Premier Hughes Sees Need for Australia Declaring International Position.

BELIEVES IN LOCAL NAVY

Melbourne, Australia, Nov. 18.-Cana dian Press Cable, via Reuter's.)-Premier W. F. Hughes of Australia, in an election speech at Orange, New South Wales, said that perhaps before long Australia again would have to declare her position internationally. Australia could leave Britain, he said, to settle the Near East question on her own account, but if by some extraordinary circumstances Great Britain were beaten in the first attack, where, he asked, would Australia be?

Premier Hughes added: "The Empire is great because during the whole of our history it has controlled the sea. Danger will come to us only from the sea, and anything that impairs the Empire's sea power imperils the Empire's existence. The present trouble in the Near East might in volve Egypt, India and the Suez Canai, which is the zateway to Australia's citadel. We have reduced our defense expenditure to a minimum beyond which it is unsafe to go." The future naval policy must shortly be discussed by the British government, said the premier, when the whole que tion of the policy on the Pacific will be reviewed. Mr. Hughes thought that Australia should retain a local navy, but reserve the right to join Great Britain in expenditure on a base or bases outside Australia. If it were considered wise strategically, Great Britain might in return be prepared to assist in munition production in Aus-garded as important, in view of his recent statement that he was being regularly informed from London concerning the trend of the Turkish crisis.

Publication of reports showing that a number of so-called second grade United States railroads were not earning their freight charges had a depressing effect on railroad shares, most of which are now selling well below the high prices reached last month. However, statistics on car loadings continue to reflect steady improvement in business conditions throughout the country.

Is your factory a museum?

JOUR job as a manufacturer is to keep in touch with the buying public and to make it trust you. Otherwise, the buyer is indifferent to your product, and your factory becomes a museum for dead stock.

Your closest contact with your customers is your advertising in the Daily Newspapers. The people who buy this newspaper today did so yesterday and will do so tomorrow for one prime reason—to get the news. The shopping crowds at any department store prove how closely such news is read. Perfect your contact through the advertising space you rent for today, and give them more news-today's news of your product, your prices, your service and your avenues of distribu-

You can do this in only one way -through the Daily Newspapers.

If you tell the truth and do your job as well by the readers as the daily newspaper does by you in providing and retaining them, you will not need to advertise in any other way.
