

of the property tennis courts will be laid out while a private road leads through to the golf links where a professional is in attendance. The course will be one of the best sporting nine hole courses in the country, being naturally adapted for the formation of golf links, and in time could be increased to eighteen holes if desired. It is expected that teas and luncheons will be served on the verandah or in the diningroom of the club house, so that the Country Club will be an inestimable boom to the town from a social as well as a sporting point of view. Following are the officers: President, John A. Mackenzie; Vice President, Arthur C. Hardy; Secy.-Treas., J. G. Wallace; Directors, J. Gill Gardner, Lt.-Col. W. S. Buell, L. C. Ogilvie, H. B. Brockville In the average community where there is no Young Men's Christian Association, the idea seems to prevail that all that is necessary in order to solve the problem of their boys and young men is to provide some sort of reading rooms and gymnasium. The years of Association history, however, have proven that this is a mistake, and that the vital factor in any character building is a competent trained man. The Brockville type of work has met with gratifying results. It has demonstrated that work among boys can be successfully carried on through a Board of Directors consisting of a representative group of men and an experienced Boys' Work Secretary working through and in co-operation with Home, Church, School, Municipality and other constructive agencies. In Brockville it has been demonstrated that an adequate and efficient work can be maintained among boys and young men without additional expensive equipment other than that which already exists, such as Schools, Public Halls, Churches, etc. The Movement strives to reach every need of every boy in the Community by its policy of co-operation with all constructive agencies. In this way many more boys are reached than could be through an expensive building. The work is also a great educational factor in the Community in solving the boy problem. After one year and nine months, and at a time of financial depression the citizens of Brockville have endorsed in a most practical way efforts put forth by the Movement, with its co-operative and unifying policies, by responding to a second financial campaign for the continuance of the work, when an even larger sum was raised than at the time of its organization. This has given permanency to a work that Brockville and all other smaller cities should be conducting. Following are a few of the activities promoted and institutions established since the inception of the Brockville Community Work: Through the Home—"Father and Son" Banquets, "Mother and Daughter" Banquet, Parents' Mass Meeting, Women's Meetings, Summer Camp, Free Employment Bureau, Free Boarding House Register, Cultural Entertainment, Educational Lectures, Junior Section at Fall Fair in co-operation with Fall Fair Association, Victorian Order of Nurses in co-operation with the Daughters of the Empire. Through the Church—Hockey leagues, Baseball Leagues, Outdoor Athletic Meet, Indoor Athletic Meet, Century Hikers Club, Training Classes, Promotion of Teaching English to Foreigners, Conferences for Training Leaders, Boys' Work Conference. Through the Schools—Promotion of the "Wider use of the School Plant"; in co-operation with the Board of the Collegiate Institute the establishment of Free Evening Educational Classes, Free Evening Gymnasium Classes for Employed Boys, Practical Talks to Employed Boys, Supervised Playground Work, Open Air Skating Rinks, Educational Campaign for Medical Inspection, Home and School Gardens, Physical Training Classes. Not only is the work molding more lives than it would be possible to do through a building in a town of this size; but it demonstrates an effective and economical method of getting actual results and citizens are receiving a greater return, through their extra use, from their costly Church, School and Public Buildings. The officers of the Brockville work are: T. J. Storey, Esq., President; H. A. Stewart, K.C., Vice President; J. P. Grant, Treasurer; W. H. Wood, Secretary. With Judge Reynolds, W. H. Kyle, J. S. Copland and Dr. J. C. Mitchell as Trustees.
