FALL AND WINTER IMPORTATIONS AT THE MAMMOTH CHEAP STORE!

Announcement Extraordinary! Unrivalled Success! Unequalled Display! Competition Defeated!

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS WORTH OF DRY GOODS TO SELECT FROM!

Heffernan Brothers have great pleasure in announcing to their patrons that, in view of the great advance which they knew must inevitably take place in the price of woollen goods they were careful to place their orders with the leading European and Canadian manufacturers fully three months in advance of any house west of Toronto, and by means of a large cash capital have been able to make special and most advantageous terms, and are now prepared to show a large and magnificent assortment of NEW DRY GOODS AT OLD PRICES.

CATALOGUE:

We here give a short catalogue of prices in a few of the leading departments, but for a full and correct idea of the immensity of the stock and the unparalleled low prices of goods we invite every one to call and inspect the stock. One visit to our Mammoth Establishment will convince even the most incredulous that Heffernan Brothers advertise facts only, and that the Britannia House is beyond doubt the cheapest store in Western Canada.

CHAPTER XIX.

LOVE REVEALS ITSELF—A DISAGREEMENT IN

TERMINATION—THE ORPHAN.

"Well, youngster," asked that worthy,

"what are you going to make of yourself?"

Where do you mean to go?"

"Is that a matter in which you feel interested?" returned George.

"Well, not particularly. But I have this bit of advice to give you: it will be best for all parties if you leave this part of the country immediately. You belong to Edinburgh. I believe. Well, you cannot do better than return there and leave Miss Gibson and her friends to themselves."

George looked at him with a hot angry flush on his face, and returned in a tone of significant meaning—

"Considering the tainted source whence this advice comes, it seems to me a highly suspicious aspect. I am not disposed to acquaint you, sir, with my movements or intentions, but I have a strong notion that you and I are not done with each other.

I know more about you, Mr. Nathan Gar-ret, than you imagine, and the knowledge

I have gained leads me to suspect that I am yet to meet in anything but the attitude of friends."

And so saying, George turned on his heel, and strode away in a direction opposite from the mansion, leaving Nathan Garrett standing half petrified on the spot.

"What the devil can he mean!" he ejaculated. "By Jove there's something about that young fellow that I can't make make out, and something is dangerous. I had a feeling of the kind the first moment

I saw him, and these words of his confirm

it. What can he know about me, or is that but an idle boast? He don't look like one that boasts idly either. I wish I had made inquiries in Edinburgh as to who he is. Curse him, he has given me quite a turn. We are enemies, are we?"

Well, I thank him at least for that frank intimation, for now that I know it, I am warranted to treat him as such, and I treat an enemy only in one way—I crush him."

And Nathan Garrett forcibly illustrated his meaning by bringing down the heel of his boot on a thistle which grew at his feet. Then he walked away, leaving the thistle bruised and broken, and the vicinity of the arbour was left to its usual night solitude.

George walked on, he scarcely knew or cared whither. He had taken a direction without design or object, conscious only of this that it led away from the mansion. A wild thrill of emotion was rushing through his soul—emotion which was at once commanding and conflicting, and which as yet took the form more of sensation than reflection. Strong, over-
