TONIGHT ONLY— DON'T MISS IT!

ONE OF THOSE BRILLIANT LITTLE MADE KENNEDY'S COMEDIES!

Madge Kennedy is having a new experience as a member of the chorus in her new Goldwyn picture, "Dollars and Sense," which comes to the theatre for tonight only. Unlike many successful actresses, Miss Kennedy did not get her start in the chorus or even a minor part. She started right in playing leads in "Baby Mine" and "Twin Beds," so the part of a chorus girl has all the harm of novelty for her. The story of "Dollars and Sense" concerns plucky little girl and her struggle to earn her own living on the stage.

Horsemen of Canada and the United States expressed a keen desire that the season of 1920 should not pass without a meeting between these two rivals, about whose relative merits discussion has raged. Other nations have made tentative for a meeting, and have offered that might have proved at it was left for A. M. Orpen, the owners and trainers, match with an offer that not approached, and which Mr. himself might have increased had led to prove sufficiently tempting, is highly improbable that Ken will attract sufficient people at the or at the mutual machines to pay $50,000 that is at stake, even though track is thronged for the occasion, $50,000 certain. A two-horse race does induce to the activity of the many more than it does to the of bookmakers. The great of the betting, and there can be no that huge sums will be wagered between individuals and no tags or rake-off will fall to the association. GOVERNOR ACTS AS A SOLOMON

Ordered Assassin Freed But Howling Mob Convinced Him of Safety in Arrest — Lesson in Taking Law Into His Own Hands.

Lisbon, Sept. 21.—The Governor of Lisbon, Lieutenant Portella, threatened to shoot Manuel Vieira, a youthful syndicalist who shot and wounded Judge Horta, a member of the Tribunal of Social Defence, when Vieira was taken before the governor for interrogation after the crime.

As Judge Horta was passing through one of the principal streets of Lisbon on August 21, four shots were fired at him, one of the bullets passing through his neck, just missing the carotid artery. He was not mortally wounded. The wounded man was conveyed to the hospital, the would-be assassin arrested and protected, with great difficulty against the populace, who wanted to lynch him and followed him and his escort to the police headquarters. There, Vieira was brought before the Governor who asked him what he had to say for himself.

"I've avenged my comrades, who were condemned by the tribunal to which that man belonged, I have the right to do so," said Vieira.

Governor Portella suddenly rose and pointing a pistol at the syndicalist's head, exclaimed: "Don't kill me."

"Why?" asked the governor. "According to your words, I have a right to do so."

"No," exclaimed Vieira, "because I have committed no crime against justice."

"Do you really believe, on your conscience, that you did nothing wrong?"

"Yes," was the answer.

"Very well," said Governor Portella, "in that case I ought to give you back your liberty." Calling a policeman, he gave the order, "Set this man free. He is to leave by the door he came in by."

Outside the enraptured crowd was shouting "Death to the assassin!" and Vieira, knowing the fate that awaited him, shook off the hands of the officer who was preparing to remand him to the prison, and begged to remain under arrest.

Then the governor said sternly: "You see, your conscience lied to you. If you had not committed a crime against justice, you would not fear the judgment of your fellow citizens. Take this man to his cell."

Later in the day, when the syndicalist was conveyed from the police station to the prison three shots were fired from a distance at him or his escort and the prisoner was wounded and taken to the hospital.

The police say they have knowledge of a widespread syndicalist plot to assassinate the police authorities, besides all the members of the tribunal of public safety. One of the tribunal was killed as he entered his house a month ago, and the second is Judge Horta.

FRIENDS HONOR LIPTON ON RETURN

London, Sept. 30.—Some intimate friends last night gave a dinner in honor of Sir Thomas Lipton on his return after his unsuccessful attempt to win the America's Cup. The guests included Lord Dewar, Baron Leverhulme, Baron Isereforth and Sir John Ferguson.

Lord Dewar said the largest hall in London could have been filled with well-wishers of Sir Thomas, but that at the request of Sir Thomas only intimate friends were invited. The burden of the speeches was that although Sir Thomas had failed to win the cup he had won the hearts of all Americans.

ROD AND GUN.

Teeming with interest to all who have heard the Red Gull call for October will especially appeal to followers of the trapline. Williams, it will appeal to everyone who ever had dreams of capturing the many furbarbers which go to make Canada the richest in wild life. Several R. Belton tells in his inimitable manner how he had been mistaken for George kinds of wild animals. His story will be read with interest. The usual contributions are: "Bonnycastle Dale, Robertson's Trapline," "The Red Gull," "Page Lincoln, etc., need no introduction to the sportsmen of North America. In addition to the regular department this month, M. U. Bates takes charge of the Trap Line Department and will conduct it in the usual interesting manner. The Women Voters.
(Halifax Chronicle.)

Women are showing a very much keener desire to exercise the privilege of the franchise than many expected. According to western papers the result of the recent registration in the prairie provinces go to indicate that women will be considerably in the majority in the next voters' list. In West Calgary, for instance, the Alberta of that city states that the women who registered outnumbered the men by nearly two to one. As the lists now made up probably will be the lists on which the next general election will be run, the preponderance of women voters offers a fruitful field for speculation, although it may be taken for granted in the main, the women will vote right.
