

you upon the work you are doing and your bold and fearless stand against fraud and hypocrisy. I like and respect men of your kind, who dare to tell the truth without fear or favor. Many, many people fear the truth, but all respect it.

Continue, my dear brother in Christ, your good work, and fail not to send me the Iconoclast that I may read it and keep posted on the noble efforts you are making, and shake hands with you, in imagination at least, in congratulation thereon. Yours devotedly,

"UNITED ITALY'S" JUBILEE.

LONDON, September 21, 1895.

Rome's celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of Gen. Cadorna's entrance through the breach in the Papal walls has been all too palpably a partisan affair, a grand festival and picnic of red-shirted Garibaldians, Masonic lodges, and target-shooting societies, rather than a national demonstration.

Humbert remains King of the Carbonari, and not much else, just as his father was a quarter of a century ago.

It is significant that the Parliament and its officers were scarcely mentioned during the festivities, and cut no figure at all in the ceremonies. There was a good deal of royalty, and still more of Crispi, but scarcely a reminder of the Constitutional nation.

The truth is that Italy as a whole is in no mood for merrymaking, and discerns no practical reason for cherishing 1870 as a sacred date. The promises of that delusive year have all been broken, the peninsula is as divided against itself as it was under the Grand Dukes, and the people are not better educated, or housed, fed and clothed.

Taxation has risen to the point of ruin, the national debt of this small, impoverished country equals that of the United States at the close of the civil war, politics have grown incredibly base and rotten, and, worst of all, there is a permanent religious feud ceaselessly disturbing the social life of every village, disrupting families, estranging friends with deadly certainty, and making another Ireland of the unhappy land.

Crispi's long speech yesterday recognized and illustrated all this. It was as narrow and strictly partisan a harangue as any Orange lodge ever listened to.

Underneath its specious arraignment of the Papacy, however, there seems to lurk a sort of hint that a personal arrangement with the Pope is not wholly impossible. There are rumors, indeed, that negotiations between Crispi and Cardinal Galimberti, who represents the Liberal wing of the Sacred College, have already taken a definite shape, but what they involve remains purely speculative guess work.

A SKEPTIC CONVINCED.

HE HAD NO FAITH IN ANY ADVERTISED MEDICINE.

Attacked With a Bad Cold, His Trouble Went From Bad to Worse Until He Was Threatened With Locomotor Ataxia—Then Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Cured After Other Medicines Had Failed.

From the Yarmouth, N. S., Times.

The remarkable cures effected by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have long been a matter of newspaper notoriety, and many of them—well described as miracles—have been in our own province, but we believe so far none have been published from Yarmouth. A Times representative enquired in a quarter where such matter would likely be known, and learned that there were several remarkable cases of restoration to health directly traceable to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, right in our midst. Curious to ascertain the facts in relation thereto, our representative called on Mr. Charles E. Trask, who had been known to have experienced a long illness, and now was apparently in excellent health, his cure being attributed to Pink Pills. Mr. Trask, who has been an accountant in Yarmouth for many years, was in his office on John street when the reporter called on him.

FOUND MR. TRASK IN HIS OFFICE.

"Yes," he said, "there can be no possible doubt of the efficacy of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in my case, and I will be pleased if the publication of the facts helps some other sufferer back to health. I caught cold, was careless and caught more cold. The first thing I knew I was seriously ill. I could not walk. All strength seemed to have left my legs and the weakness increased. From being obliged to remain in the house I became obliged to remain in bed, but still supposed it was but a very bad cold. I became so helpless I could not move in bed without help. I had good attendance and the best of care and nursing, but as week succeeded week I seemed to grow worse instead of better, till I was worn to a mere shadow and seemed to care very little if I ever recovered. A hint that I was threatened with something called locomotor ataxia reminded a friend that my case seemed similar to some of those described in the Times, which had been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and this first drew attention to them as a possible aid to me. I admit that I was skeptical—very skeptical—there are so many medicines being advertised just now, and I was never much of a believer in them. Well, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were purchased and I took them, as I suppose I would have taken anything else, simply as the routine of a sick room. The first box seemed to show little effect, and by the time I got through with the third box, there could be no doubt my condition showed a marked improvement, and I was correspondingly encouraged. The pills were continued and I became rapidly better, so that I was able to sit up and go about the house, and occasionally go out if the weather was fine. Day by day I grew stronger, and to make a long story short, I feel I am to-day in as good health as ever I was in my life, and I can hardly realize I am the same man who suffered for six months, a helpless, despondent being, who never expected to be on his feet again. While I have no desire for publicity I am quite willing these facts should be made known for the benefit of others, and am ready at any time to bear hearty testimony to the genuine worth of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They restored me to health when I never expected to be about again."

Mr. Trask certainly looks the picture of health, and remembering the long period when he had been laid up, our representative left, fully convinced that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have well deserved all that was said of them elsewhere. When such cases can be pointed to in our own midst there can no longer be any doubt of the reliability of the many statements of wonderful cures effected throughout the country.

After Many Days.

W. H. COMSTOCK, Brockville, Ont.

DEAR SIR,—For 12 years my wife was a martyr to that dread disease, dyspepsia. Nothing relieved her; physicians were consulted and medical skill tried, without avail. One doctor advised a change of climate, suggesting Manitoba as a desirable place. We acted upon this advice, coming here two years ago. The change of climate wrought a change indeed, but for the worse, as she was soon confined to bed, and under the care of two doctors, who asserted she could live but a month longer. A neighbor came to see her one day who had been reading your almanac. She told her of the testimonials she read in it, of the great amount of good they were doing, and advised her to try a box of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills. She did so, was relieved, kept improving, and is now able to do housework, and continues the use of Morse's Pills.

Yours gratefully,
Geo. Dunn.
