From P. Slaght, Esq., Advertising Agent of the G.W.R.R. Bulletin, London, Ont.

LONDON, Aprill 18, 1882.

This is to certify that I was suffering very severely from a cold, which had continued about three months, which caused me to cough terribly and raise large quantities of mucus from the lungs. After trying various remedies I applied to Dr. M. Hilton Williams, January 28th, 1882, who prescribed for me, and after using his remedies for ten days I was entirely cured, and I can recommend his to any who may be like afflicted, believing it to be the only true method of treating lung diseases.

P. SLAGHT,
Adv. Agent G. W. R. R., London, Ont.

From Rev. B. F. Austin, A.M., B.D., Principal Alma Ladies' College, St. Thomas, Ont.:

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Jan. 3rd, 1882.

M. HILTON, WILLIAMS, M.D.:

My Dear Sir,—In September last I contracted a severe cold which settled upon my lungs quite seriously, affecting the left one. I had a very bad cough, accompanied by expectoration indicative of Pulmonary Phthisis. My strength decreased and spirits sank very low, and when I called upon you I was in doubt whether any medical treatment would avail in my case. Under your treatment I have already recovered my wonted strength and health. My strength has increased, my cough has ceased, and in every way I feel much benefitted by your treatment.

You are at perfect liberty to use these statements as you please.

Very sincerely yours,
B. F. AUSTIN,

They could not say who left the switch open. Martin Allen was acquitted.

AN UNFAITHFUL WIFE.

The Husband Drowns Himself and His Sorrow in Lake St. Clair.

DETROIT, July 4.—About 12 o'clock on Saturday night, when the steamer Omar D. Conger was crossing Lake St. Clair five miles below the cut, on her return trip to Sarnia with a large number of excursionists, the startling cry of "man overboard" aroused the passengers. Engineer Mains heard the cry and immediately stopped the engine, and Capt. Smith gave orders to return and look for the man, but though half an hour was spent in the search he could not be found. The man is said to be James Stanley of Mooretown, Ont. He got on the Conger in the morning, being slightly intoxicated at the time, and went to Detroit for the purpose of meeting his wife, who had deserted him, and persuading her to return to his home. On arriving at Detroit he visited his wife and had a long conversation with her, but she refused to accompany him. Stanley left her in a very melancholy mood, and tried to drown his sorrow in more liquor. Shortly before the boat left Detroit Stanley got on board. He was very gloomy. When the boat left Detroit the weather was cloudy, but on reaching Lake St. Clair, which was somewhat rough, the moon was shining. Stanley stood on the starboard side of the steamer, his eyes fixed upon the waves. There were a number of men around, but none realized from his quiet attitude that he had resolved to jump overboard. Without uttering a word he placed one foot on a bench standing against the bulwark, the other on the railing about nine feet above the deck, and leaped into the lake. A reporter says three persons saw Stanley climb up the railing, but he moved so quickly that they did not conceive his purpose until they saw him strike the water.

A MOONLIGHT MISHAP.

Two Steamers Collide and Twenty People Lose Their Lives.

MINGO JUNCTION, Ohio, July 4.—The steamer Sciota with about 500 passengers collided with the John Lomas in the middle of the river to-night, sinking the Sciota in fifteen feet of water. A survivor says that the Sciota was coming under a full head of steam. When about half a mile from Mingo Junction the John Lomas was sighted coming down. The Sciota whistled for the channel but owing to a misunderstanding both boats took the same side, the Lomas striking the Sciota and sinking her in three minutes. The scenes on the Sciota were heart-rending and the life struggle was frightful. The Lomas was only slightly disabled and went to work saving those on the Sciota. This task was rendered easier by the bright moonlight, and no doubt many lives were saved for this reason. The loss of life is about twenty.

A St. Louis Lawyer at Rome.

A Mr. Day, a Protestant lawyer from St. Louis, is in Rome, and has lately received distinguished attentions from the cardinal secretary of state. In the course of conversation with Mr. Day, Cardinal Jacobini said:—"It is always a treat to receive a visit from an American gentleman. My sympathy with America is so great that I sometimes really regret the office which I hold merely because it makes it impracticable for me to cross the Atlantic and visit the great country of the youngest nation. Such a trip has been and is still the ideal of my life. But who knows? Perhaps one of these days we shall be obliged to ask your hospitality. Will you Americans grant it to the Holy Father and to us?" "O surely!" Mr. Day replied. "Tell his Holiness that America would be only too happy to welcome the representant of the Catholic church, who would certainly find among Protestant Americans not only the respect which is due to his high position, but also a friendly and generous reception."

THE REPRESSION BILL.

DECLARED UNCONSTITUTIONAL BY THE IRISH MEMBERS.

The Urgency Passed by a Large Majority—Another Murder in Ireland—Twenty-five Persons Placed Under Arrest.

LONDON, July 4.—In the House of Commons to-day Gladstone renewed his motion declaring urgency for the repression bill. It was carried by 402 to 19. Justin McCarthy read a resolution adopted by the Irish members declaring that in consequence of their expulsion and the passage of the bill through committee in their absence they would now leave the House declaring the bill unconstitutional and would not further participate in the debate. All then quit the chamber except Biggar, Callan, Sheil and Metge. Gladstone stated that if the postponed clauses of the bill were passed in committee, the arrears bill would be taken up to-morrow. The speaker presented a new rule for use during urgency, that if the committee decide by three to one majority that the question be put, the question shall be put forthwith. The substitute for the nineteenth clause of the repression bill was carried. Biggar, Callan, Metage and Richard Power being the only members in opposition to it. The government's clause for trial by special juries of criminal cases and inflicting a fine of $20 on special jurors not attending, was passed.

A man named Poole has been arrested with two others in connection with the murder. The police believe the arrest of Poole important outside of the present case.

Twenty persons have been arrested at Loughrea on suspicion of being connected with the murder of Bourke and Trooper Wallace.

FORECASTS OF A COMING STRUGGLE

A Clergyman on the Conflict Between the Laborer and the Capitalist.

From the New York Sun

Rev. James M. Pullman, pastor of the Church of Our Saviour (Sixth Universalist society), preached on Sunday a sermon on "National Greatness and Defect," taking for his text the 19th chapter of Luke, 41st to 44th verses, inclusive. Christ, he said, was interested in the condition of His country, and it becomes His servants and ministers to show a like interest in their countries.

In the course of his sermon Mr. Pullman said that the country is full of mutterings of discontent, and two great classes, the rich and the poor, are being arrayed against each other. The separation between them is growing rapidly, and the class feeling is momentarily increasing in bitterness. It is in the struggles to come between the capitalist and the laborer, the preacher said, that the great danger of the country is to be looked for. The school, the church, and the home are the influences upon which we must rely to mitigate the force of the struggle that impends. The conflict between capital and labor, so much spoken of, does not exist, has not and cannot, for they are two halves of a whole; but the conflict that is to come is between the laborer and the capitalist. Both sides are better organized for that conflict now than they have ever been before, and this country is to be the arena in which the greatest struggle of the ages is to take place.

There is a mediating class, said Mr. Pullman, whose duty it will be to stand between those classes, and that class is composed of those who have the highest education and who have had the class prejudices trained out of them. Hitherto our educational institutions have turned out few men of that kind. They have produced many prigs and pedants and selfishly educated men, but not the right kind of educated men. The mediating class of cultivated, religious and intelligent men must stand between the contending classes, even at the price of martyrdom, and tell stern, plain truths to each. To the laborers they must say: "We concede your special virtues; we have admired and do admire your instincts of charity, your power of self-denial, your persistent energy, and, in a certain degree, your economy; and above all, we admire and sympathize with your sympathy; but we must tell you some unpalatable truths which you must recognize before you can be freed from the bondage that you seek to escape. One of your most conspicuous lacks is the lack of self-mastery in the reproduction of your kind. You bring too many of your kind into the world. You have no right to do it. No man has the right to bring into the world more children than he can raise and educate properly and make good, decent citizens of. The church has been teaching her ignorant and deluded followers that it is their duty to multiply and replenish the earth, and nowhere will you find so strong superstition about that as among the lowest orders." To the laboring man it must be said also that while he reprehends the luxury of the rich, and rightly does so, he does not therefore possess the right to luxury beyond his means. The five cents worth of beer he takes when his family are in need of bread is luxury as much as is the rich man's champagne, and is as unjustifiable. He demands liberty, but he has all the liberty he can ever have in his present condition. He has the liberty of the ballot, of free speech and a free press, of public meeting for discussion of grievances, and no more liberty is possible for him until his passions and his vices are subdued. He can derive no benefit from a change of masters. What shall it profit to him to change from the hands of the capitalist master to those of the demagogue? And he must not put the excessive trust in legislation for the righting his wrongs that he does now. The eternal laws that permeate all nature—God's laws—control our being and our destinies; not the legislation of men. The universe is full of laws that are friends to the wise and good and the enemies of the blockhead and the knave.

To the capitalist, Mr. Pullman continued, the mediator must say that he is but the steward of his wealth, and is accountable for his stewardship. He has no right to appropriate and use in excess of selfish luxury that wealth of which he is but the steward. He must overcome his class prejudices and learn a higher law than that science of selfishness and greed called political economy. He must learn that brotherhood among men is a law of nature that he cannot escape, and that his duty to his neighbor is not ended by the simple fact of payment—even just payment—of wages for labor done.

THE MANITOBA ELECTIONS.

The Liberals carry three Seats and the Conservatives two.

The elections in Manitoba for the Dominion House took place yesterday. The returns, as far as they go, show that the Liberals carried the day.

In Winnipeg, Scott (con) 489, Conklin (lib) 384, Smith (ind) 73.

In Ligar, Ross (lib) has a majority as far as heard from of 51 over Dr. Schultz (con).

In Selkirk, Sutherland (lib) has a majority so far of 67 over Mulvey (con).

In the remaining constituency Watson's (lib) majority over McDonald (con) is 111.

Hon. Mr. Royal (con) it will be remembered was elected by acclamation for Provencher—so the result stands liberals 3, conservatives 2.

Air Ships in War.

Germany and Russia are both pushing forward experiments in flying machines for war or otherwise. The direction in which these are working ignores the inflated gas bag, which is enormous in size, difficult and costly to fill in war, and floats—a gigantic derelict—at the mercy of every current of air, a huge mark for the first gunner who can hit and bring it to the ground. Baumgarten, in Germany, and Baranovski in Russia, adopt the principle of the inclined plane pressed against the air, and thus capable of making some attempt at least to regulate its own course. In the kite the force that presses the inclined plane is the hand of the boy acting through the string. In the sail of the boat the resistance of the water to sidelong motion keeps the sail pressed against the wind. In flying machines the pressure is given by an engine carried by the machine, and acting by means of fans of one sort or the other. The difficulty at present is the weight of the engine and fuel; but, with the development of electrical practical knowledge, accumulators may be fairly expected to supply the maximum of power with the minimum of weight. Then the problem of flying in still air will probably be solved.

UNIVERSITY AQUATICS.

THE PENNSYLVANIA COLLEGE WINS THE LAKE GEORGE RACE.

Cornell starts out well, but falls to the Rear—A well contested Event—Other Boating News.

LAKE GEORGE, N.Y., July 4.—The intercollegiate race this afternoon was one of the finest aquatic events that ever occurred on this continent. The lake was squally at times during the afternoon and it was 6 o'clock before the boats drew into line.

The crews were made up as follows:

Position.	Name.	Age.	Weight.
UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANNIA.
Bow	F G Wittberger	18	143
2d	A J Gray	18	150
3rd	L G Hunter	20	153
Stroke	George Sergant	19	158
WESLEYAN.
Bow	W Tyler	20	168
2d	F R Brundage	21	168
3rd	J McCarthy	23	162
Stroke	W S McDonald	26	165
BOWDOIN.
Bow	E U Curtis	21	148
2d	W G Reed	24	150
3d	A F Sweetzer	21	136
Stroke	W O Plimpton	23	158
CORNEL.
Bow	J F Tuthill	23	164
2d	A H Cowles	23	160
3d	S S Holman	19	159
Stroke	H B Swartwout	21	157
PRINCETONS.
Bow	L A C Baker	21	141
2d	G B Jennison	21	163
3d	W C Bird	18	152
Stroke	G C Howell	20	165

The water was comparatively smooth, but a slight south wind rendered the course slow. At the send off Cornell took the water first and within a dozen strokes had a lead of half a length, followed by Bowdoin, Princeton, University of Pennsylvania and Wesleyan in the orders named. The advantage thus secured by Cornell was gradually increased until at the eighth of a mile it was clear water between their shell and that of Princeton, who by a gallant spurt had passed Bowdoin. The strokes of the several crews during the first minute were: Princeton 36, Bowdoin 35, Pennsylvania 36, Wesleyan 45, Cornell 36. The half-mile buoy was reached in 2.35 with Cornell leading Wesleyan. Here they slightly increased the stroke and secured second position, not over half a length behind the leaders, the Pennsylvania rowing close to the west shore and pulling in magnificent form obtained third place, while Bowdoin suddenly weakening and going to the rear. At the three-quarter mile Cornell was still at the front, with the Wesleyans close and Princeton not a quarter of a length in the rear, followed on about equal terms by Philadelphia. The third man in Cornell suddenly broke up and the crew fell in the rear. The mile flag was passed in 6.37, Princeton half a length in front of the Wesleyans and the latter about the same distance in advance of Pennsylvania and Bowdoin. The last one-quarter was marked by gallant efforts on the part of the crews and the excitement on the shore and on the four or five steamers following the boats became intense. About one-eighth of a mile from the line the university of Pennsylvania astonished everybody with a burst of speed and rapidly closing up and passing Wesleyan who meantime had forged by Princetown. They crossed the finish winners by two lengths. It was impossible to take their time as the signal of the judge at the finish could not be seen by the timekeepers. It was about 9.25. The other crews time was: Wesleyan 9.40, Princeton 9 53, Connell 9 50, Bowdoin 9.57. Howell, the Princeton's stroke, finished when the line was crossed.

The university of Pennsylvania was the only college represented in the eight-oared event. Owing to Columbia failing to keep its agreement the Pennsylvanians had a walk-over.
