Poor Asylum Inmates Entertained.

BY WESLEY EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Yesterday afternoon the inmates of the Poor Asylum were given a picnic by the members of Wesley Epworth League. Of 5 p.m. all were comfortably seated and a delicious tea was served. Those who were ill to sit at the table were supplied with tea and a bag of cake in their beds. The Poor Asylum is kept in a clean and sanitary condition. Some of the League members were shown through the different departments by the courteous Supt. Mr. A. W. Miller and everything was found spotlessly clean, which reflects great credit on the Supt. and his efficient staff, who have left nothing undone for the comfort and welfare of the inmates. At night a grand concert was held. The chair was taken by the Rev. J. G. Joyce, B. A., who opened the concert. After a few items were rendered, Rev. Joyce had to retire to attend a sick call, his place being taken by Mr. Wm. Simmonds. Each item was heartily received. Including in the programme were recitations, etc., by some of the inmates. The concert closed with an address by Mr. A. W. Miller, Supt., who thanked the League for coming, after which three cheers were given for Wesley Epworth League also the Supt. and thus ended a very pleasant and enjoyable afternoon and evening. is a treat of music too great to picture of exceptional merit is "The Bomber," which was presen-ed at this theatre last night. It is a production of Dion Clayton Stephenson's novel, "Perpetua," and it has been finally screened under the direction of John S. Robertson. The story deals with a young artist who meets a motherless girl and learns to love her. She weds another man for the sake of a murderer she is later arrested. Of course, she is innocent and how this is demonstrated, vests the development of the story with drama, real life and genuine appeal. Ann Bran, the artist, was quite artistic in her portrayal. The supporting cast is brilliant one, some of the most notable players including John Baker, Geoffrey Kerr, Amy Willard and Tom Velbecke. The picture is well worth seeing.

Just Folks
By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE VERY GOODLY MAN.

There was a man, a goodly man, a Godly man, he reads the Book of Sabbath days he reads the Book to wife and children three, Wednesday eve he leads in prayer and asks the Lord above, led him in the path of right and in the ways of love.

It strange to say, this goodly man who prays for love and grace and sits mirth around his hearth, but wears a solemn face, he talks much fault with this or that,
and if his wife should plead silver for a gingham dress, he would not grant her need.

Sometimes when his children come to beg for coins to buy the sweets displayed in store and shop, in anger he'll reply:
"Child, pray that money grows on trees or I am made of gold!"

And when his children come to ask some delight of him, and of such the worldly dens where joys are bought and sold."

This goodly man prays night by night and asks the Lord to give bounteous blessings unto him that he in peace may live,
and when his wife or children three
ask some delight of him, and keeps his money in his purse and spurns their slightest whim.

He does not cheat, he does not steal, he does not tell a lie;
he is, indeed, a goodly man, which no one can deny.

He reads the Book on Sabbath days—yet such a churl is he, should not like to be his wife or
of his children three.
