HAPPINESS.—Happiness often consists in reading a good paper, one that leaves a pleasant taste in the mouth, one that you can rise up from perusing with the knowledge that you have gained something of permanent advantage. There are papers which do not give this happiness, but which, while exciting for the moment, result in permanent evil, although the immediate effect at the moment may not be apparent. The Montreal Witness is a paper of the former class. It is good; it does good. The Weekly edition is sent to subscribers for one dollar a year, the Daily for three dollars, and the NORTHERN MESSENGER, a paper for the younger members of the family particularly and for Sunday Schools, for thirty cents a year.

The subscribers of CANADA can have it and the Montreal DAILY WITNESS for three dollars; CANADA and the WEEKLY WITNESS for one dollar and fifty cents, and the NORTHERN MESSENGER with either of them for twenty-five cents extra.

BEECHER'S FIRST HOME.—One room served for entrance into the house, for parlor, study, and bedroom; the other to the dining and workroom, writes Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher in describing the first home which she and Mr. Beecher had years ago in the West, in the December Ladies' Home Journal. The bedroom was so small that I was obliged to make the bed on one side first, then go out on the veranda, raise a window, reach in and make the bed on the other side. Not such very troublesome work after all, when one gets accustomed to it. The little kitchen—partitioned off from the veranda—was just large enough to allow a passage between the cooking table and the stove into the dining-room without burning my dress; and my kitchen table was only divided from Mr. Beecher's study table by the partition. For nearly seven years this was our home—a home full of cares and no luxuries; but a very happy home—for many reasons the happiest we ever knew, for we were less separated there. In Brooklyn, in later years, Mr. Beecher's public duties naturally drew him more away from the family circle, but in those days in the West I had him entirely to myself.
