Fears of a General Rising in European Turkey.

Italy May Be Involved in a Fierce War in Tripoli—British Finances—Great Interest in the Education Bill.

Simla, India, March 31.-The plague situation is growing worse in the Punjaub, where 70,000 deaths are reported

THE PLAGUE'S DEADLY WORK. London, March 31.-The most horrible tales are being received of the mortality from plague in the Punjaub. Whole villages have perished, and the dead go unburied because there is no one to attend to them. The authorities are powerless to deal with the deadly visitation otherwise than by isolating its victims, and this has added starvation to other horrors, the stricken communities, being debarred from obtaining food.

The plague seems to have been brought by Hindoo pilgrims, who had been wallowing in filth at a sacred place in Central India, and who took back with them to their homes in the Punjaub an assortment of sanctified bacteria. On the other hand, the Hinwere responsible. It is probable that both contributed to the spread of the disease which is desolating the region of Northern Hindoostan. The British appear unable to cope with the plague as they were with the famines two years ago, and already there is an earnest call for a renewal of the splenlid work of relief then carried on through the Christian Herald. HUMAN SACRIFICES. Plague is not the only gruesome news tion in the subject states, and territories has been relaxed, owing to the demand for troops in South Africa, and some of the more turbulent tribes are becoming troublesome. In Orissa, the Khourds are again indulging in the practice of human sacrifice, which of late years has been almost put down. renewal of this unlawful custom is due chiefly to recent poverty of the propitiate the "earth god" and secure abundant harvests. The victims are called "Meriah," and are always bought with a price, but sometimes are kidnapped from the plains, and then sold. The sacrifice has often been attended with disgusting cruelty, everyone striving to cut off a piece of the living victim to bury on his farm. The English had succeeded in almost suppressing the abhorrent practice, but lately the Khourds have grown defiant, and have refused to deliver up victims on demand from the military. TROUBLE IN EUROPEAN TURKEY In a letter from Athens, published this morning in the Times, the correspondent says there are many indications that grave trouble is coming in Macedonia and Albania. There is no tests of the powers, writes the correspondent, urged to action by the Greek circular, have resulted in Turkey making energetic military preparations, in the face of which it is possible that M. Sarafoff will not venture to put his plans into execution. Still, owing to Russian machinations and the jealousies of the powers, which prevent the execution of the reforms stipulated in the Berlin treaty, the outlook is disquieting. STRANGE FORECAST. Cecil Rhodes' strange forecast that his enemies would slobber over his deathbed has not been fulfilled. Those who disliked the masterful influence of the great imperialist in political affairs at home and in the empire are discreetly silent, although unconvinced. He might well have craved deliverance from the outburst of blind eulogy and adulation which has not been a useful service to the memory of a unique and picturesque Englishman. Imperialism has known no more expansive irony than the sudden apotheosis of Cecil Rhodes, after six years of obliquity and Kai's soldiers and the populace. The denunciation as a millionaire intriguer, responsible for the Jameson raid and were enlisted in the so-called united Great Britain's enormous toll of death and taxation by the Boer campaign. The sudden transformation of public opinion has not been aided by the choice of the burial place, in lonely majesty among the Matoppo Hills. This was the fancy of an idealist, who remained a dreamer even while he took a materialistic view of the money power as one of the resources of empire, but it fascinated public interest and rendered the closing scene of the career of the glorified imperialist unique and impressive. Full justice to Cecil Rhodes will not be done even by his most loyal friends until the provisions of his will, respecting a public trust, established for the benefit of South Africa and education, are known.

THE ENGLISH EDUCATION BILL. Religious discussion turns upon the pivot of the education bill, which is well received by English church men, on account of the assistance offered to voluntary schools. Several bishops have declared themselves satisfied with the provisions of the measures, and are substantial support received from the ratepayers. The Wesleyan attitude is more uncertain, especially as the Rev. Hugh Price Hughes asserts that the real purpose of the bill is to destroy the well-organized school board system and ender sectation to only sectation.

of local rates as well as the King's is said that a network of farms will be taxes. Non-conformists naturally are frightened by the obligation to contri- plan. bute to the expense of fostering Church of England principles in a large number of voluntary schools. The voice of the ratepayers has not been heard in the religious press. The education bill, in abolishing the dual system of control, saddles the entire cost of improving and maintaining elementary schools upon the local taxpayers.

EXCHEQUER FINANCES. Treasury receipts have been unisually heavy in the closing weeks of the financial year. The estimates of 175 miles west of fastnet. Both vessels the chancellor of the exchequer will be considerably exceeded, and the deficit in next year's budget may be nearer £20,000,000 than £25,000,000. Expert budget makers, while revising former estimates, do not modify their general forecast that Sir Michael Hicks-Beach will borrow the bulk of what he needs, and that tobacco, rather than incomes, will bear the main burden of increased taxation. The revenue of the United Kingdom for the quarter ending March 31 shows an increase of £4,618,913, due entirely to the additional two pence placed on the income tax. KING ADOPTED LIPTON'S IDEA. According to a statement in Today, Sir Thomas Lipton is responsible for the idea of King Edward's coronation was in Sofia last fall, he addressed dinner to London's poor. It was Sir some very strong representations to the Bulgarian minister of foreign affairs. Thomas' wish to find the money himself. He offered to place a sufficient sum in the hands of a responsible committee, but the idea seemed such a happy one that the King decided to identify himself personally with it, and to supply the funds from the privy purse. It was at King Edward's personal request that Sir Thomas Lipton joined the committee of mayors who

She was so desirdoos charge that Mohammedans who ous of becoming an expert that she have been in a pilgrimage to Mecca paid a tutor to teach her, and acquired such proficiency that her playing at Lord Farquhar's recent royal party was much commented on. Her majesty paid her losses out of a little gold purse, hung to her waist. King Edward has long been an expert bridge whist player, but the Queen's conversion causes some comment.

Italy is not alone in its preparations for a war in Tripoli. Turkey is making ready too. The Turkish fleet is not in condition to resist an Italian attack on the African province, but for several weeks troops have been arriving at Tripoli from Constantinople and points crops, the sacrifices being intended to in Asia Minor, and should the Italians attempt to land a force at Tripoli, they may meet a surprise. Advices from Cairo state that word has gone out to the desert tribes of the proposed Italian invasion, and that a mighty gathering of Moslems will assemble to carry on a holy war against the infidel aggressors. Italy may find Tripoli worse than Abyssinia. The Moslems of Northern Africa are fiercely aroused against the Europeans, and as every man is a fighter, it would be possible for a fanatical leader to assemble millions under the banner of Islam for a final and desperate stand against the

MANY KILLED IN CHINESE RIOTS Chinese officials in Pekin say that at Ta Ming Fu, the southernmost prefecture of the Province of Chi Li. This, perhaps, is an exaggeration, but the oss of life was undoubtedly great. The riots were due to attempts of local officials to collect indemnities for the Catholics, as arranged between the officials and the priests.

Soldiers have been dispatched to quell the disturbances, and a taotai has been sent to adjust the differences. The officials warn the missionaries to keen out of the disturbed district. Such resistance to the payment of missionary claims is to be expected in localilarge sums are levied.

STEAMER HOLYROOD LOST. The British steamer Holyrood, from Portland, Maine, March 15, for London, sank on March 27, as a result of a collision with Leyland Line steamer Bernard Hall, from Liverpool, March 26, for Barbadoes and Galveston, Texas. The crew of the Holyrood, numbering twenty-eight men, boarded the Bernard Hall, which has arrived at Queenstown with her bows stove in. The collision occurred at 8 o'clock in the evening in a dense fog at a point were going slowly at the time. Captain Fenton and Captain Cassentine were on the bridges of their respective steamers, and a careful lookout was being kept, but the danger was not discovered until it was too late. The Bernard Hall struck the Holyrood amidships on the port side. Boats were quickly lowered from both vessels, and the crew of the Holyrood scrambled out of the steamer, which sank twenty minutes after being struck. The Holyrood was of 1,735 tons net register.

London, March 31.-The details of Lord Kitchener's drive against Gen. Delarey prove that military operations, ties where the population is poor and instead of being slackened, are prosecuted with undiminished vigor. The lack of mobility of the British columns says the greatest loss of life occurred has been the inscrutible mystery of the entire campaign. At last an achievement is recorded in which the British columns, unimpeded by guns and a were enlisted in the so-called united supply train, have not only moved as villagers, resisted the soldiers, but as rapidly as the Boers, but have virtumost of them were villagers, only ally gone through their lines, and then wheeled about and driven the enemy before them. British mounted forces in hunting down guerillas, instead of riding straight and light, and doubling back with the enemy, have been employed in slow concentric driving likely to oppose the signing of the movements as elaborate as Aldershot maneuvers. If the secrets of mobility and rough riding have been learned in Delarey's district, the extension of the blockhouse system will not be requisite for bringing the war to an end.

> From the first prisoners captured it was learned that Gen. Delarey himself was outside the actual cordon, having slept some distance westward, but Liebenberg, Kemp and other Boer commanders were inside the column of The first body, consisting of troops. about 500 Boers, sighted at 10 o'clock in the morning, March 24, retreated at full speed, making for a gap between the British columns. These troops also succeeded in driving back another body of 300 Boers, who were forced to desert the guns they had captured from the Von Donop convoy in February. The Boers tried to get through several openings, but on each occasion were forced to double back until they ulti-mately found a gap and passed out of British lines, within sight of Klerksdorp. MR. RHODES' LAST RESTING PLACE.

Mr. Gardner Williams, manager of the De Beers mines, left London for South Africa on Saturday. He says he will arrive in time to attend the last stage of the funeral of Mr. Rhodes. A special road has to be cut to the spot on the Matoppo Hill, which the Colossus himself designated as his final resting place. At present this place can only be reached by a difficult bridle path. Mr. Williams states that the burial will not take place for about a month. The grave will be marked by a dead man's personal friends and business colleagues. It is proposed that the gun-carriage which bore the Long Cecil during the siege of Kimberley and which will convey his remains up Telling Work Done by Kitchener's the steep side of the Matoppos, shall be stationed on the summit of the hills as a part memorial.

GEN. DELAREY. A story is told in the English papers concerning a captain of the Fighting Fifth, who fell into Gen. Delarev's hands on Dec. 13, 1900, when, in cor junction with Commandant Bevers, he surprised Gen. Clements at Nooitgedacht and defeated him with heavy loss. After the engagement, Gen. Delarey, addressing the captain in friendly tones, said: "Our day today, captain; Acting President Schalkburger to open der that the prisoners should be removed to a neighboring mill, and offered the captain his own pony that he might mer president of the Orange Free State, ride there. The offer was accepted, but on mounting the officer found himself in the position of being an armed wet and Steyn have crossed the main | man again, for Delarey's rifle was resting in the stirrup cup. "Perhaps you line of the railroad, going west. They had better take this, general," he said, handing the weapon to Delarey, who laughingly replied that perhaps he had. He then said: "But I must have those glasses, captain," indicating a pair of field glasses, which his prisoner was carrying. The latter, however, begged to be allowed to retain these, as he particularly prized them. "I am very sorry, captain," was the reply, "but I must have them. But I tell you what I will do. As soon as this (the war) is over I will send them to you, or their
