GERMANY ACCEPTS ALLIED DEMANDS

Proceeds To Carry Out Fulfilment of Allied Military Negotiations.

SPLENDID OUTLOOK

By EDGAR ANSEL MOWRER. By Radio to The Advertiser and the Chicago Daily News. Copyright. Berlin, Nov. 6.—Despite the news from Paris that the allies are still not satisfied with what the Germans accomplished in the way of fulfilment of allied military demands, this correspondent is able to say that the negotiations are actually proceeding with the best outlook for a satisfactory solution. The question of security police aleady is on the way to solution, the mands for demilitarization of this body. The same is true of the question of German patriotic organizations, whose relations with the government will soon be officially regulated in a satisfactory manner.

The third question, reorganization of the German general staff and transformation of General Seeckt from something less belligerent in position, perhaps as chief of staff, now is getting the most serious con sideration. The writer believes that wihin a few weeks all difficulties will be eliminated and the evacua tion of Cologne can proceed.

Germans accepting the allied de-

The man smiled as she struggled helplessly in the clasp of his one arm, which at once imprisoned both hers, and drew her to him. She strained to hold her head far backward, but that was as hopeless as her striving to release her arms. Haines knew that she was conscious of this helplessness, too, and a laugh rumbled in his chest.

"Just one—now," he said. "Just one little kiss!"

But his words and his laugh struck something new in the girl, sent a new sort of fire flashing into her eyes. Her face suddenly snapped close to his; her head ducked, twisted, raked upward, and she was free, staggering back to the locker as Haines swore and touched his cheek with careful fingertips where the protruding point of the one hatpin in Janet's little turban had scratched him deeply.

"Try it again!" Janet panted from the corner where she cowered. "Try it again, Val Haines!"

"Guess, my dear! Guess! You saw your old man's tug dock when we left. Look back, through the window yonder, and tell me if you see a light."

After a moment Janet rose and looked out astern.

She sprang up then, and grasped the spokes of the wheel.

"What's this? Where are you going?" she cried.

In the faint light from the binnacle she saw Haines smiling down at her, cruelly and in triumph.

"I said we were going to Escanaha," he answered, and chuckled.

"You said that, but we're not"—glancing at the compass as if to register the perself.

"She did not answer.

"Of course not. They won't be along wo dear; they'll get your message but they won't come. Trust your murdering lover for that! It's a poor sort to depend on—a man like that!"

"Now you have got discouraged and down-hearted, and it is no wonder you cannot make sales.

"The salesman must have lots of energy and vigor as well as confidence in himself and what he has to sell. "But you cannot have confidence in anything so long as your nerves are weak and you spend the nights worrying instead of getting good, refreshing sleep. "Take my advice, boy, and go straight to the drug store and get half a dozen boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Then make up your mind that while you are using this you will get out into the fresh air all you can and forget to worry.

'Now, you may feel pessimistic after all the treatments you have been taking, but I know what I am talking about. "My nerves were in a worse condition than yours ever were. I could scarcely get a wink of sleep, and did not care whether I got anything to eat or not.

"Besides, I got so irritable and down-hearted that nothing seemed to go right. "The experience that I had enables me to sympathize with you now, and also to say that I am certain that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will help you.

"It is entirely different to most medicines used for the nerves, because instead of merely stimulating the tired nerves to over-exertion, it nourishes them back to health and vigor. Now, Jack, you must give the Nerve Wilson, Grocer, Perth, Ont., writes: "In fitting up this building for a grocery business I worked very hard, and after putting in my stock I continued plugging away, good and hard, too. I commenced to feel myself going down commenced to feel myself going down—my weight went from 180 pounds down to 154 pounds. My appetite began to fail, and, of course, upon retiring I could not get a good night's rest. Sometimes after going to sleep my nerves would twitch, and I would waken up with a start, and then lie awake for hours. I remembered having used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food before, so I started in again, and took a good treatment, started in again, and took a good treatment. using about half a dozen boxes. I soon felt my appetite returning, I could sleep well, and commenced gaining in weight, until I felt like a new man. From the benefits
