New York, on Sunday, March 31, and it was with a huge sigh of relief arrived here last night in charge of daughters and son, and were taken to her old home in Sidney, just west of the city limits. She died in her 92nd year and lived most of her life in Sidney.

Charles Melville McKim, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward McKim, residing at the corner of Front and Bridge Streets, died early this morning after a few days' illness from pneumonia. The child was six months old.

The footbridge is again in use, having been opened for traffic last evening. Messrs White and Bell have hurried up the work. Today they are engaged in tightening the cables.

The importance of the footbridge has never been more felt than it has been in the past two weeks of day, and that it would take some time for them to adjust themselves to the new light.

It was natural that they should change things. Not when, what the western cowboy call the "milling process" began, did we see danger. When the inevitable stampede took place we comforted ourselves that we would soon run our horses and mules out of the mill.

At the same time we forgave the party, of how it had climbed into power by the right of brute force, of the constituent assembly, elected by the Russian people, was summarily dismissed for fear that it might overthrow the Lenin-Trotsky rule, and much else on the same order. We ignored the documentary proofs of German corruption of men in high places in the new ministry and trusted the sanity of the common people.

Washington, it seems does not lose faith now. We trust that the appealing message from the White House may find root in the oddy assorted gathering at Moscow. If it fails, we can have the satisfaction of knowing that this country went to the extremes to live up to its ideals. We are making many sacrifices, in deeds as well as in professions, to keep the democratic record in the presence of our Ambassador, Mr. Francis, not far from the Soviet meeting place and he is far from giving up hope.

Some young men attending dances in the city got a scare last night when it was rumored that the Dominion police officers were in town to round up offenders under the Military Service Act. Some went home for their exemption cards and some young married men were noticeably disturbed, evidently because they had not their marriage licenses ready.

Many thousands of more special visits of the Dominion officers really occurred. Harry Robinson, who is alleged to be an absentee from Kingston, was St. Church being held here awaiting an escort from that city.

Mr. William James Sine of Sidney and Miss Edith Maud Timmon, of Huntingdon were quietly wedded this afternoon at Holy Trinity Church, parsonage by the Rev. J. N. Clarry, B.A. The young couple were unattended. They will reside in Sidney.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Ontario Lodge No. 66 held a most successful dance last evening in the Johnstone Academy. This Easter Monday night's function was fully as successful as any in the past. The spacious ball-room looked its best when at 8.30 the music for the dancing began. The at-home was attended by a very large number of people.

At Bennett's Academy last night the Iroquois Club opened the past Lenten season with their Easter at-home, which was a very successful one. Dancing began at nine o'clock and lasted until the early hour to the strains of the Jack Strathdee orchestra. Large attendance. The rooms were gracefully decorated for the function. The officers in charge of the affair were W. H. Bottom, Pres. H. L. Chow, Sec. E. F. Scudamore, Honorary Sec. H. A. Meadames F. J. McAlpine, F. V. Buckley, S. McGuire, H. A. Thompson and C. V. F. Meagher, patronesses and Messrs O. W. Rolph, H. Hogan, J. Y. Diamond, F. J. McAlpine, G. R. R. Splain and G. R. C. Cronk.

The "wet" offensive at Belleville still continues with kegs and casks of liquor being hauled through the streets for local delivery.

What remarkably strange things are happening every day before our eyes! Let us pray that we may adjust our focus soon enough so that we may behold them without distortion.

President Wilson has addressed a message to the Congress of Soviets assuring that body of the sympathy of the American people with Russia in its efforts to be free. The Soviets of the large cities of Russia are responsible for the Bolsheviks of Lenin and Trotsky. This Saturday evening the Centralized Workers' and Soldiers' Council, made up of private in the ranks and men from the factories. This gathering is intended to be the beginning of the struggle by the people styling themselves proletarian. It is "Class struggle" to a degree. As the signing of the Russian revolution the Soviet was responsible for the breaking up of army officers in large numbers.

Sincerely the American people were and are with the Russian revolution. We entered the war free from misgiving when it was heralded to the world, almost simultaneously, with the signing of the Russian revolution. The Russian Revolution would be a democracy. The Basis of the Cause, stood in the rear of this republic.
