

WILLIAM COLLIER PLAYS TO PACKED HOUSE

Return Visit of "Nothing But the Truth" Shows Hold It Has on Toronto People.

"Nothing But the Truth" returned for a second engagement this season to the Royal Alexandra last night headed by William Collier, one of Toronto's own particular favorites. The piece which has proved a riot of fun—and one of the few farces owing its success entirely to humorous situations free from any thing in the crude form—is again presented by an exceptional cast who get the best that is in their numerous clever and entertaining roles. The play is particularly well-balanced; every member of the cast gets a chance to score—from the star to the dainty little housemaid who carries the drinks to the nerve-racked hero. Nothing but the truth sounds easy enough, carefully pronounced, but when backed by a $10,000 bet, it assumes unanticipated proportions. E. M. Ralston (Raphy Holmes) makes a bet with Robert Bennett, a member of his firm (William Collier), that he can't resist prevaricating for twenty-four hours. Richard Donnelly (Charles Walters), a member of the firm (N. d. A. Sparks), eager to get one on Bob, thinks the opportunity too good to lose and insists on sharing the bet.

The $10,000 that Bob puts up is a fund handed over to him by his sweetheart and employer's daughter to be invested and doubled in five days. Naturally the stakes are too great on both sides to permit any trifling, so Ralston, to make sure of his victim, invites him to spend the day at his summer home, where he will be under strict supervision, and the scrutiny of Gwendolyn (Betty Wales), whom he hopes to make his bride. It takes three bright acts—every minute sparkling—to unwind the tangle, make apologies all round and win the bet. Only William Collier could undertake such a task, and that he is successful. One of the most unusual bits of character work is done by Arnold Lucy as the swindled, bishop who knows nothing about Business. Tone Bright is clever as Ethel Clark, the young friend of Gwen's who has ambitions as a singer. Lillian Lawrence as Mrs. Ralston, Mary Harper and Gretchen Thomas as the Misses Mabel and Sable Jackson, and Mabel Gidding as the maid, complete the excellent cast, which makes it possible for "Nothing But the Truth" to play a return engagement to packed houses.

Rev. C. H. Coon, Bowmanville, conducted the ceremony in the presence of the nearest relations. The bride entered the drawing-room on the arm of her father to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin, played by Miss Edith Strickland, and wore a smart blue tailor-made with hat to match, and carried white roses.

The bridesmaids were Mr. J. K. Martin, brother of the groom, and Miss Helen Bappte, sister of the bride, who looked very pretty in a blue meter and georgette crepe gown, wearing the gift of the groom, a pearl and onyx pin, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. After the ceremony a reception was held. The bride's table was artistically decorated with ferns and palms, where supper was served. BABY'S BODY FOUND WHEN SNOW MELTED

Little Girl Was Searched for Last Fall When She Disappeared.

Parry Sound, March 26.—A great deal of excitement was occasioned here last October by the straying away of a little two and a half-year old girl named Iris Jones, and despite the most careful and persistent search and the bringing of a bloodhound from Galt, the offering of rewards, and probably thousands of men and boys searching almost every foot of ground for miles around, no trace of the child could be found.

Yesterday the body was accidentally discovered lying on a patch of grass in the open air, within less than a mile of her home, and near enough to the Canada Chemical Co.'s factory to have made her cries heard. She slipped away from her playmates, carrying her doll and teddy bear, and these were dug from under the snow within a few feet of where she was found.

There is suspicion of foul play, as it is said parties searched the place where the body was found. An inquest is being held, and a post-mortem examination.

Recipes

Chestnut Dressing—Steam one-half pound of shelled chestnuts for 30 minutes, then pour them to a paste. Add 1-2 teaspoonful chopped walnuts, 1-4 teaspoonful white pepper, 1 tea-spoon salt and 1-4 teaspoon dry mustard. Mix well and add 4 table-spoons olive oil and 2 teaspoons vinegar. This dressing should not be allowed to stand, but should be served fresh.

For roast lamb or lamb chops a salad dressing made of 1-2 cup of well seasoned mayonnaise, 1-4 cup of fresh peas, and 1-4 cup of chopped pimientos in very good. The way macaroni is cooked determines the kind of salad dressing to be used on the accompanying salad. If the macaroni is cooked with cheese, this is good.

"Never Fail Corn Bread"—This comes from Indiana and it is remarked in connection with it that "one beauty of it is that the ingredients are always available in every home and you do not have to buy the usual sour milk, in order to have corn bread on short notice." The ingredients are: 1 cup of corn meal, ½ cup of flour, 2 teaspoons of sugar, salt to taste, 1 egg, 3 table-spoons of baking powder, lard the size of an egg (melted), 1 cup of cold water. This housekeeper mixes all her dry ingredients together, and then adds the melted shortenings and water.

POTATO STUFFING OR MOCK DUCK.

Two cups mashed potato, one egg (beaten), one small onion finely minced, one tablespoonful butter, one-half teaspoonful celery salt, one teaspoonful salt, pepper. Mix the ingredients and spread the stuffing over ground beef cut from the lower part of a round and flattened into an oblong shape. Fold it together, turn it into a baking dish, brush the top with fat and bake it for forty to fifty minutes.
