There is not the slightest doubt that hisid rs ale at present paying a fair proportion of the pro-its, and it is the intention of these inter-ests to be recouped. On this surmise prices will retain firmness, with advances tempered to provide only small turns for traders.

At the week end the drain of funds for futerior accommodation is already becoming apparent. Bluer rates are evincing apparent. Bluer rates are evincing affiner unriver in the present highly manipulative state and the undoubted desire to excurage speculation. It is indeed questionable whether this will be allowed to interfer with prices to the extent of giving values a severe setback. Where necessary, expansion in values will be checked to fleet occurring nuancial pressure, but the bucyant condition of values must not be disturbed until the time is thoroly ripe.
