SANDY FERGUSON TO FIGHT TONIGHT

Sam Langford and Sam McVea also Due for a Battle in New York Tonight.

Boston, Nov. 22.—Some one has coaxed Sandy Ferguson to go to New York and box Charley Welner tomorrow night. Welner is no mark, and Sandy may get a surprise if he and his friends think he is going to give Welner a whaling.

Langford and McVea, who have met more times than any other two boxers, clash again in New York tomorrow night. The Boxing Commission has appointed Charley White to supervise the bout.

Flynn and Levinaky again. Flynn and Levinaky, who are scheduled for a fight at Camden, Me., tomorrow night, and the sports of that section will see a contest that will give them all the excitement they seek. Both are fast workers and it is expected that they will be in the ring.

Old Battling Nelson, who still believes he is there as a boxer, takes on Pal Brown at Eau Claire, Wis., Thanksgiving Day.

Joe Mandot, who seldom gets anything soft in the ways of bouts, goes against Bobby Waugh, the Texas lightweight, on the holiday at Shreveport, La. Waugh is a tough customer.

Young Jasper and Bay Wood are billed for a bout at Camden, Me., tomorrow night and the sports of that section will see a contest that will give them all the excitement they seek. Both are fast workers and it is expected that they will be in the ring.

Boston Braves To Release Red Smith, Third Sacker

One of the Many Trades Discussed by the Major Leaguers Now.

THREE PHILLIES ON MARKET, TOO

Pat Moran Ready to Let Out Niehoff, Paskert or Bobby Byrne.

New York, Nov. 22.—As the winter baseball meetings draw near the major league magnates are beginning the usual trade talk.

LARRY DOYLE

The Boston club was last in club batting, with 240, while the Cardinals were first, with 254, and Philadelphia fifth, with 247.

In runs scored Cravath of Philadelphia led, with 89, and in stolen bases Carey of Pittsburg was first, with 36.

In sacrifice hits Fisher of Chicago had the greater number, 42.

In the hits for extra bases Cravath was first in home runs, with 24; Lomb of St. Louis in three-base hits, with 25, and Doyle of the Giants in two-base hits, with 40.

Groh and Griffin, both of Cincinnati, played in 160 games (including 154 scheduled and six tie games), being the greatest number of regular participants in a regular National League championship schedule.

George Stallings, it is said, has received word from Herzog of the Reds that the latter will hand over Catcher Tom Clark for Pitcher Lefty Tyler in Boston, the critics says that Stallings will not keep Red Smith on the Braves' third base if year and will try to get another man during the winter.

May Trade Baker for Gardner. Connie Mack is getting ready to sell the release of Frank Baker, and it is reported that Comiskey still is eager to pay $50,000 for the big slugger. The Red Sox, meanwhile, may attempt to land Baker in a trade for Larry Gardner.

Pat Moran, so the gossips insist, is determined to strengthen the Phillies and will come to the National League meeting here next month ready to trade Niehoff, Paskert or Byrne.

The most important announcement will be the appointment of a new manager of the Pirates to succeed Fred Clarke. In Pittsburg the fans believe that Honus Wagner has the call, but Barney Dreyfus will say nothing.

Cubs Shorten Training Season. President Thomas of the Cubs and Roger Bresnahan, who will retain the management, have decided to shorten next spring's training trip. The National League rules do not permit training before March 1, yet the Cubs have never at Tampa, Fla., until ten days later. They will play only ten exhibition games in Florida, after which they will make several stops on the way North. The Cubs are following the example set by the Tigers and White Sox, who were the first major league teams to abandon the long drawn out, expensive training methods in the South.

PITY THE OVER-STRAINED EVERES. In Spite of Near Collapse He's Able to Pick Up a Few Extras.

Captain Johnny Evers of the Braves, the same little bundle of nerves who was going to give up baseball not so many weeks ago because of the overstrain on mind and body, is playing with the All-Stars in the West, say Sporting News. If this action on the part of Evers is not an admission that he never did intend to get out of the game because of overstrain, mental and physical, there never was an admission of any sort ever made.

After what Evers has been through in the last 12 months, one would imagine that Johnny would be glad to throw away his hat, gloves and vocabulary for the nonce and rest, but he does something other than baseball. But hardly two months after making the statement that he had too much baseball, Evers goes and joins a barnstorming team. It is inconsistent, to say the least.

It may result harmfully for Evers. He may become over-baseballed and have a real breakdown this winter. In

Only Five National League Batters are in the .300 List

Larry Doyle Closely Followed by Luderus, Griffith, Hinchman and Daubert.

New York, Nov. 22.—Herewith are given the official batting averages of National League players who participated in any manner in at least 15 championship games during the season of 1915 and batted for 250.

Only five of the 170 players, who got into the record, batted for 300 or better. These were Doyle of New York, Luderus of Philadelphia, Griffith of Cincinnati, Hinchman of Pittsburg and Daubert of Brooklyn.

Doyle, with 320, led this group. Joe Connelly led the Boston players, with 298. Edgar Collins, the outfielder who was bought from Pittsburg and played in only a few games with the Braves, had a percentage for the season of 293; Sherwood Magee, 280, and J. C. Smith, 264. Gowdy had a percentage of 246 and Maraville 244.

The Boston club was last in club batting, with 240, while the Cardinals were first, with 254, and Philadelphia fifth, with 247.

In runs scored Cravath of Philadelphia led, with 89, and in stolen bases Carey of Pittsburg was first, with 36.

His ex-cyency Evers would not be of full value to Owner Gaffney of the Braves. Evers is drawing a big salary for his baseball ability and from the viewpoint of many a critic this action of his in playing with the All-Stars makes Evers appear a trifle careless of his ability to deliver the goods for the Braves and Owner Gaffney.
