What Makes Cy Young The Pitcher He Is

Tip Wright Tackles the G. O. M. of Baseball at Hot Springs and Gets Him to Tell His Methods ---Keeps in Condition All Winter--- Explains What is Best in Spring Training and Why.

By Tip Wright.
Hot Springs, Ark., March 14.—Here I found "Cy" Young limbering up for his twenty-second year in the big baseball leagues—22 years of pitching, at that, and always at the top of the heap.
For the life of me I can't see why more baseball players do not adopt "Cy's" methods. There are a lot of nifty, smart youngsters in the game now. Will a single one of them hold up his own as a star pitcher every year for 22 years? Probably not. But they all have "Cy's" Young's successful career before them, and every man Jack of them can, if he will only follow in the path trodden by the great one, hold his own a good deal longer, than is the usual thing now among the players in the pitching squads.
I had a long talk with the G. O. M. after my arrival here to see the baseball heroes in training. Young told me all about himself and his ways. As I consider him the game's greatest man, I feel like spreading his ideas. Maybe they will be of some value to youthful players who aspire to be "Cy" Youngs.
"There is no use going into anything you hope to make a success of unless you go in determined to win," said "Cy."
"Preparation is half the battle. I believe in getting myself into just as good a condition as a runner training for a Marathon or a pugilist getting ready for a championship contest."
The public refers to me as old Cy Young. Well, I am 43 years of age—or I shall be this month—but I am younger in every way than thousands of men of 25 or 30 who haven't taken care of themselves.
In the first place, I have never abused my body. Ever since I first made good in baseball I have realized that to remain good I must watch my "p's" and "q's."
"I don't stop work in the fall when the season closes, and allow myself to grow fat and soft. When an athlete who expects to be in the harness year after year does that, he makes one big mistake.
"When the season is over, I go to my place at Peoli and split logs, make repairs, chop wood, look after the stock, and keep myself in pretty good shape, so that when reporting time comes I can begin training without the same suffering that so many players complain of. Of course I don't mean that a man must work like a slave all winter. There are plenty of relaxations that can go with a little good exercise.

"I have come to Hot Springs for several years. To me this is the greatest place in the world for the preliminary training. I don't do much at first besides take the baths and walk around a little, just to limber up.
"According to my way of thinking, it's a mistake to play ball until the baths have cleaned out the whole system. This is the scheme I have followed, and it has been successful.
"You know, the baths make you feel weak at first. I wait until this feeling passes away and then I go in for long walks over the hills winding up at the ball park for an hour's work, just tossing the ball around the field. I don't try to put speed on a ball until I have limbered up for three or four weeks. By this time I have shaken off most of the weight I take on during the winter, and the walking has put my legs back and stomach muscles in good shape.
"I am strong for running. It's great for endurance. I don't think I am fit unless I can run three miles in heavy clothes without being winded.
"Along in July and August, when it's hot and the sun weakens most people, these long runs and hard work I do here stand by me, and I can stand up without being tired out."
"It's a great sight to see Young practice his doctrine. While other players sit around the hotel in the morning for fear of doing too much, "Cy" dresses in baseball togs and goes out, hits the road for the mountains, and about the time the players congregate at the park he comes trotting along with his three-mile jog to jump into the practice, the liveliest 43-year-old player in the business.
"That's quite a motto of "Cy" Young's.—"Preparation is half the battle." It's worth thinking about.

NOTIONS OF THE ATHLETES

Highlanders Lose the Services of Pitcher Bartlett—Clever Slabman Decides to Withdraw from Game.
New York, March 14.—King Brockett of the Highlanders will probably never pitch another game of ball. He has notified Manager Stallings that he will not join the New York Americans at Athens, Ga., for the reason that he has decided to leave the diamond forever. It is not a salary grievance that has caused Brockett's refusal to play, but it is a well known fact that he suffered from a strain last year from which he cannot recover without submitting to an operation. Brockett will not allow a physician to use the knife on him and consequently he is forced to give up the national game. The facts, as disclosed, probably account for some of Brockett's ineffective pitching last year. In many games this brainy boxman was well high in the windmill for six or seven innings, when suddenly the opposing batters proceeded to hammer his curves all over the field in a way that puzzled Manager Stallings and others.
Brockett managed to keep his all-

Saints Play in Great Form in Intersociety Bowling—Macaulay's Taken Into Camp—Challenge from St. Croix.

The Knights of Columbus met with a crushing defeat on St. Peter's alleys, last evening in the intersociety league series. The St. Josephs attending to the details "The Saints" were in great form and the way they smote the king pin made the fans sit up and take notice. On the other hand the Knights displayed a lamentable weakness and seemingly could not "get 'em down the centre."
Hurley, for the winners was the star of the evening, picking up 10 less than 111 sticks in the second session, and emerging from the fray with the nifty average of 103-1-3. For the losers MacGrath was conspicuous with 86-1-3 chalked opposite his name.

Humphrey's Win.

J. M. Humphrey bowling quintette didn't do a thing to Macaulay Bros. on Black's Alleys last evening excepting to take all four points. They did not set the alley on fire with hot shots either, in order to accomplish the stunt. On the whole it was a very mild argument, being utterly devoid of thrills. W. Smith's 86 being the high water mark of the evening. The middle session was easily the most interesting, only three sticks separating the haberdashers from the coveted point. The scores were:

Michigan Man After The Great Sheridan

Joe Horner Backed By Keene Fitzpatrick Out After Scalp of Famous Irishman.
Only Stipulates That He Be Given Six Weeks In Which to Train for the Contest.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Mar. 14.—"Give Joe Horner six weeks of the proper training, and he will take the title of all-around champion away from Martin Sheridan," said Keene Fitzpatrick, the greatest handler of athletes in this country.
Horner is one of Fitz's discoveries. He is a Grand Rapids youth, a junior in the university and a marvelously developed athlete, who tosses weights, jumps and sprints with equal ability. After being told by Fitzpatrick just what he was, Horner announced his intention to get into the all-around championships for the individual title next June.
Horner recently participated in the indoor meet of the Boston Athletic club and the words of praise he heard added to his determination to test his mettle in competition with the hero of the Olympic team.
"Horner would be handicapped to some extent because of his work here," said Fitzpatrick. "We specialize in two or three events from now on, and after the university closes there would be but a short time to prepare him for another contest."

In the all-around competition the events are the 100 yard dash, 120 yard hurdle, shot put, high and broad jumps, pole vault, hammer throw, 56 pound weight, half mile walk and mile run.
In the first three events Horner is considered to have the edge on Sheridan. The local man is a fairly good jumper and an ordinary vaulter, although Fitzpatrick believes he can out-vault Sheridan.
Horner will toss the weights for Michigan this year, and will be in splendid shape for Sheridan's long suit. The events which will bother him are the mile run and the 56 pound weight. He has never competed in a walking match nor distance running. Fitzpatrick wants to send Horner against Sheridan, and as his partner work at Michigan would love to see his protege win.

SWIMMING TO BE DROPPED BY HARVARD

Cambridge, Mass., Mar. 14.—Swimming, never a self-supporting sport at Harvard, will be dropped from the list of athletic sports at the university. This decision, reached by the Harvard athletic committee today, follows an unsuccessful season by the swimming team. The track team schedule was adopted tonight by the athletic committee and includes the following:
May 14—Yale at Cambridge.
May 21—Harvard interscholastic meet at Cambridge.
May 27 and 28—Intercollegiate meet at Philadelphia.

THE NOVELTY.

For the first half of this week the popular theatre, the Novelty is putting on some of the finest motion pictures. The first on the list is "The Cowboy's Reward," a thrilling western melodrama, telling a story of love and father's anger and a chase by Indians, rescue and the cowboy's prize.
In the next picture, the Red Domino, a masked ball in gay Paris and its ending is depicted. The following wonderful motion photography taken in Switzerland, The Freaks of Fortune shows how a man with too much money tries to give some of it away but is unable to get rid of it. Baby Oran, the sweet voiced child singer, will be heard in the illustrated song Twilight.

HALIFAX FOR PRO LEAGUE

Sentiment Veers in Citadel City to Paid Hockey—Crescents and North Sydney to Play.
Halifax, March 14.—The most flattered hockey season in the history of the game in this province is nearing a close after a most unsatisfactory winter both from the standpoint of the spectators and players. The final game of the season will likely take place on St. Patrick's eve, in the Halifax Arena between the Halifax Crescent professional hockey team and the New Glasgow professionals. There was a move on foot to bring the Montreal Wanderers and Ottawa's to Halifax to play a series of exhibition games but owing to the mild weather this idea has been practically abandoned.
Although at the opening of the professional series of games in Nova Scotia the different teams were "knocked" by the press and public. Lately the people have been pleased with the brand of hockey the paid men have been putting up and will support them generously if they continue to infuse the life into the game which they have been doing recently. The last game in Halifax between the "Crescents Pro's" and North Sydney was real hockey and old fans claimed it to be the fastest and most exciting ever seen in this city. A regular professional league will likely be formed when several teams can enter and prepare themselves to give expert exhibition games next winter.
