INJUNCTION

City is Liable to be Served With One Connection With the Emma St. Sidewalk.

The trouble over the Emma street sidewalk is gradually coming to a climax. The city engineer surveyed the ground yesterday after-noon and made his marks as to where the sidewalk will go. If the sidewalk is put down where it appears to be the present intention to put it down, it will be so high that Blonde Bros. will have a lot of trouble driving into their lumber yards, as it will be about two feet off the level of the ground. The other residents on the street also complain that the sidewalk is going to be put down too high.

Benj. Blonde, of Blonde Bros., when interviewed by The Planet this morning said, "I don't want to do or ay anything to wilfully oppose the city engineer's actions, but if that sidewalk is put up too high, it will cost a lot of money to fill up under it and build approaches to it, when the sidewalk as it was before was all right.

"If the Engineer persists in his intention to build that sidewalk so high will certainly issue an injunction to prevent him from so doing.
