

You would no doubt prefer to drive to the Theatre from the University in an open carriage, and this can readily be arranged, if it is your desire, and if you will advise me accordingly.

The Convocation takes place at ten o'clock sharp at Loew's Theatre, but as it takes some time for the Convocation procession to proceed from McGill to the Theatre, we arrange for it to leave the University grounds about nine-thirty and it forms up on the campus at nine-fifteen.

I usually give a luncheon to the recipients of the Honorary degree on that day, and this year it will be given at the Principal's House, 3450 McTavish Street, at 1:00 p.m. Will you honour me by taking luncheon with us? There will be the Chancellor, Mr. E.W.Beatty, the other four recipients of the degree, a few representative governors and deans of the University. I sincerely hope we may count on your being one of us on this occasion.

Colonel Bovey will likely call upon you in Quebec next week to discuss further the Convocation ceremony and details in connection therewith.

Yours faithfully,

Principal and Vice-Chancellor
