Street Araba Who Biss. Newsboys and street arabs often make admirable clerks. The way they work into commercial houses is aston-ishing. A large percentage of public and prosperous business men of Amer-ica began as newsboys, but probably no one realizes how many work their way up from the gutter to wealth and influence. They begin as hangers on and are recruited from the ranks of every class of street gamin. Their with have been sharpened by contact with the sordid side of life and by observa-tions in the school of the street. They know the value of friends. So they are to be found at the door of every big house, ready at any time to run an erthat their cheese should be held in the curing room metil it is in such a condi-tion as will give satisfaction to the British consumer. The difference in the quality of cheese held in the Government cool curing rooms was very noticeable, not only in quality, but in general appear-ance. The famous Eddystone lighthouse stands fourteen miles off the coast of Land's End and is perhaps the most celebrated in the world. It has aften been used as an illustration by poets the great natural reservoirs and fountains of the beautiful before he himself can become truly beautiful in life and and preachers, for no other lighthous is in such a lonesome or dangerous place, and none costs so much money trouble. > Seidl's Silent Tongue. One of the most striking anecdotes told in Hermann Klein's "Thirty Years of Musical Life In London" relates Anton Seidl's first interview with Wag-ner in the library at Wahnfried. Seidl found the room dark, and, imagining nobody was there, he pulled out his letter of introduction and began silently rehearsing the speech he had prepared. Suddenly from out of the gloomy cor-ner Wagner appeared, and Seidl was so nervous that he could not bring out counter of the month of the gloomy cor-ner Wagner appeared. THE GREAT CONDOR.

It is the Most Difficult Bird In the World to Trap. Probably the great condor is the most difficult bird in the world to trap. One of the great vultures, it inhabits lofty peaks of the Andes, hardly accessible to man. It builds its nest among the topmost crags, often on a ledge of some precipice with an almost perpendicular frop of many hundred feet.

An extremely wary bird, it shares with its congeners the proverbial "ea-gle eye" and is thus able to see immense distances while yet unseen by man. Its wings have a spread twelve feet, and, though its flight is heavy, it can sustain itself for long periods in the air.

To trap it men ascend to its haunts and shoot some animal of considerable size. This is skinned, and a man lies down by the body under the skin and waits, perhaps for hours. Soon conflocking round until one set-

THE CHEESE TRADE

In his report regarding the charge trade of 1903, Mr. A. W. Grindley, agent of the Department of Agricul ture in Great Britain, makes some suggestions that merit the attention of nakers and exporters. He says :-The cheese season of 1903 was a most successful one; there was a large one: there was a large increase in the quantity and the steady improvement in the quality and the steady great, that in spite of very heavy supplies the prices realised on the whole were satisfactory. The mild sweet palatable flavor, as distinguished rom the heated and biting character so noticeable in former years, has created a large consumptive demand,

The strength of these birds is enormous, and the condor hunters often have their arms broken by strokes from their powerful wings.

The Offending Handkerchief. It is in fact a grave sanitary ques-tion whether the handkerchief does not do more harm than good as it is ordinarily used. When we assume that the nose does not need to be wiped, we face a reasonably broad proposition as to the danger of the handkerchief as a disease propagator. Most nasal catarrhs are of an infectious character, notably those of grip origin. Contrary to a general law of asepsis, the handkerchief saturated with disease germs, instead of being promptly washed, is stowed for hours in the pocket, with a result that can be easily imagined. Is it any wonder then that catarrh is constantly fostered by a system of auto infection?
