LETTER-WRITING FOR BUSY PEOPLE.

"One of the best of all times to hold imaginary conversation with absent friends is when one is doing work commonly called tedious, because it is almost purely mechanical," writes Emma M. Hale in an article on "Letter-Writing for Busy People," in April Ladies' Home Journal. "When one's fingers are occupied and the conscience is easy, your thoughts should be at the brightest. I have never seen any inconsistency in reading a chapter from Herbert Spencer in the evening and thinking it over next day while paring potatoes for dinner. * * Letter-writing may be the only literary work you ever do, so do not be afraid of obeying one or two fundamental rules necessary to success. It is well known that the best things you read have not been written once, but many times over, before they meet your eye on the printed page; but I have premised that you have only time to write your letters once, so try the plan of having good thoughts collected and classified for your absent friends, and you will gradually find that you have no longer cause for thoughts of regret that you are neglecting those you love, nor they for reproaching you with forgetfulness."
