Hon. N. W. Rowell referred to the fact that the matter of U. S. adherence to the International Court and its reservations to its resolution of adherence, were now being considered at Geneva. He exxpressed the hope that the U. S. would be able to see its way clear to overcome these reservations and assume her place in International matters,

The first is the operation between the different law schools of the Dominion and the legal education committees of the various provincial Bars. The committee on necessity for maintaining a close colegal education endeavored to arrange a preliminary conference to be held on the day preceding the general meeting of this association. The object of the conference was to give time for a careful and thorough discussion of the problems of legal education by representatives of the different provinces, and of the different schools. Unfortunately it was impossible to hold such a conference this vear, but the comalong the same lines as the Benchers' Conferences of 1925 and 1926. The most pressing problem in the law schools of the Dominion at the present time is the provision of adequate case books and other teaching material. The student books designed for England are entirely unsuitable to the needs of the Canadian schools. The books produced

REPORT ON EDUCATION.

J. E. Read, K. C., dean of the faculty of Dalhousie Law School, read the report of the committee on legal education, which was, in part, as follows:
Six years ago there was wide difference between the curricula prescribed by the examining authorities of the different provinces, and an even greater variation between the courses in the Canadian schools. Further, there were marked differences between the preliminary requirements for entering upon the study of law in the different provinces of the Dominion and in the furnished with the necessary resources to enable them to rank on equal terms.
