IS HE A TORONTO CROOK?

James C. Wilson Arrested in Portland for Larceny—Thought to Be a Professional Thief.

Portland, Me., Dec. 24.—James C. Wilson, a man of about 40 years, was furnished before Judge Gould this morning, charged with attempting the larceny of a watch in a jewelry store. Wilson's left arm is crippled. He told a long story to the court. Wilson said he was born in Montpelier, Vt., had resided in Montreal and Toronto, and spent several years in London. He was engaged in the horse business at Buffalo at one time. He told the court that he met Robert A. Roberts of Toronto, who was about to sail for London to look after a certain legal matter for him. He intended to purchase the watch as a gift for the daughter of Roberts. The price was $28, his own money. Wilson first said his name was in Montpelier, but later claimed to belong in Montreal. He told the Marshal he was a lawyer and a lobbyist. When asked by the court if he was ever arrested before, he said he had been arrested on charges of defrauding people in horse trades. Judge Gould said he thought the price was unusually high for the watch and that he would hold him for the grand jury. Bail was placed in $400, and up to noon a surety had been procured. The officers regard Wilson as an important catch. Photographs of him will be sent out with a view to procuring further evidence against him.

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.

The Details of the Laws of the Various Civilized Nations Relating There to

The British House of Commons last year expressed a desire to be furnished with a return giving details of the marriage and divorce laws prevailing among the civilized nations of the world. Circulars asking for information were, therefore, sent out by Lord Rosebery, and the result has just been published. The American laws, as contained in a summary of the reports, from which we take the following: "One of the questions especially asked was as to the age of which marriage may be contracted. It seems that in Austria the marriage of children under fourteen is not permitted, but up to the age of twenty-four the consent of father or guardian has to be obtained. In Russia, the betrothal may not be younger than eighteen, nor the bride younger than sixteen and persons over eighty are prohibited from marrying at all, while no person is permitted to contract a fourth marriage. In other countries we go the later becomes the marriageable age, till in Sweden and Norway the law is that a man cannot marry until he is twenty-one and the woman until she is eighteen. In America, it is extremely difficult even to outline the marriage laws, as there are in this country over seven States, each claiming exclusive control over the matter of the marriage of its citizens. Hence, it comes that in Montana and Washington twenty-one is the earliest marriage age for man and eighteen for woman, while in New Jersey and Connecticut the ages are respectively fourteen and twelve. All that a schoolboy in Washington has to do in order to wed a schoolgirl is to induce her to lay aside the skipping-rope for a while and fly with him across the border to a more complaisant state.

A FIERCE SNAKE FIGHT.

Grave Account of a Death Struggle Between Two Sawrains.

"I was resting near one of the lagoons in South Florida, one day about noon, after a morning spent in hunting. It was a clear, beautiful day, and, after finishing a light luncheon, I had my attention attracted by a slight murmur in the underbrush about ten feet back of me. I started a little upon seeing an enormous diamond-back rattlesnake stretch out in the sun. It had evidently been sleeping, and was just waking up from its slumbers. For this reason I had not announced its presence before by rattling. I wanted a good skin of a fine specimen, and picked up my gun to kill it; but, before I could do so, the appearance of another snake, a large blacksnake this time, made me hesitate. The rattler suddenly raised its head and immediately began to coil and rattle. The blacksnake stopped in its journey and looked savagely at the rattler, as if measuring its strength. The two reptiles were angry, and their head-like eyes seemed to emit sparks of fire.
