POOR DOCUMENT

MC2035

THE EVENING TIMES AND STAR, ST. JOHN, N. B., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1922

A MURDER OF 20 YEARS AGO STILL A MYSTER

Slaying of Edward L. Burdick of Buffalo in His Home is Recalled.

An unsolved murder mystery is that of Edward L. Burdick of Buffalo. It occurred nearly twenty years ago. The victim lived on Ashland avenue, a good residential part of the city, and was a prosperous citizen; head of two thriving business concerns. At the time of the crime, February, 1903, his wife, whom he was suing for divorce, was living in Atlantic City, and the Burdick, his three young children, his mother, Mrs. Hull and two servants. On the afternoon of the 26th, Mr. Burdock went home at the usual time, carrying a bottle of cocktails, which was never seen thereafter.

The children and Mrs. Hull retired early and Mr. Burdick retired to his "den." One of the servants, passing the room at 10 o'clock, caught a glimpse of him, and a little later heard him shaking the furnace. At eight o'clock the next morning the two maids went down stairs and found a rear window and the front door open. They suspected burglars, but a careful search showed that nothing had been at len. They went upstairs to inform the master of the house, but were startled to find his room empty, while the bed had not been slept in.

Mrs. Hull opened the door of the den," but seeing a huddled pile of clothing on a couch, was afraid to go in. Dr. Marcy was called, and going to the couch he removed the pile of clothing and found underneath the body of Burdick. The back of his skull was crushed in, and two fingers of his left hand were broken as though in a struggle. He had nothing on but his shirt, the rest of his clothes being

The Murderous Visitor

Examination of his coat disclosed a loaded revolver, which indicated that Burdick went in fear of someone. On the table were a small bottle of whiskey and the remains of a light lunchtart, crackers and imported cheese-foot that Burdick never ate. It seemed obvious that he had entertained some murderous guest, that the house had not been broken into, and that Burdich had been preparing to retire for the night when he was killed. The policileaped to the conclusion that Burdich had been murdered by some woman whom he was secretly entertaining his room. A variation of this theory was that the woman had been followed into the house by a man who had committed the murder. But at the end of the inquest a month later Judg dence, and that not a single immoral vector Burdick's part had been disclosed.

Closed.

The Co-respondent.

Following the murder the name of the man whom Burdick had named as co-respondent came to light. He was Athur R. Pennell, a young lawyer and Avenue. Naturally, he fell at once under suspicion, and was questioned by the police. He said that he had had dinner at home and had gone early to be do not the night of the murder. The police were puzzled by two incidents. One was the strange disappearance of not only the cocktails, but the bottle containing them. Murderer and victim might have consumed the one, but the other had evidently been carried away. Then no weapon could be found. A golf putter was reported missing, but eventually turned up and was dismissed from consideration. A policeman reported that shortly after one o'clock he had seen a woman walking in the street not far from the Burdick home. In the

This caused the police to delve into the Burdick divorce, and they learned that Burdick had discovered his wife's unfaithfulness early and had sent her away. Then, because of his children, he had taken her back on the understanding that Pennell should leave the city. He had set private detectives to follow his wife and Pennell, and Pennell had also had Burdick watched, in the hope that something criminating might be discovered but there was no evidence his wife and Pennell, and Pennell had also had Burdick watched, in the hope that something criminating might be discovered, but there was no evidence that he had succeeded. Pennell knew that Burdick had the incriminating letters. Pennell was known to carry exevolver in order to protect himself from some man whom he feared. Suicide or Accident.

About a month after the murder with the police still groping in the fog with the police still groping in the log, the city was shocked by the news that both Pennell and his wife had been killed. Pennell's automobile had fallen into a stone quarry near the city. Pennell being instantly killed and his wife mortally injured. The only witnesses were two small boys, who said that while Pennell was driving his hat blew off; he reached for it, and at the same instant the car swerved and plunged over the cliff.

"I AM STILL CRAZY."

Paris, Nov. 30.—Hermann Meyer, a German, who was confined in 1912 in an insane asylum at Merzig in the Sarre district, was released last week cured. On leaving the asylum, his belongings, which according to ustum had been kept during the period of confiment, were returned to him. They included several gold twenty mark coins. Hermann Meyer, who knew nothing of the war and nothing of went on out happy.

Proceeding to the nearest beer hall, he took a long pull, then another. Then he laid down a twenty mark piece. The waiter handed him change—exceeding a thousand marks in notes, more than Hermann had ever seen in his life.

"I am still crazy," said Hermann.

Getting up he returned to the insane asylum and requested the doctors

WIFE SOUGHT INDIAN CURE SHOOTS FIANCEE

Ohio Authorities Convinced She Killed Others in Religious Despondent Mania.

Lancaster, Ohio, Nov. 28 — Dr. Krackas Red Wood, a Circleville "Idian healer," who says he cures by "thought and prayer," was appealed to by Mrs. Florence Henderson, who, with her husband and four children, was found dead in their home here, in an effort to rid herself of real and fancied ills, it was revealed here after a search of the Henderson house. A letter from Red Wood, dated Sept. 1, offered to cure Mrs. Henderson by the "Hindoo

This helps to substantiate the theory officials are working on now, they asserted, that the woman killed herself and her family in a fit of mental depression, brooding over imaginary ills.

Red Wood's leter acknowledged the receipt of $1 and a lock of "auburn hair," and asserted that his "new sister" could be cured. An unmailed letter found in the Henderson home, written by the dead woman, dated Sept.

can be cured."

Red Wood told an Associated Press representative in a telephone conversation that he had never seen Mrs. Henderson, that he never had prescribed any medicine for her, and that after writing her he had never heard from here again.

As a further indication of a motive for the tragedy, officials said a scrapbox was found with a notation in pencil on the bottom reading "Ezekiel, 16-6." This reads: "And when I passed by thee, and saw thee polluted in thine own blood, I said unto thee, thou must in thy blood live. Yea, I said unto thee, thou must in they blood live."

This would indicate said the officials.

religious fanaticism entering into a mind brooding over physical ills.

Officials here are marking time, pending the result of chemical tests of the vital organs of the adult Hendersons, being made at Columbus by State chemists, and the completion of a series of other examinations.

tragedy.

HELD AS PRINCE OF UGANDA

African Quota Exceeded, Boston Arrival is Detanied.

Boston, Nov. 80—Stanley Kisinging It, styling himself a Prince and saying

Boston, Nov. 80—Stanley Kisingiri 15, styling himself a Prince and saying ne could have been King of Uganda in British East Africa had not the British deposed his late father, was held by immigration authorities on his arrival here from Calcutta on the City of Benares.

school in Colombo, Ceylon. He traveled first class and was in care of Miss Margaret N. Wilson of Chattanooga, Tenn, who had been engaged in Y. W. C. A. work in Madras. Immigration officials said he was held because he was without a legal guardian and also because the African quota

SHOOTS FIANCEE; KILLED NEAR HE

Northport Man Mortally dead."

Wounds Girl Who Jilted CONSTRUCTIVE
Him in Her Home—Menaces Her Landlady.

LEGISLATIO

Huntington, L. I., Nov. 30.—John J.
Leitch, twenty-nine years old, of Northport, was shot and probably fatally wounded his sevenenteen-yearold fiancee, Miss Rose Sandrisso of Loundes avenue, Huntington. The girl is dying in the Huntington Hospital
with a bullet wound in her temple.
Leitch was shot through the heart. He was a man employed by his father.

The shooting of the girl occurred in the living room of the Spring street home of Edgar Scudder, where the young woman had been staying because she had quarreled with her family. Leitch had driven to the house in his automobile, to receive back an en-

a short time when there was a shot and a scream.

Scudder and his wife were in the kitchen. Mrs. Scudder sprang from her chair when she heard the shot and almost collided with Leitch as he ran from the living room.

"You big brute!" she said to him.
"What have you done?"
Leitch pointed his pistol at her, she said, but she struck the weapon as he fired, the bullet just missing her. Leitch fled into the yard, where he had his automobile. Scudder grabbed a shotgun and followed. He said he fired into the air to frighten Leitch, but that Leitch circled the house several times. Scudder then fired directly at him. Leitch was killed as he sat in his automobile.

rest, to be questioned by the Deputy and Special Officer Walker pending investigation by the Coroner.

Meantime the girl, unconscious and badly wounded, had been taken to the hospital, where she immediately was placed on the operating table. Surgeons said she probably would not recover. She had been employed in a dress factory here. Leitch had been wooing her for several months.

According to Scudder, they had been engaged to be married, but they were out automobile riding on Sunday night and when Miss Sandresso returned to the Scudder home she was crying. Scudder questioned her, and the girl is said to have told him that Leitch had insuled her. She told Scudder that Leich had agreed to call to get his ring. Scudder said he did not hear any loud talking or arguing after the young man arrived. It seemed to him scarcely a minute after she got up from the dining room table that he heard the shot and the scream.

ed CONSTRUCTIVE

ILEGISLATION

FOR SWEDEN

Stockholm, Nov. 6—(A. P. by Mail).

The Swedish Riksdag in 1928 will

of deal with a number of new bills of national importance, according to a public announcement by a member of the present cabinet, K. J. Schlyter, minister without portfolio.

Among the significant proposals to be submitted is a bill calling for extensive agrarian grants and reforms. This bill deals with ways and means of apportioning arable crown lands as homesteads to individuals, with safeguarded rights, for an unlimited period of time. It provides also for more extensive colonization of public domains by small farms, and for the expropriation of privately owned land, especially parts of the holdings of arge companies and mismanaged agricultural estates.

and mismanaged agricultural estates.

Among the other issues to be considered next year is the eight-hour law, which will be disposed of in one of three ways either abolished, continued as a provisional measure, or enacted into a statutory law; a bill proposing that the police force in the cities and the provinces be reorganized; a new forestry conservation law designed to give the small timber owner greater privileges of cutting for personal use as well as for the market, and a new bill providing for the important reforms in the rent regulation law, aimed especially at the lighting rent prefitering.

ARREST BOY GLOBE TROTTER
Syracuse Youth Wore Goggles in Beat-

New York, Nov. 30—when asked by the police in Yonkers when arrested how he could travel so much free of charge, Edward Leinuard, a fifteen-year-old globe-trotter, exhibited a pair of wind-goggles. "These do the trick," remarked the prisoner.

He was arrested accused of trespassing. He told the police he traveled hundreds of miles a month free. He exhibited the goggles, which he says he wore to keep dust and wind out of his eyes, and then stole rides behind locomotives. He asserts that he rode the Twentieth Century Limited, the Wolverine and other crack trains in this fashion when the train employes were not looking. He was held by the police until relatives living at 226 Cleveland street, Syracuse, determine what is to be done with the wanderer.

the dances was held last evening in the Prentice Boys' Hall on the West Side The dance was largely attended and out- very enjoyable time was spent. Fran special orchestra furnished music for roon the occasion.

Sensational Dress Sale!
200

Regular $30.00 to $52.50

Friday and Saturday Sale

$24.60

The finest assortment of high class Dresses between their regular value of $30.00 to $50.00 shown this season in St. John. Most of these models have just arrived, and a great many of them are receiving their first showing in this special sale.

Finest Materials High Grade Finish at a sensational price. Don't miss this sale, which starts FRIDAY 9 a.m.

Store of

RESSES of—
Canton Crepe and Baronette
Satin combinations.
Canton Crepes,

Canton Crepes,

Plain Cantons and Satin
Duchess combination.

Crepe Back Satins,

Satin Faced Crepes,

Fine Imported Costumes of

Big assortment of Black,
Blue, Navy and Brown;
Sand, Grey and New Cocoa
shades.

TRIMMINGS of the newest

TRIMMINGS of the newest novelties, Buckles, Flowers, Hand-made Roses and self-materials.

Big Assortment of New Evening Gowns just arrived will be included in this speical selling.

On Sale Friday, 9 a.m., and 8at.

F. A. DYKEMAN & COMPANY

CODICIL WAS AMBIGUOUS.

Ottawa, Nov. 30. — A curious will be from British Columbia has divided a Supreme Court of Canada evenly, and thereby the appeal was lost.

J. N. Henderson of Vancouver

the two nieces $25,000 each. The colling of the contained a clause that "I hereby fy and confirm the said will in consistent with this codicil." The nt was: Did the codicil give the nieces $25,000 additional, or was there of the prices $25,000 additional, or was the British Columbia cases: Pren contained to the gift until the will. Appeal was taken to Supreme Court against this ruling, as the Supreme Court divided even the prices $25,000 additional, or was there British Columbia cases: Pren court divided even the prices $25,000 additional to the gift until the will. Appeal was taken to Supreme Court against this ruling, as the Supreme Court divided even the will. Appeal was taken to Supreme Court against this ruling, as the Supreme Court against this ruling, as the Supreme Court against this ruling, as the Supreme Court divided even the will. Appeal was taken to Supreme Court against this ruling, as the Supreme Court divided even the will. Appeal was taken to Supreme Court against this ruling, as the Supreme Court divided even the prices $25,000 additional, or was the supreme Court divided even the prices $25,000 additional to the gift until the will. Appeal was taken to Supreme Court divided even the prices $25,000 additional to the will.

All Price Standards Smashed in

AMDUR'S FIRE SALE!

Race Against Time Results in Ruthless Slaughter of Values in $60,000 Stock

AMDUR'S, LTD., HURRY CLEARANCE WITHOUT REGARD TO LOSSES

Getting back to normal for the Xmas Trade is of paramount importance---therefore, the public are given the opportunity of a decade that they may co-operate in removing present stock at once.

A FEW OF THE ASTOUNDING FIRE SALE QUOTATIONS FOLLOW:

For Wo	men	For Men	For Children
Ladies' Coats,	. $1.00	Leather Gloves and Mitts, ($2.00) 25c. pr.	Boys' Sweaters, 69c.
Ladies' Suits,	- 1.00	Men's Wool Combinations, 98c.	Children's Hose, - 2 prs. 25c.
Ladies' Dresses,	2.00	Men's Black, Blue and Red Label 98c.	Children's Dresses, 25c.
Ladies' Vests,	- 10c.	Officer wear,	Shaker Flannel, 1 yd. wide, - 16c. yd.
Ladies' Hose,	- 10c. pr.	4.0	Cretonnes, 10c. yd.
Ladies' Fleece Lined Bloom	ners, 59c.		FRIDAY ONLY Table Oilcloth, 1 1-4 vds. wide. 25c. yd.
Ladies' Gaiters, (no trying)	on) 25c. pr.	Men's Trousers, 98c.	Table Oilcloth, 1 1-4 yds. wide, 25c. yd.

Sale Hours: 9 to 11.30 a.m.; 1 to 5 p.m.; 7 to 9.30 p.m.

STORE CLOSED TONIGHT