THE GREAT TEMPTATION.

Every age has its peculiar forms of vice Sins change with the changing years, the different types coming in and going out perpetually like modes of dress or upholstery. The vice of this age is drunkenness. All that genius and wealth can do to bring perfection of a towering, mighty system, has been done. My DEAR Me EDITOR -Since my las report of progress in the projecution of my agency for the above named Fund, I have been permitted to visit Saint John's, and to make a very brief call at Harbor Grace and Carbonear, Newfoundland.

Before starting on my mission to New oundland, I was made well aware of the existence of several circumstances which would operate with combined force against the success of such a mission. 1. There was prevailing a distressing feeling of business depression, in consequence of the partial failure of the recent sealing voyages. 2. The demand of local church enterpri ses were sufficiently numerous at the present juncture, to task, not to say strain the financial strength of all the friends of the Wesleyan cause in that Colony. 3. Many of those friends were at this season of the year away from home at

NEW THEORY OF COMETS.

The following novel theory of comets is particles. Like all bolies so circumstanced illuminated tail, evidently vices for the season, but with the offer came two serious considerations, (1) he wanted light of the sun, would scarcely be discernible our atmosphere, would not be surprising; but their whole depth as if day on board the "Annie" as a pasmy travels by sea, I never enjoyed compared with the filmy and all but spiritual texture of a comet.' Owing to this extreme the comet, in a direction opposite to the sun, It seems scarcely necessary to point out that this mode of viewing a comet accounts for the circumstance of the tail being always in opposition to the sun, whether in advancing or receding. Also for the wonderful celerity shown by the tail in turner round the san where the comet is in perihelion, and for the rapidity with which the comet darts out its tail after the principle of the abberation of light, the bend which the tail of some comets have totion of the stars by the body of the comet. If the conjecture be correct that the nucleus of of the tail, then it follows that at this present moment the sun is feasting on our comet, and
