REGULAR OLD-TIME BONFIRE.

A regular old-time bonfire with its accompanying shouts for "cake!" enlivened the dreary rainy night at the busy corner of Brussels and Richmond streets last evening in honor of the early morning wedding of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. McDonald. All the small boys in the locality participated and while the police offered stern protests the rainy weather and a guarantee from some responsible this New Brusswick metropolis and adults gave the kids a little leeway. POLICE COURT.

Sergeant Fred Goslin, a returned soldier, was in the police court this morning charged with threatening the life of Andrew W. Haslett. Mrs. Haslet testified that the defendant came to her home, in Adelaide street, last Saturday night and asked to see her husband. He told her that he intended to take his life; that he had the goods to do it, and swore that he would do so. In cross examination, she acknowledged that he said he would kill her husband if he caught him on the street with his wife again. Mr. Haslett then took the stand and said that, in consequence of information received from his wife, he laid a charge against the defendant, owing to the fact that his life was in danger. Under cross examination he acknowledged that he had been to dances in Tiperrary Hall, to the nickle and out driving with Mrs. Goslin. He maintained, however, that he was related to her and that he had been at her place assisting her during the absence of her husband, who was at the front. At the completion of the evidence the defendant was bound over to keep the peace.
