

SAYS HEALING CULTS INDICATE LOSS OF ESTEEM FOR DOCTORS

Washington, May 18.—The success of mushroom healing cults, devised by "zealous half-wits," testifies the medical profession has lost its high place in public esteem, Dr. Arthur T. McCormack of Louisville, Ky., declares at the annual conference of state and provincial health authorities of North America.

Dr. McCormack, who is president of the organization, said that perhaps the "sub-conscious mind" of the profession had been overburdened by the amount of science to be learned, and as a result had devoted itself too much to the use of science, leaving the humanitarian side of healing to fakirs.

The convention devoted much time to the problem of physicians for rural districts, a survey having shown a universal tendency of doctors to go to the cities. Medical care in hundreds of rural districts, a committee report said, is inadequate or altogether lacking.

A programme for handling the drug problem was considered by the conference, including a recommendation that the states enact laws to supplement the Harrison act.

GILLETT'S LYE

Comparatively few people realize to what extent Gillett's Lye can be used to advantage in every home. For instance, with one can of Gillett's Lye and five and a half pounds of hard or grease, ten pounds of good hard soap can be made. Use one tablespoon Gillett's Lye in gallon of water for cleaning and disinfecting refrigerators, sinks, garbage cans, tiled floors, baths and toilets.

Useful for over 500 purposes.

TENOR COMES FROM JAIL TO CHARM AUDIENCE

"Convict 562," Former Opera Singer, Offers Songs He Wrote in Prison.

London, May 1.—(By Mail).—An audience of about 600 listened to a song recital given here by a man who first became known to them as Convict 562. That was about a year ago, when he joined Miss Carrie Tubbs in a duet at a concert at Parkhurst prison. The man, who was formerly well known as an operatic tenor, was released from Parkhurst some months ago, after serving a three years' sentence, says "The London Daily News."

He has written of his prison experiences in a local paper, and still hides his identity under his prison number. At his recital he sang half a dozen songs in a magnificent tenor voice. One song, dedicated to his wife, was one of about 150 pieces of music he composed while in prison. His impressive rendering of this song deeply touched the audience.

In response to the call of the audience, the singer said the past was over and finished. He hoped to be a living proof that a man could come out of the cage and lead a straight life.

MUCK-RAKING.

London Morning Post: Madame Sarah Bernhardt has just been buried, but already newspaper readers on an English Sunday are being regaled with "secrets" which may or may not be true, but which are certainly cruel and ill-timed. The dead cannot escape from those "dear friends" whose "close intimates" who, while the nails are being screwed in the coffin, are already ransacking their memories for "spicy" anecdotes. In that respect the criminal and the illustrious, the notorious and the famous, are alike.
