as there was a surplus which amounted to anything it should be given to the taxpayer. Look at Mr. Fielding today. He stands up in the parliament of Canada and boasts that he has $30,000,000 of revenue above ordinary expenditures, and has to admit that the people are more heavily taxed now than they were in 1898.

Mr. Fisher has an appropriation for $1,000,000 for taking the census, and the list of commissioners for each district already announced shows that these gentlemen have been chosen by reason of their loyal services to the Liberal party in the past rather than their fitness for the work. This means that a round million of the people's money will go to secure votes for the Government for this system of patronage is nothing short of downright bribery. Mr. Fisher defends it unblushingly. Only the other day Mr. Best, of Dufferin, informed the Government that some of these commissioners were going about his county trying to get signatures to a petition in favor of reciprocity. And the people are paying for this kind of thing. The Government does not and cannot deny it. Truly the Laurier administration is dying because of its inherent weakness and its insolent refusal to put an end to the satanic system of graft and wrong-doing. Fancy a man well paid by the country coming to the houses of men whose taxes go to make the payment of these party heeler's, and under the guise of taking the names for the census doing political work for his masters. It is not a pleasant reflection that this kind of thing can go on in a free country under the British flag and is one more sign of the general lowering of public morality under the influence of Laurierism.

promoting their own personal interests, whereas Diaz thought of his country and his fellow-citizens. Still, he was but the leader of a successful faction, and he very properly provided for those who had helped his cause. Those men were not always his equals in public spirit and disinterestedness; hence the petty tyranny which some exercised when they had the helms of administration. Diaz has been "populist" in the sense that thousands of respectable citizens were quite content to let well enough alone; they enjoyed public peace, looked after their plantations and never dabbled in politics, least of all when the presidential elections were held. Add to these the great numbers of more or less civilized Indians who theoretically enjoy the suffrage and who practically know nothing about it, even on election day, and we shall see that a majority of the vote cast in Mexico does not necessarily express the will of the citizens. If the people are not sufficiently public spirited to have a will, why should the election be expected to express that will? An American gentleman in charge of a large business enterprise in Mexico tells us that at the recent presidential election the fifteen hundred common laborers employed by his firm were "voted" in a block by the government officials, yet not one of them was even taken to the polls. It was a great deal if they knew it was election day.

only minister of war, is very popular among all classes. It was undoubtedly due to his deference for Diaz that he withdrew from the contest for the vice-presidency and left the field free to Corral. One of the dramatic incidents in Mexico's history is the ride of Reyes on a special train from his home to the capital, his secret midnight interview with the aged President, his almost stealthy departure and his trip to Europe on a government errand. General Reyes was recently received by Pope Pius X, who as incorrectly reported in the daily press, made some comments on the separation of Church and State which had taken place in Mexico under Diaz. The separation was effected by Juarez, who attended to the matter so thoroughly that nothing was left for Diaz to do, whatever may have been his preferences in the case.

Miss Jessie Kinsley, Arkona, Ont., writes:—"It is with the greatest of pleasure I write you stating the benefit I have received by using your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. This spring I was all run down and could hardly do any work. I went to a doctor and he told me I had heart trouble and that my nerves were all unstrung. I took his medicine, as he ordered me to do, but it did me no good. I was working in a printing office at the time, and my doctor said it was the type setting caused the trouble, but I thought not. My father advised me to buy a box of your pills as he had derived so much benefit from them. Before I had finished one box I noticed a great difference, and could work from morning to night without any more tiring or hot flushes. I can recommend them highly to all nervous and run-down people.
