SUDDEN SUMMONS.

"In the midst of Life we are in Death."

Again the Maple City mourns. The hand of Death-grim, relentless, sudden-has fallen and another of her sons has been ushered within the portals of the Unseen.

The life just ended was a useful and an honorable one. Andrew Heyward was a citizen of whom Chatham may well be proud. He was earnest, progressive and loyal. He devoted much of his time and many of his energies whole-heartedly to the upbuilding of the community.

The passing of such men leaves empty places which cannot be filled.

To the sorrowing widow and family sincere sympathy is extended. Their sorrow is also ours.

The circumstances are peculiarly sad. In the morning brightness, life. In the evening sunset, silence.

"Thy will be done." Ah, we plan and prepare for our Old Boys' Reunion. But another Hand is, even now, gathering them in for the Great Reunion Beyond.

THE MANITOBA REFERENDUM.

The juggling with prohibition threatens to degenerate into a farce, comments the Ottawa Citizen. The only square, straightforward deliverance the people have had on the subject in recent years was the commonsense declaration of Mr. Whitney that provincial prohibition is an impossibility and that it is useless to discuss

The defeat of the Manitoba referendum, -which, after all the waste of money and trouble in taking votes, and fighting the matter, in the courts up to the privy council, results in the final decision of the people that they do not want prohibition when all legal obstacles are removed, illustrates the insincerity which has characterized the trifling by the public and politicians with this question. And what is to be said of the prohibitionists themselves? With the goal of their ambition in sight and success hanging upon this final vote, they fall to bickering among themselves. One section advocates working to get out the vote, the other section sulks in its tents and advocates abstention from voting. While the politicians and prohibitionists jangle, the hard-headed public decides that the provincial prohibition farce has gone far enough, that it is actually threatening busineso, and they come out and nail it to the barn door. In Ontario we have had Premier Ross figuring in the great dual role of the private prohibitionist and the public protector of the liquor traffic. Mr. Ross, officer of the temperance alliance, jollies along the temperance vote, while Premier Ross uses the liquor vote to buttress his political position. and while talking prohibition in his private capacity, does not even enforce the very responsible existing license laws to control the traffic. Brought to book by the privy council decision and being called to a "show down" by sincere prohibitionints, he shuffles for a while and then hands them a referendum loaded up the wrong way, for taking which the public and the liquor men will have to

With Mr. Whitney, temperance per ple and liquor men know exactly where they stand: Provincial prohibition an impossibility; non-partisan and efficient enforcement of the license laws the most practicable solution of the temperance question as it exists in Ontario. Both classes know exactly where they stand if Mr. Whitmey is placed in power and the best lement of both interests will endors his solution.

THE VOTE IN MANITOBA.

Incomplete, though the returns of the voting on the prohibition referendum in Manitoba are, the defeat of the bill is beyond question. On September 28, 1898, Manitoba voted in the plebiscite as follows:

For. Against 1,451 Brandon..... 3,696 2,289 2.239 Marquette..... 1,320 Provencher selkirk.....12,270

Total..... 12,270 Majority for prohibition... If the vote polled on Wednesday is taken as a fair test of the relative strength of the parties, the conclusion is obvious that there has been a marked change in public sentiment on the prohibition question in Manitoba. A majority against the bill was certainly not looked for. Possibly many prohibitionists, dissatisfied with the terms of the referendum, abstained from voting.

BIBLE AS A TEXT BOOK.

One of the teachers at the meeting of the Ontario Educational Association urged as a reason for the introduction of the Bible as a text book in of many people in regard to the bible and he illustrated his statement by Bourassa is of the type which ould swer the question "Who was the fath- to do the chores or pay board. er of Zebedee's children?" points out the Woodstock Express. It is perhaps rather creditable to the scholars than otherwise that they could not answer the question. It shows that they do not look upon the bible as a conundrum book, and so were not on their guard against a catch question. And, after all what does it matter the children of Zebedee was? In what way would it help a child to know?

Would it help him to distinguish between right and wrong? Would it give him a clearer and more exalted view of the duties of life? would it help him to earn an honest living and become a useful citizen?

There are doubtless many good people who have lived long past the school age without knowing, or caring and is especially recommended for anything about the father of Zebedee's children or Cain's wife ,or Melchizedek's family relations, and who nevertheless have managed to discharge their duties as citizens and as Christians very well, notwithstanding.

It, is much more important to know who is the father of the child dren of men, than it is to know who was the father of Zebedee's children,

SCHOOL GIRLS.

'Tis a pretty age—that time in a girl's life when she has all the beauties of womanhood without the later lines of care and worry.

But here and there even among school girls appear pale and drawn faces.

Pale blood is at the bottom of the trouble and Scott's Emulsion can cure it.

Scott's Emulsion brings back the beauty to pale girls because it is blood food.

STRICTLY PARLIAMENTARY.

Detroit Tribune. Referring to a citizen of Mount Clemens one of the newspapers of that place delicately intimates that "if it were not showing bad taste for a paper to indulge in such language," it would call the said citizen "a plain, everyday liar." Said the representative from Mississippi to the representative from Maine: "I will not say that the gentleman from Maine is a liar and scoundrel from the crown of his bald caput to the soles of his contaminated feet, for that would be unparliamentary; but, Mr. Speaker, I have the right to think what I please, and I here assert that I shall al-

Destroying San Jose Scale. The Illinois state entomologist says forms and is now using whale oil soap or the lime, sulphur and salt mixture. It is a well known fact that in Washington and Oregon the lime, sulphur and salt wash is very effective, even in rainy weather, and under climatic conditions very similar to those found in Illinois. The winter in Illinois has been open and dry, favorable to this material, and the results have been very satisfac-tory. It is claimed that at least 95 per cent. of scale on trees treated with the lime, sulphur and salt wash are dead. Indications are that the other 5 per cent. will be destroy before spring. Only a single appl tion was made. The outlook for extensive use of this material for San ose scale in Illinois and other chards is promising.
