

PARKER CURE IS ONLY ONE OF MANY

Bright's Disease Invariably Vanquished by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Other Cases in Which the Great Kidney Remedy Conquered.

Reliable Men Tell of Victories Over the Dread Disease.

(From Mail and Empire.)

So great has been the interest in Toronto over the cure of Bright's Disease, reported from Shubenacadie, Nova Scotia, that a reporter yesterday visited the head office of the Dodd's Medicine Co., 62 Yonge street, Toronto, to ascertain the views of the management concerning the case. He found the management satisfied, but by no means surprised.

"No," was the answer to the reporter's question, "we are not surprised that the public generally are at length being forced to the conclusion that Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure Bright's Disease. We have known it for a long time ourselves. The Parker cure is only one of many of which we can furnish proofs."

A Specialist's Prescription
"The troubles in these cases have been made by what is termed a 'cat' medicine. Had they been made by a physician in the regular way, and that physician had been able to tell exactly how he brought them about, they would have been taken of the country to the other. But when people talk about our cures there is a tendency to say, 'Oh, that is only a patent medicine advertisement.' Dodd's Kidney Pills are the life work of a doctor, that they have been uniformly successful in treating all diseases of the kidneys, and that the only cases in which they differ from regularly obtained medical advice is that the prescription of a specialist is given the public at popular prices."

No Room for Doubt
"Now, you have seen the particulars in the Parker case. Nobody can doubt for an instant that that was a veritable case of the 'incurable' Bright's Disease, neither can anyone doubt that the cure was effected by Dodd's Kidney Pills and by no other agency. Of course it took time and perseverance, but the patient was in the last stages of the disease before she started to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Had she started sooner the work would have been easier and the results would have been obtained much more speedily. It was an extreme case and took time."

"You know of other cases of Bright's Disease that have been cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills?" queried the reporter.
"The manager walked over to a safe and produced a bundle of letters. Holding them up, he said: 'Every one of those letters tells of a case of Bright's Disease cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills, and every case has been thoroughly investigated and verified. Let me read you a few of them.'

Robt. Bond Cured
"This one, you see, is signed, 'Robert Bond, Mt. Brydges, Ont.' You see what he says. My attending physician said I was in the last stages of Bright's Disease. I commenced using Dodd's Kidney Pills in July, 1894, and need in all about twenty boxes, and have used no other remedy or medicine of any kind since. Cor. I sleep well, and I have a good appetite, etc.'
"That is away back in 1894. Here's another letter from the same Robert Bond, dated May 2, 1902. You see what he says in it. 'The cure permanent as far as I know. My general health is good.'

C. A. Harris Cured
"Here is another case. If you'll take the trouble to look at this letter you'll see it is written by the Postmaster at Levitt, Ont., Mr. C. A. Harris. Notice what he says: 'In 1897 I was at the point of death from Bright's Disease, and was a complete wreck, could not even dress myself or take care of myself, but now I am, I may say, a well man and I attribute it all to Dodd's Kidney Pills. That's from a postmaster, a man who undoubtedly knows what he is talking about, and there's no uncertain sound about what he says.'

Chas. Ingram Cured
"Here's one from a Toronto man, Charles Ingram, 58 Humbert street. He's a stonemason, and well known among the working men in the building trade. See what he says: 'For ten years I have been troubled with the first stages of Bright's Disease. I tried several other medicines, but could not get cured. A friend of mine told me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I have used four boxes and am now cured of the first stages of pains.'

G. H. Kent Cured
"I could go on showing you similar letters most of the afternoon. But I'll just give you one more—that of G. H. Kent, of 493 Gilmour street, Ottawa. His was a most remarkable case, indeed, so remarkable that he afterwards got him to make his statement under oath before a notary public. 'Mr. Kent is a printer in the employ of the American Bank Note Company. He suffered for four months from Bright's Disease, and had actually reached the stage when the doctors declared he could not live till the next morning. While the sorrowing wife waited by his bedside watching for the end her eye chanced to fall on an advertisement which said that Dodd's Kidney Pills would cure Bright's Disease.'

"As a drowning man grasps at a straw, so this despairing woman grasped at this last chance to save her husband's life. A messenger was procured, a druggist roused out of his bed, a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills bought, and the dying man given his first dose. That dose brought an improvement, gradually the pain ceased and health returned. It took seven teen boxes to cure him completely. But that's seven years ago, and he's been working every day since. Parker's cure like that is enough to make the whole world believe that Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure Bright's Disease."

Where the Trouble Lies
"The whole trouble is in making people believe. This is a skeptical age. It used to be, 'If you see it in the papers it's true. Nowadays it is 'If you see it in the papers don't believe it.' If we could bring the people one at a time and let them read these letters, or bring them face to face with the men and women who wrote them, our struggle would be over, for the whole world would admit that Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure Bright's Disease."

Lots More Cures
"As you can see, these are only a few cures of Bright's Disease picked at random from the many. There are dozens of others, equally as remarkable and all carefully investigated and attested to by reliable people. Surely you would think that as doctors can give no hope to those threatened with this terrible disease, there should be no hesitancy in giving Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial. And if Dodd's Kidney Pills can cure Bright's Disease, the most deadly form of kidney disease, how sure it is that they can cure those earlier stages of kidney disease, such as Diabetes, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Pain in the Back, etc. Remember, as I said before, Dodd's Kidney Pills are a specialist's prescription for diseases of the kidneys, and in the twelve years they have been before the public they have proved their worth curing thousands of sufferers from all forms of kidney disease. They are no cure-all, but they do cure all forms of kidney disease. Time and the public have proved that."

INTERNATIONAL LESSON NO. 1. APRIL 5, 1903.

Paul's Farewell to Ephesus.—Acts 20: 25-28.

Commentary.—Connecting links. After the riot at Ephesus, Paul immediately left the city. This took place, according to Acts 19: 35, A. D. 57. The apostle then spent two months visiting the churches he had founded on his second missionary journey. His first stopping place was Troas (II Cor. 12: 13). Here he was disappointed in not meeting Titus with news from the church at Corinth. Paul then crossed over to Europe and probably visited Philippi, Thessalonica and Berea; and perhaps it was at this time that he journeyed to Myrrineum (Rom. xv. 19). While in Macedonia, perhaps at Philippi, he wrote his second letter to the church at Corinth. Paul then visited Corinth and while there wrote the epistle to the Galatians and to the Romans.

administer such rule and discipline as is divinely delegated.

29. I know—From observation, from experience and from the insight given him by the Holy Spirit. Wolves—The enemies of Christ and His church. Those who taught false doctrines, evil principles and had morals and who brought worldly-ness and strife into the church.

30. Of your own selves—The enemies are described, on the one hand, as ravening wolves, that is, men who are seducers and murderers of souls, and on the other, as false brethren, who, with specious words, teach false and dangerous doctrines.

31. Watch—As a man on guard. Remember—My counsel and admonitions. Three years—The history accounts for two years and three months (chap. xix. 8-10), and to this may be added the time which probably preceded his teaching in the synagogue. "The two statements need not be conflicting. In the Jewish mode of speech, three years would only signify a long period, and parts of that which preceded and followed."—Cam. Bib. With tears—These show the love, earnestness, humility and tenderness with which Paul preached even the sternest truths.

32. The elders exhorted to unselfishness (vs. 32-35). 32. To God—An almighty support to those who trust him. Word of His grace—"The truths of the gospel. The gospel orignates in grace; reveals grace; produces grace. Build your superstructure on the foundation of grace. The foundation of faith had been laid, and the structure of a complete Christian character was to be reared through the instrumentality of the gospel."—An inheritance—Eternal life.

33-35. Covered—I have not made it an object of my living among you to obtain your property. Paul had power to demand support in the ministry as the reward of his labors, but he did not choose to exercise it, lest it should bring the charge of avarice against the ministry. Barnes. More blessed—"When the Lord intimated that the blessedness of giving is the greater, he did not intimate that the joy of receiving was small. He proclaims in this sentence the truth that the joy of his people in obtaining is great, and his own in bestowing it is greater."

36-38. Kneeling—"The usual attitude of prayer. It indicates reverence and humility." Wept sore—Wept much. Kissed—This was the common token of affection. Sorrowing—This was a most tender and appropriate parting scene. My brethren—Paul addressed every minister the spirit which Paul evinced at this time.

Thoughts—"I. We find in this address a look forward. The eye of the poet beholds the time to come. It is a view of his own future. He sees toils of litanies and imprisonments awaiting him, and death at the end. This picture would doubt the people at parting, but with joy on it not only without fear, but with joy. Here we are taught: 1. Our general business; 2. Our general attitude; 3. Our general attitude; 4. The places and manner of our teaching (vs. 31). 5. The faithfulness of the Holy Spirit. 6. The self-denial to be practised. 7. The patience and resolution to be exercised. 8. The motives we should have."

PRACTICAL SURVEY.
Paul's future outlook. Constrained by the spirit of God, and a strong conviction of duty, Paul decided to go to Jerusalem. His only choice was in the will of God. "I go bound in the will of God." He felt an irresistible drawing to the city, and he must remain in it both to his own idea of prudence and the remonstrances of his friends. To succeed in the Christian ministry a person must have a strong conviction of duty and abide by them. He must be set or he will be upset. He had no knowledge of the peculiar trials of the ministry, but he had a general intuition that to comply with the demands and imprisonments awaited him.

Paul's faithful record. He calls attention to those among whom he had mingled and labored to testify to his faithfulness. "I am pure from the blood of all men." His life and example were consistent. In his intercourse with men the minister of the gospel should be upright, sincere and devout. In his devotion to God he had not been influenced by the considerations of ease, wealth, or fame. Faithfulness to his sacred calling, he declared unto them all the counsel of God. He feared no man, he sought no man's favor. He knew no man after that he had been crucified. Crucified was his theme and his cry. Paul's charge to the elders. His work was done, and he throws the responsibility of maintaining the cause upon them. "I am pure from the blood of all men." He would have saved himself had he been able to do so. He must depend upon the aid of the Holy Ghost. Men may be removed for certain doctrines, rites, ceremonies and ordinances of the church and yet be ignorant of personal affectionate communion with God. The experience and life of every gospel minister should be an attraction to Godward. "To all the flock." The Holy Ghost had placed them in charge of His chosen people, who had been purchased with the precious price of the blood of Christ. Great is the responsibility of those who are made overseers of the church of God; to nourish it with truth; to lead it to the way of Christ; to watch over and guard against the entrance of evil, and to "more blessed to give than to receive." Paul's affectionate farewell. By his faithful labors and unselfish devotion to their interests he had endeared himself to the little flock. He was now about to take his departure. It was a sad but affectionate parting. His brethren gave evidence of the tenderest affection for him.

BUYING CLIMATE.

Californians are accused of selling climate. Perhaps it is so. It is a good investment. It pays better than buying coal. Open doors, fresh vegetables all the year, flowers and great all winter and fruits galore—that is health and happiness and life.

Where lands will produce everything that grows in the Middle West, and nearly everything that grows in the semi-tropics. Its climate is worth any man's coin. Winter vegetables, two crops a year on the same land, corn and oranges in the same field; English walnuts and French pines; Spain's olives or Bohemia's hops; to grow wheat or alfalfa; and as dairymen get $50 a year from each cow, to raise sweet potatoes or sugar beets that is to be able to choose along the line of your tastes or your ability, or your experience.

Lands are cheap, water plenty, soil rich, and nowhere can a man more easily "get staked." The State is prosperous, labor in demand, and so rapidly do things grow, that a family's expenses are easily provided. Until June 15th, rates to California, via Southern Pacific lines, will be based on $33 from Chicago. Write F. B. Choate, General Agent Southern Pacific, Detroit, Mich.

A STARTLING CONTRAST.

How Crime is Dealt With in London and New York.

In a recent issue of one of the magazines appears an interesting study of British police methods in the detection and punishment of crimes of violence as revealed in London's criminal record for a single year. The article has special significance, coming from the pen of Colonel Avery D. Andrews, formerly police commissioner of New York, and who was appointed to investigate and report a scheme for reorganizing the police department of that city. During the calendar year 1901, only twenty-four murders were reported in London, with its population of six millions. In sixteen of these cases, or two-thirds of the whole number, the accused were brought before the courts; six of the remaining eight committed suicide; one escaped to Italy, and one woman was not prosecuted owing to the peculiar circumstances of the case.

The contrast of this record with that of New York is startling. Last year about one hundred murders were committed, and in seven months sixteen murders were committed in the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx alone. It is not an accused person brought to trial. That New York is not exceptional in the United States is shown by the figures of the Chicago Tribune, which makes a specialty of criminal statistics, and which is authority for the statement that in 1901, when London had twenty-four murders, the United States had 7,832, and only one hundred and eighty-eight were executed. Last year there were nearly one thousand more murders, and only twenty-six more executions. Colonel Andrews suggests that the celerity and certainty of justice has much to do with the small number of crimes of violence in London, and he is doubtless right, for the same justice in the administration of law in Canada have had an equally deterrent effect, although it must be admitted that in this country there have of late years been some fearful miscarriages of justice as well as a great many cases in which the officers of the law have been obliged to confess themselves baffled.—Saturday Night.

A Few "Accomplishments."

Some one has suggested some things that every girl can learn before she is 15. Not every one can learn to play, or sing, or paint well enough to give pleasure to her friends, but the following "accomplishments" are within everybody's reach.

Slut the door and shut it softly. Keep your own room in tasteful order. Have an hour for rising, and dress. Learn to make bread as well as cake.

Never let a button stay off twenty-four hours. Always know where your things are.

Never let a day pass without doing something to make somebody comfortable.

Never come to breakfast without a collar.

Never go along with your shoes unbuttoned.

Speak clearly enough for your shoe-boys to understand.

Never flatter or hum so as to disturb others.—Ex.
