It appeared as if the hull of some little craft was on fire, and the devouring clement was sweeping through the rigging and consuming everything within its reach. Such, of course, were the first efforts of the imagination in endeavouring to give outline or shape to an indefinite something that was far beyond the powers of closer investigation. It was pointed out by John McIntosh of that place, in whose company we were at the time of its appearance. The light in its appearance and movements is totally different from the Igniš Fat- us , or Will o' the Wisp. It precedes a north easterly storm, and is forerun ner of it. It is not confined to one lo- cality, but is seen from time to time at different places by the inhabitents of Caraquet, Grand Ance, New Ban- don, Salmon Beach; in fact by the whole population between Miscon and Bathurst. The Turks made a considerable sortie against our left wing, but were repulsed, losing heav- ily. The Roumanians made a bold reconnoisance of the enemy's redoubts, which opened fire, but silenced by concentrated fire from our batteries. The position of one of our siege batter- ies was changed on Sunday evening to enable it to cannonade a fortified Turkish encampment. Heavy can- nonading continued throughont the night and increased in extent and ac- tivity from five this morning. All quiet at other points at the seat of war. At the capture of Lovataz we took two Turkish standards and.	very encouraging, and that several tons of very fine iron was secured — The company have shipped a, carload of it to Pittsburgh, where all they can produce has already been sold. They are now erecting a much larger fur- nace—one that will produce fifteen or twenty tons of iron daily, and are tearing down the small furnace to make room for another large one.— And they intend to do more. The iron they make is claimed to be of a quality eminently suited for making steel. If their success continues, they propose putting up a steel furnace, where the iron will be converted into fine ingot steel. They are now roast- ing a lot of iron ore that is found im- bedded in the fireclay mined by the Union Mining company. This ore is very rich and when added in due pro- portion to the cinder, will make a bet- ter quality of iron, which may still further be improved as the manufac- turers learn more of the nature of the material. The proportion of the mix- tures are known only to the proprie- tors, everything being weighed on locked scales. The grounds and works will be enlarged; the fan blow- ers will be replaced by a blowing tub or pressure blower and everything put un solidly.
