

"It is a timely and inspiring volume."—Bishop John F. Hurst.

"It is a trumpet call with no uncertain sound."—Henry W. Parker, D.D.

"It is superior to anything for the ministry I have read."—Bishop John H. Vincent.

"Serves as a Moral Tonic."

"A Strong Word Spoken in Season."

Christ's Trumpet Call to the Ministry.

THE PREACHER'S COMMISSION AND THE PROPER PREACHING
FOR THE PRESENT CRISIS IN THE HISTORY OF THE CHURCH
—VALUABLE SUGGESTIONS ON THE BEST PULPIT EFFICIENCY
FOR TO-DAY—REQUISITE MEANS, FORCES AND AGENCIES FOR COPING WITH EXISTING MORAL ENEMIES.

By D. S. GREGORY, D.D., LL.D.

THIS suggestive and practical book, the result of deep-grounded convictions, and burning with intense earnestness, deals in a fresh, strong, and stirring manner, directly with the life-and-death questions of the power for regeneration, which every minister of the Gospel should exert. It presents in original form the means for making the Church a stronger arm for righteousness than ever before.

Bishop F. D. HUNTINGTON, D.D., LL.D.: "This successful work of large scope and multiform merits ought to do a great deal of good, encouraging the despondent, correcting the careless, and shaming the lazy. Your treatise reaches out as it goes in."

SOME REPRESENTATIVE OPINIONS.

Rev. Dr. John Hall, D.D., New York: "It gives to the Gospel its proper place, and it points out clearly the substitutes for it that are accepted by a portion of the community. Dr. Gregory judges justly the moral and spiritual influences of humanly-devised agencies, and sets over against them clearly the divine message, the delivery of which is the minister's duty, and the receiving of which is the true reform and the elevating force of the hearer. I appreciate the book as true, discriminating, timely, and evangelical throughout."

Henry D. Parker, D.D.: "It is earnest, straightforward, full of instructive matter, singularly comprehensive, and most systematically complete. Every theological student should read this book."

Prof. W. C. Wilkinson, University of Chicago: "The book cannot but be a force of reaction. It is perhaps more justly spoken of as a force than as simply a sign."

T. D. Witherspoon, D.D., LL.D., President Presbyterian Theological Seminary: "The book is well named. It has the ring of a trumpet, and gives no uncertain sound. It is evangelical, earnest, inspiring. . . . It is a book which every preacher should not only read, but devour."

Howard Osgood, D.D., Rochester Theological Seminary: "It is true to the great fundamental principles of the Gospel—instinct with lofty ideals, presented in a form to attract and hold serious minds."

12mo, Cloth, about 350 pages. Price, $1.25; post-free.

FUNK & WAGNALLS CO., Publishers, 30 Lafayette Place, NEW YORK.