In all we have been using 60 papers throughout the three maritime provinces and the state of Maine. Without, exception we have had excellent service from each of these. We have endeavored to make our read-ing notices more like news items than ad-vertising puffs. Notwithstanding the fact that some of these have been quite long, vertising puins. The disease has also broken out in Dollard Settlement, St. Mary, in the house of Ambroise Maillet. Dr. D. V. Landry visited the place last week and quarantined the premises. There are no new cases in Buctouche and the residence of Rev. A. E. LePage has been released from quarantine. A despatch says: Dominick Destre-mel, who landed ill with smallpox at Point Tupper a week ago, died there Wednesday.' Much uneasiness exists at Goulamond, where the vessel first touched, in consequence of the lar manner in which quarantine of the uses visited by Destremel and others is being enforced.

The schr. Theresa is now in quarantine at Dalhousie, having left a sick sailor at Port Hawkesbury, C. B., who was afterwards found to be suffering from smallpox. So far all are well on the Theresa, but she will be detained until all danger is past.

That paper also appears to believe the Sussex preachers and teachers, parents and children are of such ghoulish tendencies that their idea of a good time is to nose about sniffing for gore.
