The Question of Reciprocity in Natural Products-Suggests Meeting of a Joint High Commission.

Mr. Charlton said that on February

11th, 1899, he had in the discussion of the trade relations between the two countries made his first attempt to reach the ear of the United States in an address to the Merchants' Club of Chicago. Since then his voice and his pen had been the service of good or broadened trade relations. When he seemed to be of its application and the demand for confronted by a solid wall of misapprehension and prejudice, it was difficult to secure consideration of Canadian subjects, difficult to remove the false impressions as to the character of trade relathing before it. tions existing between the two countries. Since then a rapid change had been in progress, interest had been awakened and high commission should be again coneven seemed to be moving towards the reversal of the policy that had promoted estrangement and bitterness of feeling in Canada towards the United States and the United States.

In Is also said that the British minister at the last moment failed to present claims except for $40,000, but his demand is not duly supported by legal documents and facts, and is considered zince 1866. A most gratifying evidence of this awakened interest is the assemin part: "We desire an application of bling of a national reciprocity convention the policy of reciprocity; a policy which in Detroit at this time. providing for reciprocal trade in natural drawn. States went into effect. It continued inoperation from 1854 to 1866. Under its influence there was a pheno development of trade between the two countries. The exports from Canada to the United States quadrupled in that period. In 1866 the exports and imports in round numbers were; Exports of Canada to the United States, $40,-000,000; imports to Canada from the United States, $28,000,000. Of the ports, $25,000,000 consisted of farm products. The direct Canadian exports of farm to Great Britain in this line, however, were so small, being but $3,500,000, as to warrant the conclusion that a large proportion of the amount of the farm products sent to the United States merely passed through United States channels en route to Europe, and that between exports and imports for consumption, if any balance of trade actu ally existed in favor of Canada, it was an inconsiderable one. When the reciprocity treaty was abrogated by the action of the United States government, Canada vainly strove to secure its re-Lewal by offering to add a considerable list of manufactures to the free schedule, All offers for broadening trade relations were spurned and a period of repressive tariff regulations was entered upon

In 1874 the Liberals came into office in Canada, and Canadian Commission Brown was associated with the British minister at Washington, Lord Thornton, and a trade treaty was negotiated with the United States state depart ment, providing for the free interchange of natural products, for free trade in agricultural implements of all kinds, for a wide list of other manufactures, for the freedom of the Northeast coast fisheries, for the construction of a canal from St. Lawrence above the Lachine rapids to Lake Champlain, and for the freedom of the coasting trade of both countries. This treaty was rejected by the United States senblood.

"I had been troubled with a pain in lower part of my stomach for three years, so severe I thought it would kill me in time," writes Mr. Aaron Van Dam, of (Kensington) 2549 119th St., Chicago, Ill. "I could hardly work; it felt like a big weight hanging on me and got so bad that I had to take medicine. I used Stomach Bitters for a time, but it did no good so I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce for advice, which he gave me immediately. I followed his directions; used two bottles of his medicine and was cured. I had a torpid liver which was troubling me instead of cramps (as I thought), so Dr. Pierce told me. I have pleasure in living now; have gained in weight 75 pounds since then."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They do not beget the pill Had the treaty of 1874 been established and continued in force till the present time, Canada would have been ctically, if not actually, part of the United States at this moment. The trade relations between the United States and Canada for the fiscal year 1892, do not differ materially in character from the conditions of the immediate preceding years. Its general tenor is distinctly against the principle of granting subsidies. The committee finds that British shipowners have suffered much from the fostering effects of subsidies paid by foreign governments, that subsidies are merely minor factors and that commercial skill and industry were the major factors in the recent development of shipping and trade of certain foreign countries, notably Germany.
