

Lively than her brothers—not so well informed, nor cheerful. Raised from a state as low, as abject poverty, if not lower, to affluence. Sincerity is as valuable as knowledge, and even more valuable than it. Many more fascinating qualities than the art of flattery, but none so agreeable. And had more authority than Junius, yet not so much respected nor popular.

RULE L.—Ah ! unhappy thou. O ! wretched we. Ah ! hapless me. O ! wicked thou. Alas ! poor me. O ! unhappy we. Woes me. Woes them. Hurra ! happy thou. What fortunate men these are.

RULE LI.—A crow and an owl. Such a cruel amusement. Like him the better. With an unimproved or a corrupted mind. Essay on the interests of the body and the mind. None but the intelligent and attentive. Dictates of virtue and of honor. May gain an estate, but cannot gain friends. Nothing that is difficult can be accomplished. The negligent man of pleasure. By the success or failure of an enterprize. Affectionate brother and sister. Into extreme distress and perplexity. Too great severity, or too great facility. In the circumstances in which I was. Produce great gain or great loss. His reputation and estate. Excited not only our hopes, but excited our fears also. But he is religious too. Whoever would learn this science. By vanity we provoke enmity, and by it, we incur contempt. Saluted every man and woman there. Several men who died of the scurvy. All those who were possessed. Some profit and some amusement. Will reward our toils, and produce unexpected good. Recom-pensed even in this life. They who sow and they who reap will rejoice. Still more, he was a true christian. They are serious and very studious. But they did not arrive. Will be often ruffled and disturbed. Commend as well as censure imprudently. And how mind acts upon body. Never be engaged in it again. What they only blushed at before. Could not for-