GUNNER CLINTON LEARN HAS RETURNED FROM THE FRONT.

Given a Hearty Welcome on Saturday Night.

The hearty welcome accorded Pte. Clinton Learn on his return from the battle front in France and Belgium on Saturday evening last, must have gladdened that young hero's heart, and shown him how greatly his services for King and Country were appreciated by every loyal citizen in It was not Aylmer and vicinity. the 10.30 train until after 9 o'clock ter, of Salisbury, England, and the on that night, but Mayor Mann and groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. train pulled in he was met by the Potts have taken up their residence 30th Battery, in charge of Lieut. Clarke, the Citizens' Band, and thousands of citizens of Aylmer and Malahide, and the hearty, repeated cheers that were given him must have made Private Learn proud of the fact that he had done his bit in the great cause of freedom and right. Clinton was severely wounded while serving with the 12th Field Battery, under Major Leonard, of London, and his wounds kept him confined to the hospital for a year. His last and most serious injury was received while doing scout work between the lines, when he was mistaken for an enemy by an Ally guard, by whom he was shot in shoulder. Leaving the station here, the procession came up town and halted at the Government Building, where addresses of welcome were given by Deputy-Reeve Hare, of Malahide; Mayor Mann, Aylmer; David Marshall, M.P.; Driver Harry Richardson, and A. H. Backus. In reply, Private Learn briefly but ably thanked the people for the hearty glad to have served his country, and the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Learn, but nevertheless fully appreciated the honor that was done him. He enlisted on 14th Aug., 1914, at London, and was in some of the heaviest engagements of the war.

McCall tells this story about the former speaker, who was an unusually large man: When his daughter Katherine, or "Kitty," as he called her, was a little girl, she had a cat to which she was much devoted. One day the kitten was sleeping in Reed's chair when he was about to sit down. His daughter, horror, gave the chair a sudden pul to save the cat from annihilation, and as a result Mr. Reed sat down heavily on the floor. It was a rather serious happening for a man of his size, and even a lesser man might easily have lost his temper. But the only notice he gave of the matter was to say gravely, after he had got on his feet, "Kitty, remember that it is easier to get another cat than another father."
