

arms they lower patient to the ground. If patient is not unconscious, he may be carried by two men forming a seat with their hands and then having him sit on the seat and hold to the carriers by putting an arm around each. Injured persons can be very easily carried in a chair, even if in an unconscious condition. See illustration below.

A person who has been injured or who is in an unconscious condition can be carried in a chair as shown in this illustration.

Nails:

Injury by nails is very common and sometimes very dangerous. Treat as punctured wounds. (See—Punctured Wounds). An injury from a rusty nail should always be treated by your doctor, otherwise infection and later lockjaw may be the result.

Nose:

Broken Nose. Always go to a doctor. Permanent deformity and interference with breathing may follow if neglected.

Bleeding from Nose—See—Hemorrhage.

Foreign Bodies in Nose. Do not attempt to remove, as this is the work of a doctor. To attempt to remove by a hairpin or tweezers may cause serious inflammation and injury.
