

The Colonist

FRIDAY, APRIL 27, 1894.

WHAT ARE THE REAL POINTS?

It suits our amusing contemporary, the Westminster Columbian, to say: "The Colonist has a large contract on hand trying to distract attention from the real points of the Nakusp-Slocan scandal, and from the peculiar conduct of the Government in the matter of the appointment of a Royal Commission to inquire thereinto."

It is very singular that our contemporary should fall into this mistake, for our object has been exactly the opposite of what it represents it to be. What we have been trying to do is to attract attention to the real point of the Nakusp-Slocan scandal. What is that point? It is that the Government have acted corruptly in the transaction, that they have abused the confidence placed in them by the people, to put money in their own pockets that of right belongs to the public—that, in the slang of the day, they have been hoodling.

This the Columbian will have to admit is the offence which the Opposition have been trying in the most discredit way to lead the people to believe that the Government have committed. Now, it can be easily understood if the Opposition can show that their accusation is well grounded they have proved their point and have done enough to ruin the Government completely. After having made this very grave charge good, to inquire into other and less important charges would be a mere waste of time; it would be like mutilating a dead man. Now, what we have been doing all along is to concentrate public attention on this serious charge and to make it the sole subject of inquiry.

But the Opposition profess to believe that it is not sufficient to try to find out whether or not the Government have been guilty of stealing, but that other and less important matters should be made the subjects of inquiry. We are sure that the Columbian must see that this course is either foolish or dishonest. If a man has reason to believe that his servant has robbed him, will he, when he prosecutes him for the robbery, try to have him condemned for having exceeded his instructions in a certain matter, or for having made a bad bargain? The man who would pursue such a course would be set down by practical men as an idiot, or they would come to the conclusion that he did not believe his own accusations and that he was prosecuting his servant to gratify his spite.

What we have contended from the first, is that in insisting upon an inquiry into the charges of corruption, the Government are doing all that is necessary in the public interest, and what their accusers were in honor and honesty bound to do whenever they made the charges. When the Opposition did not accept the issue that they themselves had raised and attempted to confuse it by introducing other matters which were of little importance, had we not good reason to conclude that they did not want an investigation, and that Mr. Beaven's resolution was introduced to balk inquiry?

In discussing this part of the subject our contemporary is far from being as open and as disingenuous as it tries to appear. In order to show that the Opposition's amendment was not designed to balk inquiry, it quotes the amendment without the preamble, merely, when the sense manifestly requires it, inserting a few words of it which convey a false impression, and which we fear were deliberately intended to do so. In order to expose the Columbian's little trick, we will have to quote a part of the amendment as it appears in its columns:

"Therefore be it resolved, that a respectful address be presented to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor praying him to appoint a Royal Commission to inquire whether the Hon. the Premier did so act (that is, as stated in the preamble, 'as if he were an agent of the company,') and whether, etc."

The Columbian, it is plain, expects its readers to believe that the words "as if he were an agent of the company" were all that appeared in the preamble relative to the Premier's action in the matter. Now, the whole passage in the preamble reads as follows: "That it appeared that the Hon. the Leader of the Government acted in the matter as if he were an agent of the Company, as the Legislature had never given him authority to negotiate on behalf of the Company in respect to the construction of a railway, and had been working more in the interests of the Company than the Province."

The Royal Commission would, if Mr. Beaven's amendment had passed, have been required to inquire into the authority given the Leader of the Government by the Legislature with respect to the guarantee. This was a matter of politics which the Legislature had already dealt with. It had approved the action of the Premier and such action was, therefore, outside the purview of any Commission. Besides, if the Leader of the Government could be shown to be guilty of corruption, inquiry into the extent of his authority would be wholly unnecessary. The Three Forks business was also dragged into the inquiry to confuse it. No one in the House of Assembly had accused the Government of wrong-doing with respect to that townsite. The subject had been before the Legislature in another shape, and no one had even whispered a charge concerning it. Why was it dragged into the inquiry if not to obstruct it and perhaps to throw dust in the eyes of the people? These extraneous matters were thrown out of the inquiry in order that the labors of the Commission should be confined to finding out whether or not the Government had been guilty of corruption. It must not be forgotten that the Government adopted the only really relevant passage in Mr. Beaven's amendment. On the motion, we think, of the Hon. Mr.

Yemom, the following passage of Hon. Mr. Beaven's amendment was added to the Government's resolution:

"and whether any of His Honor's ministers have or had any interest, directly or indirectly, in the Nakusp and Slocan Railway Company, or in any of the contracts of the company, either in material or supplies, or in any way whatsoever."

The adoption of this strong and comprehensive passage is proof positive that the Government were willing to accept the help of the Opposition in making the inquiry into their action with respect to the Nakusp and Slocan Railway transactions as close and as rigid as it could possibly be made.

We have shown that the Government has done what it could to attract attention to the most serious of the charges brought against it, and that it only rejected what had nothing to do with that charge. What we want the Columbian and every one else who desires to arrive at an impartial opinion in this matter to do is to go over the Government's resolution sentence by sentence and word by word, to see if it could be made stronger, and to attempt to discover any loophole through which the Government, if it tried, could by any possibility escape the most searching inquiry. That resolution proves—not that the Government are innocent, as our contemporary foolishly says we suggest—but that they are not afraid of the most searching inquiry before a competent tribunal.

A PLAYED-OUT PROPHET.

The News-Advertiser does not venture to continue its political predictions. It is, we shrewdly suspect, beginning to find that the mantle of the prophet does not become it and does not fit well. This is the truth. It does, indeed, look very ridiculous when it attempts to peer into the future, and when it makes fanciful calculations with imaginary figures. It is perhaps beginning to find out, too, that its readers take no stock in baseless computations made merely for electioneering purposes. They have seen the trick tried before, and they know exactly what it is worth.

It says, among other silly things, that we display "keen anxiety at the thought that Mr. Cotton may possibly have a seat in the next Legislature." Is this also said for effect? We are very sure that we never felt the slightest anxiety about Mr. Cotton's success in the coming electoral campaign. Why should we? From a party point of view, Mr. Cotton has proved himself to be a harmless creature. He has given the Government very little trouble indeed, and he has not succeeded in making the Independent party, so-called, even respectable. If Mr. Cotton is returned at the next election he will count one on the Opposition side, nothing more. He was very far indeed from being a power in the Legislative Assembly, and he is certainly not a power in the country. We do not think that he will be returned, for the reason that we have already stated. We have heard that the electors of Vancouver are disappointed in him and that they intend to choose a better man to fill the place he occupied in the Legislature.

Our contemporary wants to know who or what "Bobadil" is. We were under the impression that every man having the least claim to be considered intelligent knew something about "Bobadil." But it appears that we were mistaken. "Bobadil," then, is the creation of the imagination of a man of genius. He is a cowardly and beggarly adventurer, who tries to pass himself off on simple people as a hero. In their company he brags about what he could do and counts his slain by the hundred, but when there is actual fighting to be done Captain Bobadil outs a very sorry figure. We trust that our contemporary is satisfied with the way in which we have complied with his request for information. It sees that Bobadil is neither dangerous nor independent, but an impudent braggart, who tries to make those with whom they associate believe that they are very different from what they are by nature. We may add that men of ordinary discernment do not require inspiration from any quarter to convince them that there are many members of the Opposition who are both played out and found out.

A Toronto dispatch says, Detective Greer, who went to Bozeman Mont, to inquire into the circumstances in connection with the alleged confession of a man named Robert Dutton, that he had committed the Williams murder in Toronto township on December 14 last, and for the commission of which Walter MacWherrill is to be hanged at Brampton on June 1, has returned. Greer says the affidavit which W. J. Stevenson, stenographer in Hartman & Hartman's office, Toronto, made and signed by Stevenson, was made and signed by Stevenson himself. He has a number of affidavits to the effect that the signature "Robert Dutton" was in the handwriting of Stevenson, and others setting forth that Stevenson was a man whose word was not worthy of credence.

A QUESTION OF PRINCIPLE.

The question whether the Government should grant pensions to members of the permanent military force of the Dominion is, it appears to us, one of common justice and common honesty. If the Government avails itself of the services of men in a military capacity and gives them while in its employ barely enough to live on, and that in a very modest way, it is in honesty bound, when the men have worn themselves out in its service, to provide for their old age. This obligation is recognized in the case of soldiers by every Government that we know of except that of Canada.

The pay of Canadian soldiers is very small indeed. If an officer has no private means, it must be very difficult for him to raise a family and at the same time live respectably, and as to making provision for sickness or old age, it is a sheer impossibility. Such meagre pay can only be justified where the State undertakes to provide for the officer after he is worn out in its service.

We cannot imagine anything more unjust than for the Government to avail itself of a man's services while he is in the prime of life for a remuneration confessedly inadequate, and when he is old and unable to learn a new profession to throw him aside with as little consideration or compunction as a man would be worn out garment or a disabled machine. A man who has been in the army, it matters not whether that army is big or small, fifteen or twenty years, has lost his chance of making a career for himself in any other profession, and he is unable to learn a new business. If he has served faithfully and has done the work required of him, he has a claim on the State for support which ought to be cheerfully recognized. We repeat, we cannot see what legitimate ground there is to oppose Col. Prior's advocacy of pensions for deserving members of the permanent force of the country who have spent their best days in the service of the State. An excellent article on the subject, taken from the Toronto Mail, will be found in another column.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

CRICKET.

CRICKET AT THE FAIR. TO THE SPORTING EDITOR:—Several notes have appeared in the COLONIST recently relating to a "Visit of British Columbia cricketers to San Francisco. The whole question is one of ways and means. The fair managers offer to pay the expenses of cricketers as they did in the case of the football and lacrosse teams? If so, then let the man who has the letter get up a team, or let him hand over the letter mentioned in the COLONIST this morning to some one else. I am willing to give my assistance in getting a team together. Action, not words, is needed. UMPIRE.

THE WINNIPEG'S COACH. WINNIPEG, April 19.—(Special).—G. Woolley, the Nottingham professional, whose services have been secured by the Winnipeg Cricket Club this season, arrived in the city to-day. At a meeting of the Manitoba Cricket Association a schedule of matches for the season was drawn up. The first will be played during the Winnipeg exhibition.

LACROSSE.

THE N. A. L. A. CONVENTION. At the N. A. L. A. Convention recently held at Cornwall, Ont., it was arranged that the intermediate championship should be decided by means of the series system, the delegates of the different junior teams desiring to compete to meet in Montreal at a future date. It was decided to hold the next convention in Quebec. The following officers were elected: Hon. H. H. H. H., Frank Lalley; president, Tobias Butler; vice-president, Wm. Pollock; secretary-treasurer, D. T. Maguire.

YACHTING.

GOULD NOT BENNETT. NEW YORK, April 19.—The Times says: George Gould has purchased the Vigilant, the gentleman who had the yacht built last season to defend the America cup against the Valkyrie met yesterday afternoon, and decided to accept the terms offered by Mr. Gould, who is to pay $25,000 for the boat. It is probable that Mr. Gould intends to race her. He is a member of the New York yacht club, and owns the big schooner Hillegard, formerly the property of the Prince of Wales.

CHESS.

LASKER BEATS STEINITZ. PHILADELPHIA, April 19.—The second game in the champion chess match between Steinitz and Lasker was played to-day, and for the second time in the series the champion met defeat at the hands of his young opponent. Lasker opened with the queen's pawn, and in 35 moves Steinitz was beaten.

BIG MINING DEAL.

W. S. Hogg, travelling representative of the Western Loan and Trust Company, of Montreal, is in this city on his way home from British Columbia, where he has been for about five months. Mr. Hogg, besides attending to the company's business has been looking over some mining properties in the Pacific province, to develop a valuable claim contracted by him there. The capital stock of the company is $1,000,000 and the shareholders are all Eastern men. Most of the capital has been subscribed, and Mr. Hogg is now on his way East to raise thereat. The property, which is situated 120 miles southeast of Vancouver, is a very valuable one. Mr. Hogg has several splendid samples of gold with him. It is expected that operations will commence on the mining some time in June. Six hundred and forty acres in all are controlled by the company, and the work will be very extensive. Jas. Burridge, of this city, is the only Western man interested in the enterprise. Speaking of the mining prospects in British Columbia this year Mr. Hogg said there would be great activity and the Western country would be the centre of operation for many capitalists. Business in all circles along the line is brightening up and a good season is anticipated.—Winnipeg Nor-West.

ALL A FAKE.

A Toronto dispatch says, Detective Greer, who went to Bozeman Mont, to inquire into the circumstances in connection with the alleged confession of a man named Robert Dutton, that he had committed the Williams murder in Toronto township on December 14 last, and for the commission of which Walter MacWherrill is to be hanged at Brampton on June 1, has returned. Greer says the affidavit which W. J. Stevenson, stenographer in Hartman & Hartman's office, Toronto, made and signed by Stevenson, was made and signed by Stevenson himself. He has a number of affidavits to the effect that the signature "Robert Dutton" was in the handwriting of Stevenson, and others setting forth that Stevenson was a man whose word was not worthy of credence.

A NEW STAR of more than ordinary brilliancy has burst upon the literary firmament in the person of Rev. S. R. Crockett, a copy of whose "Stuck Minister and Some Common Men" comes to us in a handsome Canadian copyright edition, from the busy press of the Methodist Book and Publishing House, Toronto. The book has already reached its fifth English edition. Mr. Crockett is a new name in literature, but it has come to stay. He has the making of a great writer in him—fire, pathos, humor, wide sympathies, keen insight into character, a touch light and masterly, a style serious and flexible. He gives us here a series of bright sketches of Scottish rural life, full of strength and charm. Humor and pathos mingle with delightful effect. To come across a volume like this is indeed refreshing. No wailing pessimism mars our enjoyment with its dreary diatribe in humanity; every page exhibits a noble faith in the higher possibilities of our nature, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and 'Heather Lintie' are two that come near to perfection. They are dropped in Scotland. They have understood the nature of the soil, and the result is a really successful. Referring to the book, Robert Lowie, Stevenson, in writing a friend, remarks: "The whole book breathes admirably of the soil. The 'Stuck Minister' and