

History repeats itself; what often happened before occurred in this case and will occur again—not to us let us hope! Germany was ready; France was not, and the latter was attacked and defeated in consequence.

So true still, though so little thought of here, is the saying of the wise old Roman—

“Si vis pacem, para bellum.”

