven's blue, Work for their daily bread.

From him will fall no freezing frown, No vile attempt to crush you down,
But by you stand,
Kind words and smiles will cheer impart,
And always find it in his heart To lend a helping hand.

Wisdom and Water.

Fields are green in the early light,
When morning treads on the heels of night, Fields are grey when the sun goes west,
Like a clerk from the city in search of rest, You've probably read that "fish is gray,"
And that's the reason it comes to pass That we change our color in life's long day,
From the young and green to the old and gray.

A short time since—as it seems to me—I was as young as a young could be;
Filling my head, as children do,
With notions of life more naive than true.
Now, this middle of mine looks strange,
With plenty of silver, and no small change.
Surely I've travelled the shortest way
From the young and green to the old and gray.

Truly the day is a varying thing—In winter and summer, autumn and spring; But days of December and days of June Run into twilight a deal too soon.
Life is a drama; the world a stage,
And the piece we strut from youth to age May run, like a farce or a five-act play,
From the young and green to the old and gray.

QUESTY.—A charitable society find that one woman is worth a dozen men in collecting money. Wonder if it made any discoveries regarding their comparative worth in spending it.

Wear your learning like your watch, in a private pocket, and don't pull it out to show that you have one; but if you are asked what o'clock it is, tell it.

A factious fellow having unwillingly angered a cowed puppy, the latter told him he was no gentleman. Are you a gentleman? I asked the dog. Yes, sir, answered the pup. Then I am very glad that I am not.

What Souffaker is that whose box ge-fuller the more snuff he takes? The snuffers.

Happiness grows at our own desires and is not to be picked up in strangers' gardens.

Why is playing at chess a more exemplary occupation than playing cards? Because you play at chess with two bishops, and at cards with four knaves.

The Pope was seventeen-three years old on the 13th of May, and on the 16th of this month he reached the 19th year of his pontificate.

A person who disliked pork, was once called upon by a great number of people, where the principal dish was a roast pig. He is reported to have said:—"O Lord, if thou canst bless under the Gospel, what thou
didst curse under the Law, bless this pig."

A medical student under examination, being asked the different effects of heat and
cold, replied:—"Heat expands and cold contracts."—"Quite right; can you give me an example?"—"Yes sir, in summer, which
is hot, the days are longer; but in winter, which is cold, the days are shorter."

As a man deeply involved in debt was walking in the street with a very melancholy
air one of his acquaintances asked him
why he looked so sorrowful, and said: "I am in a state of insolvency." Well, said his friend, if that is the case it is not you but your creditors who ought to wear a sorrowful countenance.

The Saddle Wife.

Of old, when Jupiter, the father of gods,
was in the habit of descending to earth
in the shape of a man, he was not
that one night, overtaken by a military band, he was taken to a military
place. He remained there, but found
no shelter, and was left to suffer the night. He was taken to a military
place. He remained there, but found
no shelter, and was left to suffer
the night. He was taken to a military
place. He remained there, but found
no shelter, and was left to suffer
the night.

A STRANGE MILITARY MACHINE.—In
the course of a ride in the French Camp Leprieux, M. Leprieux mentioned the recent invention of an "infernal machine" at Toulon, which, he said, rendered useless the conventional means of attack, and opened the way to a new and more powerful
method of warfare.

If the progress of perpetual and universal peace, opened by an infernal machine, is
to be realized, that infernal machine is a devilish good thing.—Punch.

MAINTAIN.—It resembles a pair of shears, which they may be compared to, and
often saying in some instances, yet ways punishing any one who comes between them.

An old man, on the Fort Providence,
Margate, stepped up to him and inquired,
"What rent do you ask for those houses?"
"Why do you ask me such a question?"
said he. "Faith, and I thought the whole tenor belonged to ye," replied the Irishman.

The Rev. Mr. Johnson was one of those rough but quaint preachers of the former generation who were fond of visiting and
good living. While seated at the table of a good lady in a neighbouring parish, she
asked him if he took milk in his tea. "Yes, ma'am when I can't get cream," was the
ready reply.

A PIG WITH A WOODEN LEG.—A tailor
in a Pig-wig, who had a pig which he got one of its legs broken, had replaced the injured limb with a wooden one. It is curious to see the animal hobbling about,
but it is thriving as well as it did before it
met with the accident.—Edinburgh Courier.

It was decidedly a generous-hearted young-
man that divided an orange between his sweetheart and her mother, and, being advised at the same time not to be so free with his, said he would rub himself, and replied in a drawing tone:—"Oh no, thank-
you. Take a whole half, each of you. It does me good to see you eat and enjoy it;
and besides, it's a 'robber' myself, for I have got three more in my coat tail pocket."

A newspaper correspondent writing of the beauties of Cairo, Illinois, says, "The reason
here is usually regarded with great credit by
small pox, continued epidemics by cholera,
and closed up brilliantly with yellow fever.
Sweet spot!"

What a place for Mark Tapley to be jolly
in?

If you don't want to get angry never argue with a blockhead. Remember the duller the razor the more you cut yourself.

APPLE TREE WORMS.—If you want to destroy these, as well as those of the gooseberry and currant bush, dip a clothes coat broom in coal oil and give the trees a slight sprinkling. A very little answers the purpose: the caterpillars will drop down by hundreds and die, while the vegetation
of the tree remains uninjured. There is no need to saturate them—a slight sprinkle is quite sufficient.

THE STRIPPED SUE.—The only true preventative for the attack of this insect upon cucumber and melon plants is to enclose the plants within four pieces of board, three inches high, nailed together at the corners.
Cover them with a piece of glass or oiled paper for a day or two, when it may be removed altogether. The bugs will not again find the plant, as they always alight on the ground before commencing their attack, and the boards are in their way.

In a short time the plants will have outgrown all fear of their depredations, when the boards can be removed.

It is said that there is a man down east whose feet are so large that he cannot get into the principal dish of a roast pig.
He is reported to have said:—"O Lord,
if thou canst bless under the Gospel, what thou
didst curse under the Law, bless this pig."

A medical student under examination,
being asked the different effects of heat and
cold, replied:—"Heat expands and cold contracts."—"Quite right; can you give me
an example?"—"Yes sir, in summer, which
is hot, the days are longer; but in winter,
which is cold, the days are shorter."

As a man deeply involved in debt was
walking in the street with a very melancholy
air one of his acquaintances asked him
why he looked so sorrowful, and said: "I
am in a state of insolvency." Well, said
his friend, if that is the case it is not you
but your creditors who ought to wear a
sorrowful countenance.

The Saddle Wife.

Of old, when Jupiter, the father of gods,
was in the habit of descending to earth
in the shape of a man, he was not
that one night, overtaken by a military
band, he was taken to a military
place. He remained there, but found
no shelter, and was left to suffer
the night. He was taken to a military
place. He remained there, but found
no shelter, and was left to suffer
the night. He was taken to a military
place. He remained there, but found
no shelter, and was left to suffer
the night.

A STRANGE MILITARY MACHINE.—In
the course of a ride in the French Camp
Leprieux, M. Leprieux mentioned the
recent invention of an "infernal machine" at
Toulon, which, he said, rendered useless the
conventional means of attack, and opened
the way to a new and more powerful
method of warfare.

If the progress of perpetual and universal
peace, opened by an infernal machine, is
to be realized, that infernal machine is
a devilish good thing.—Punch.

MAINTAIN.—It resembles a pair of shears,
which they may be compared to, and
often saying in some instances, yet
ways punishing any one who comes between
them.

An old man, on the Fort Providence,
Margate, stepped up to him and inquired,
"What rent do you ask for those houses?"
"Why do you ask me such a question?"
said he. "Faith, and I thought the whole
tenor belonged to ye," replied the Irish-
man.

The Rev. Mr. Johnson was one of those
rough but quaint preachers of the former
generation who were fond of visiting and
good living. While seated at the table of
a good lady in a neighbouring parish, she
asked him if he took milk in his tea. "Yes,
ma'am when I can't get cream," was the
ready reply.

A PIG WITH A WOODEN LEG.—A tailor
in a Pig-wig, who had a pig which he
got one of its legs broken, had replaced the
injured limb with a wooden one. It is
curious to see the animal hobbling about,
but it is thriving as well as it did before it
met with the accident.—Edinburgh Courier.

It was decidedly a generous-hearted young-
man that divided an orange between his
sweetheart and her mother, and, being advised at the same time not to be so free
with his, said he would rub himself, and replied in a drawing tone:—"Oh no, thank-
you. Take a whole half, each of you. It
does me good to see you eat and enjoy it;
and besides, it's a 'robber' myself, for I
have got three more in my coat tail pocket."

A newspaper correspondent writing of the
beauties of Cairo, Illinois, says, "The reason
here is usually regarded with great credit by
small pox, continued epidemics by cholera,
and closed up brilliantly with yellow fever.
Sweet spot!"

What a place for Mark Tapley to be jolly
in?

If you don't want to get angry never
argue with a blockhead. Remember the
duller the razor the more you cut yourself.

APPLE TREE WORMS.—If you want
to destroy these, as well as those of the
gooseberry and currant bush, dip a clothes
coat broom in coal oil and give the trees a slight sprinkling. A very little answers the
purpose: the caterpillars will drop down
by hundreds and die, while the vegetation
of the tree remains uninjured. There is no
need to saturate them—a slight sprinkle is
quite sufficient.

THE STRIPPED SUE.—The only true preventative for the attack of this insect upon
cucumber and melon plants is to enclose
the plants within four pieces of board, three
inches high, nailed together at the corners.
Cover them with a piece of glass or oiled
paper for a day or two, when it may be removed altogether. The bugs will not again
find the plant, as they always alight on
the ground before commencing their attack,
and the boards are in their way.

In a short time the plants will have out-
grown all fear of their depredations, when
the boards can be removed.

It is said that there is a man down east
whose feet are so large that he cannot get
into the principal dish of a roast pig.
He is reported to have said:—"O Lord,
if thou canst bless under the Gospel, what thou
didst curse under the Law, bless this pig."

A medical student under examination,
being asked the different effects of heat and
cold, replied:—"Heat expands and cold contracts."—"Quite right; can you give me
an example?"—"Yes sir, in summer, which
is hot, the days are longer; but in winter,
which is cold, the days are shorter."

As a man deeply involved in debt was
walking in the street with a very melancholy
air one of his acquaintances asked him
why he looked so sorrowful, and said: "I am in a state of insolvency." Well, said
his friend, if that is the case it is not you
but your creditors who ought to wear a
sorrowful countenance.

The Saddle Wife.

Of old, when Jupiter, the father of gods,
was in the habit of descending to earth
in the shape of a man, he was not
that one night, overtaken by a military
band, he was taken to a military
place. He remained there, but found
no shelter, and was left to suffer
the night. He was taken to a military
place. He remained there, but found
no shelter, and was left to suffer
the night. He was taken to a military
place. He remained there, but found
no shelter, and was left to suffer
the night.

A STRANGE MILITARY MACHINE.—In
the course of a ride in the French Camp
Leprieux, M. Leprieux mentioned the
recent invention of an "infernal machine" at
Toulon, which, he said, rendered useless the
conventional means of attack, and opened
the way to a new and more powerful
method of warfare.

If the progress of perpetual and universal
peace, opened by an infernal machine, is
to be realized, that infernal machine is
a devilish good thing.—Punch.

MAINTAIN.—It resembles a pair of shears,
which they may be compared to, and
often saying in some instances, yet
ways punishing any one who comes between
them.

An old man, on the Fort Providence,
Margate, stepped up to him and inquired,
"What rent do you ask for those houses?"
"Why do you ask me such a question?"
said he. "Faith, and I thought the whole
tenor belonged to ye," replied the Irish-
man.

The Rev. Mr. Johnson was one of those
rough but quaint preachers of the former
generation who were fond of visiting and
good living. While seated at the table of
a good lady in a neighbouring parish, she
asked him if he took milk in his tea. "Yes,
ma'am when I can't get cream," was the
ready reply.

A PIG WITH A WOODEN LEG.—A tailor
in a Pig-wig, who had a pig which he
got one of its legs broken, had replaced the
injured limb with a wooden one. It is
curious to see the animal hobbling about,
but it is thriving as well as it did before it
met with the accident.—Edinburgh Courier.

It was decidedly a generous-hearted young-
man that divided an orange between his
sweetheart and her mother, and, being advised at the same time not to be so free
with his, said he would rub himself, and replied in a drawing tone:—"Oh no, thank-
you. Take a whole half, each of you. It
does me good to see you eat and enjoy it;
and besides, it's a 'robber' myself, for I
have got three more in my coat tail pocket."

A newspaper correspondent writing of the
beauties of Cairo, Illinois, says, "The reason
here is usually regarded with great credit by
small pox, continued epidemics by cholera,
and closed up brilliantly with yellow fever.
Sweet spot!"

What a place for Mark Tapley to be jolly
in?

If you don't want to get angry never
argue with a blockhead. Remember the
duller the razor the more you cut yourself.

APPLE TREE WORMS.—If you want
to destroy these, as well as those of the
gooseberry and currant bush, dip a clothes
coat broom in coal oil and give the trees a slight sprinkling. A very little answers the
purpose: the caterpillars will drop down
by hundreds and die, while the vegetation
of the tree remains uninjured. There is no
need to saturate them—a slight sprinkle is
quite sufficient.

THE STRIPPED SUE.—The only true preventative for the attack of this insect upon
cucumber and melon plants is to enclose
the plants within four pieces of board, three
inches high, nailed together at the corners.
Cover them with a piece of glass or oiled
paper for a day or two, when it may be removed altogether. The bugs will not again
find the plant, as they always alight on
the ground before commencing their attack,
and the boards are in their way.

In a short time the plants will have out-
grown all fear of their depredations, when
the boards can be removed.

It is said that there is a man down east
whose feet are so large that he cannot get
into the principal dish of a roast pig.
He is reported to have said:—"O Lord,
if thou canst bless under the Gospel, what thou
didst curse under the Law, bless this pig."

A medical student under examination,
being asked the different effects of heat and
cold, replied:—"Heat expands and cold contracts."—"Quite right; can you give me
an example?"—"Yes sir, in summer, which
is hot, the days are longer; but in winter,
which is cold, the days are shorter."

As a man deeply involved in debt was
walking in the street with a very melancholy
air one of his acquaintances asked him
why he looked so sorrowful, and said: "I
am in a state of insolvency." Well, said
his friend, if that is the case it is not you
but your creditors who ought to wear a
sorrowful countenance.

The Saddle Wife.

Of old, when Jupiter, the father of gods,
was in the habit of descending to earth
in the shape of a man, he was not
that one night, overtaken by a military
band, he was taken to a military
place. He remained there, but found
no shelter, and was left to suffer
the night. He was taken to a military
place. He remained there, but found
no shelter, and was left to suffer
the night. He was taken to a military
place. He remained there, but found
no shelter, and was left to suffer
the night.

A STRANGE MILITARY MACHINE.—In
the course of a ride in the French Camp
Leprieux, M. Leprieux mentioned the
recent invention of an "infernal machine" at
Toulon, which, he said, rendered useless the
conventional means of attack, and opened
the way to a new and more powerful
method of warfare.

If the progress of perpetual and universal
peace, opened by an infernal machine, is
to be realized, that infernal machine is
a devilish good thing.—Punch.

MAINTAIN.—It resembles a pair of shears,
which they may be compared to, and
often saying in some instances, yet
ways punishing any one who comes between
them.

An old man, on the Fort Providence,
Margate, stepped up to him and inquired,
"What rent do you ask for those houses?"
"Why do you ask me such a question?"
said he. "Faith, and I thought the whole
tenor belonged to ye," replied the Irish-
man.

The Rev. Mr. Johnson was one of those
rough but quaint preachers of the former
generation who were fond of visiting and
good living. While seated at the table of
a good lady in a neighbouring parish, she
asked him if he took milk in his tea. "Yes,
ma'am when I can't get cream," was the
ready reply.

A PIG WITH A WOODEN LEG.—A tailor
in a Pig-wig, who had a pig which he
got one of its legs broken, had replaced the
injured limb with a wooden one. It is
curious to see the animal hobbling about,
but it is thriving as well as it did before it
met with the accident.—Edinburgh Courier.

It was decidedly a generous-hearted young-
man that divided an orange between his
sweetheart and her mother, and, being advised at the same time not to be so free
with his, said he would rub himself, and replied in a drawing tone:—"Oh no, thank-
you. Take a whole half, each of you. It
does me good to see you eat and enjoy it;
and besides, it's a 'robber' myself, for I
have got three more in my coat tail pocket."

A newspaper correspondent writing of the
beauties of Cairo, Illinois, says, "The reason
here is usually regarded with great credit by
small pox, continued epidemics by cholera,
and closed up brilliantly with yellow fever.
Sweet spot!"

What a place for Mark Tapley to be jolly
in?

If you don't want to get angry never
argue with a blockhead. Remember the
duller the razor the more you cut yourself.

APPLE TREE WORMS.—If you want
to destroy these, as well as those of the
gooseberry and currant bush, dip a clothes
coat broom in coal oil and give the trees a slight sprinkling. A very little answers the
purpose: the caterpillars will drop down
by hundreds and die, while the vegetation
of the tree remains uninjured. There is no
need to saturate them—a slight sprinkle is
quite sufficient.

THE STRIPPED SUE.—The only true preventative for the attack of this insect upon
cucumber and melon plants is to enclose
the plants within four pieces of board, three
inches high, nailed together at the corners.
Cover them with a piece of glass or oiled
paper for a day or two, when it may be removed altogether. The bugs will not again
find the plant, as they always alight on
the ground before commencing their attack,
and the boards are in their way.

In a short time the plants will have out-
grown all fear of their depredations, when
the boards can be removed.

It is said that there is a man down east
whose feet are so large that he cannot get
into the principal dish of a roast pig.
He is reported to have said:—"O Lord,
if thou canst bless under the Gospel, what thou
didst curse under the Law, bless this pig."

A medical student under examination,
being asked the different effects of heat and
cold, replied:—"Heat expands and cold contracts."—"Quite right; can you give me
an example?"—"Yes sir, in summer, which
is hot, the days are longer; but in winter,
which is cold, the days are shorter."

As a man deeply involved in debt was
walking in the street with a very melancholy
air one of his acquaintances asked him
why he looked so sorrowful, and said: "I
am in a state of insolvency." Well, said
his friend, if that is the case it is not you
but your creditors who ought to wear a
sorrowful countenance.

The Saddle Wife.

Of old, when Jupiter, the father of gods,
was in the habit of descending to earth
in the shape of a man, he was not
that one night, overtaken by a military
band, he was taken to a military
place. He remained there, but found
no shelter, and was left to suffer
the night. He was taken to a military
place. He remained there, but found
no shelter, and was left to suffer
the night. He was taken to a military
place. He remained there, but found
no shelter, and was left to suffer
the night.

A STRANGE MILITARY MACHINE.—In
the course of a ride in the French Camp
Leprieux, M. Leprieux mentioned the
recent invention of an "infernal machine" at
Toulon, which, he said, rendered useless the
conventional means of attack, and opened
the way to a new and more powerful
method of warfare.

If the progress of perpetual and universal
peace, opened by an infernal machine, is
to be realized, that infernal machine is
a devilish good thing.—Punch.

MAINTAIN.—It resembles a pair of shears,
which they may be compared to, and
often saying in some instances, yet
ways punishing any one who comes between
them.

An old man, on the Fort Providence,
Margate, stepped up to him and inquired,
"What rent do you ask for those houses?"
"Why do you ask me such a question?"
said he. "Faith, and I thought the whole
tenor belonged to ye," replied the Irish-
man.

The Rev. Mr. Johnson was one of those
rough but quaint preachers of the former
generation who were fond of visiting and
good living. While seated at the table of
a good lady in a neighbouring parish, she
asked him if he took milk in his tea. "Yes,
ma'am when I can't get cream," was the
ready reply.

A PIG WITH A WOODEN LEG.—A tailor
in a Pig-wig, who had a pig which he
got one of its legs broken, had replaced the
injured limb with a wooden one. It is
curious to see the animal hobbling about,
but it is thriving as well as it did before it
met with the accident.—Edinburgh Courier.

It was decidedly a generous-hearted young-
man that divided an orange between his
sweetheart and her mother, and, being advised at the same time not to be so free
with his, said he would rub himself, and replied in a drawing tone:—"Oh no, thank-
you. Take a whole half, each of you. It
does me good to see you eat and enjoy it;
and besides, it's a 'robber' myself, for I
have got three more in my coat tail pocket."

A newspaper correspondent writing of the
beauties of Cairo, Illinois, says, "The reason
here is usually regarded with great credit by
small pox, continued epidemics by cholera,
and closed up brilliantly with yellow fever.
Sweet spot!"

What a place for Mark Tapley to be jolly
in?

If you don't want to get angry never
argue with a blockhead. Remember the
duller the razor the more you cut yourself.

APPLE TREE WORMS.—If you want
to destroy these, as well as those of the
gooseberry and currant bush, dip a clothes
coat broom in coal oil and give the trees a slight sprinkling. A very little answers the
purpose: the caterpillars will drop down
by hundreds and die, while the vegetation
of the tree remains uninjured. There is no
need to saturate them—a slight sprinkle is
quite sufficient.

THE STRIPPED SUE.—The only true preventative for the attack of this insect upon
cucumber and melon plants is to enclose
the plants within four pieces of board, three
inches high, nailed together at the corners.
Cover them with a piece of glass or oiled
paper for a day or two, when it may be removed altogether. The bugs will not again
find the plant, as they always alight on
the ground before commencing their attack,
and the boards are in their way.

In a short time the plants will have out-
grown all fear of their depredations, when
the boards can be removed.

It is said that there is a man down east
whose feet are so large that he cannot get
into the principal dish of a roast pig.
He is reported to have said:—"O Lord,
if thou canst bless under the Gospel, what thou
didst curse under the Law, bless this pig."

A medical student under examination,
being asked the different effects of heat and
cold, replied:—"Heat expands and cold contracts."—"Quite right; can you give me
an example?"—"Yes sir, in summer, which
is hot, the days are longer; but in winter,
which is cold, the days are shorter."

As a man deeply involved in debt was
walking in the street with a very melancholy
air one of his acquaintances asked him
why he looked so sorrowful, and said: "I am in a state of insolvency." Well, said
his friend, if that is the case it is not you
but your creditors who ought to wear a
sorrowful countenance.

The Saddle Wife.

Of old, when Jupiter, the father of gods,
was in the habit of descending to earth
in the shape of a man, he was not
that one night, overtaken by a military
band, he was taken to a military
place. He remained there, but found
no shelter, and was left to suffer
the night. He was taken to a military
place. He remained there, but found
no shelter, and was left to suffer
the night. He was taken to a military
place. He remained there, but found
no shelter, and was left to suffer
the night.

A STRANGE MILITARY MACHINE.—In
the course of a ride in the French Camp
Leprieux, M. Leprieux mentioned the
recent invention of an "infernal machine" at
Toulon, which, he said, rendered useless the
conventional means of attack, and opened
the way to a new and more powerful
method of warfare.

If the progress of perpetual and universal
peace, opened by an infernal machine, is
to be realized, that infernal machine is
a devilish good thing.—Punch.

MAINTAIN.—It resembles a pair of shears,
which they may be compared to, and
often saying in some instances, yet
ways punishing any one who comes between
them.

An old man, on the Fort Providence,
Margate, stepped up to him and inquired,
"What rent do you ask for those houses?"
"Why do you ask me such a question?"
said he. "Faith, and I thought the whole
tenor belonged to ye," replied the Irish-
man.

The Rev. Mr. Johnson was one of those
rough but quaint preachers of the former
generation who were fond of visiting and
good living. While seated at the table of
a good lady in a neighbouring parish, she
asked him if he took milk in his tea. "Yes,
ma'am when I can't get cream," was the
ready reply.

A PIG WITH A WOODEN LEG.—A tailor
in a Pig-wig, who had a pig which he
got one of its legs broken, had replaced the
injured limb with a wooden one. It is
curious to see the animal hobbling about,
but it is thriving as well as it did before it
met with the accident.—Edinburgh Courier.

It was decidedly a generous-hearted young-
man that divided an orange between his
sweetheart and her mother, and, being advised at the same time not to be so free
with his, said he would rub himself, and replied in a drawing tone:—"Oh no, thank-
you. Take a whole half, each of you. It
does me good to see you eat and enjoy it;
and besides, it's a 'robber' myself, for I
have got three more in my coat tail pocket."

A newspaper correspondent writing of the
beauties of Cairo, Illinois, says, "The reason
here is usually regarded with great credit by
small pox, continued epidemics by cholera,
and closed up brilliantly with yellow fever.
Sweet spot!"

What a place for Mark Tapley to be jolly
in?