The tragic ending of the case, in which Dupaquer was ac-cused of luring young girls into lives of shame, came as a dramatic climax to his trial before Judge Torrison at the police court of the Chicago Ave-nue Station.

Station. Dupaquer, who was an instructor of Dupaquer, who was an instructor of languages, was arraigned in the court on complaint of parents of two little girls. The evidence was conclusive. Dupaquer was granted time to make a defence and was permitted to go to his residence to arrange his personal effects. While in his room he seized a razor and slashed his throat before the policeman who accompanied him could interfere. Death was almost instantaneous.

From all appearances Dr. Stadlinger had laid down upon a couch, then ute-tered a cry for help and called his wife by her first name. A revolver, which was still smoking, was clutohed in his right hand, which hung from one side of the couch.

Dr. Stadlinger has been suffering from insomnia for some time. His health has been broken down by over-work, for he had one of the largest practices in the city. He had worked day and night.

Young Man Caught Stealing From the Boarders.

Non-Support Charged Against Man Out of Work.

Police Magistrate Jelfs started with a firm hand to put down such cases gross immorality as were exposed at the Police Court this morning in the case of Mrs. Mary Mundy, 52 Hunter street east, charged with keeping a disorderly house. Two inmates of the house swore positively to committing immoral acts, and that they were inveigled into it by Mrs. Mundy. Magistrate Jelfs sentenced the prisoner to the common jail for six months, without the option of a fine. "Mamie Beck" said she went to the house some time ago to board, at the rate of $5 a week, and that, when she had been there two days and could not get work Mrs. Mundy induced her nmit improper acts; she and the proprietor to share and share alike in he proceeds. She said she came from Montreal some time ago, and that this was her first offence. She told a terrible story of indecency going on in the house. Serg. Robinson told of arresting the keeper last night. This closed the case and Mrs. Mundy changed the plea of not guilty, which she entered before she knew the nature of the evidence, to one of guilty. The charge of theft on which J. Gutcheon was arrested yesterday at noon brought out some good police work. L. J. Brandow and several other boarders at the prisoner's mother's house sleep in the prisoner's bedroom, and for some time money has been disappearing. The police were notified and Constable May was detailed on the job, with orders to catch the thief. He went there at 8 o'clock yesterday morning and was concealed in a clothes closet by the mistress of the house. Through a hole he bored in the door of this closet he watched for four long hours, waiting for the men in the bedroom to get up. Before taking up his position in the closet he had placed a lot of marked coins in the pockets of the different inmates of the bedroom. It was close to 12 o'clock when Gutcheon got up, and after a careful look around he walked softly to Brandow's bedside, and, reaching in his pockets, took out were referenced. careful look around he walked sof Brandow's bedside, and, reaching pockets, took out some money. leaving the room the constable can of hiding and went after him.
