CHILDREN TAUGHT RULES OF ROAD

Safety First Lessons Expected to Decrease Number of Casualties.

Inclusion of courses designed to teach children the "Rules of the Road" will be urged upon school officials throughout the United States shortly by the Textbook Committee of the Highway and Highway Transport Education Committee of the Bureau of Education. While it is yet too early to say definitely what the recommendations for these courses will contain, some indication can be obtained from studies which are already under way in the Detroit Public Schools as well as in some others.

In Detroit, for example, the work starts with the kindergarten, where the child is taught to exercise care in crossing streets, always waiting on the corner until he is sure that nothing is approaching with a half block.

Later, as the child progresses to the elementary grades the course is broadened and the element of personal responsibility enters into the course, together with more detailed instructions as to rules of safety, always in language which is easily understood and which is confined to fundamental principles.

As a supplement to the vocal instruction, traffic games have been found a valuable teaching adjunct in Ohio schools, the child learning more readily in this way and also becoming more interested.

Thus, for example, a one kindergarten one child is selected as the traffic "cop." Others represent buildings, others machines, others are pedestrians crossing the street. The "cop" has a traffic sign with the words "go" and "stop" on it, and the pedestrians proceed according to the signs.

While no definite statistics are available to show all the causes of the many fatalities and accidents on streets and highways, it was the feeling of the Highway and Highway Transport Education Committee in a general discussion of the subject at their recent meeting in Washington, that one very definite reason is in a lack of understanding of rules. If the child can be taught care, the rules so learned will remain with him as he grows and not only will he have a better appreciation of safety as a pedestrian, but if he becomes a driver of an automobile, a street car motor-man or a locomotive engineer, his early training will always stand him in good stead.

As a further point which will be emphasized, it is hoped that to a certain extent at least, parents may be reached through their children, as the child's interest in his games will naturally lead to his describing them to his elders.

Women's Rule

A historian says that women ruled the world 2500 years before the birth of Christ. They also have ruled it 1921 years since.

TEST IT OUT ON THE ROUGHEST OF YOUR ROADS

The Only Method to Detect Bad Clutch, Worn Transmission, Leaks, Etc.

There are many used cars for sale in this country which are excellent value for the price asked. But the buyer of a second-hand car must make the purchase with his eyes open and knowing certain things about the car or he is likely to be badly "wung." It is proposed to indicate the points to look for in a used car.

In the first place, the buyer should not place too great value on appearance. The would-be seller of a car gives it always the best outward appearance possible, as is natural. The first thing to be examined is the mechanical condition of the chassis: after that look at the condition of the upholstery, top, curtains, etc.

It is difficult to tell much about the mechanical condition of a car in a drive of a few blocks over smooth city streets. For instance many of the small, light cars in this country have a tendency to judder in the steering system. This ailment shows a rapid, oscillating movement of the front wheels when the car is being driven over rough roads at a speed of about six or eight miles per hour. When the car is travelling fast on a smooth road the oscillation is not noticeable.

Again rattles and squeaks are apparent only on rough roads. So the prospective buyer of a used car should insist that the demonstration include a ride over a rough bit of road, first fast and then slowly, while he listens attentively for unusual noises.

Another ill that used cars are liable to is undue play in the power transmission system. A bad clutch or a bad transmission can be handled by a clever demonstrator so that the victim will not notice them. For this reason the buyer should always handle the car himself. And while driving the buyer should handle the brakes to see that they are properly lined or he may have this job to pay for the first week he owns the car.

It is possible to quiet a worn set of gears, or even gears with broken teeth, temporarily by packing the part with heavy lubricant. For this reason it is well to open the drain plugs of the transmission and rear axle and see if oil runs out or if it is grease that has been used in lubricating the part.

Another bit of jockeying that is done is to do a badly shot battery so that it will give what seems to be good service for a brief period. Now a battery may cost anywhere from $25 to $75, and the purchaser of a used car should be sure that this equipment will give a reasonable length of service.

The prospective buyer will be on the lookout, of course, for major knocks and thumps, but it is hard to catch all the possible signs of trouble. It should be ascertained that the engine "is" not an oil pump. This means that the pistons and rings are so worn that oil forces its way up into the combustion chamber and the engine gets very hot after a brief period. Looking around the valves for signs of leakage is the way to detect an oil pump.

Wheel bearings and steering can be tested by shaking the wheels and by pushing and pulling on the steering connections.

The best advice of all to give to a man who intends purchasing a used car is to go to a reputable dealer who has been in the business for some time and has a reputation to maintain. His word in regard to the condition of the car will usually be absolutely reliable. Another thing, it is a good practice to buy a used car of given make from the dealer handling that particular car.

Woodstock, N. B., March 31.—Two facts had been established today in connection with an abandoned child found during the week-end wrapped in a blanket at the door of a house in Connor street with a "sob" note attached.

One fact is that the child was apparently not born in Woodstock but was brought in by the persons who thus disposed of it and the other is that the child had not been attended by a physician at its birth.

It is now believed that the child was brought here in a conveyance from some point in Maine, the boundary line being only ten miles away, and Chief of Police Owen Kelly is confident that the threat contained in the note that the mother was about to "go to a watery grave" was a mere bluff to mislead the authorities.

While the child's feet were frozen, the latest reports to Chief Kelly from the hospital are that it will recover. The baby is not over four days old, it is said, and is husky and healthy.

aside from conditions neglected at its birth and its suffering from cold and exposure.

ST. JOHN MOTOR SHOW AT THE ARMORIES

April 3rd to April 8th

Facts you should know when you buy a car

THE question of greatest importance is not what you will be allowed for your old car but the price you pay for the new car and the value received.

You are money out if allowed $100 more for your old car, yet have to pay a $250 higher list price for a new car when the comparative value is not there.

A purchaser's loss is only postponed when trading allowances are made above a used car's real value. The deal that may appear most satisfactory to you in the beginning may prove to be the most expensive in the end.

Compare McLaughlin-Buick Values and Prices with all others.

McLaughlin-Buick Cars are BUILT, not merely assembled, in Canada.

Ask us about our plan of Deferred Payments.

No one receives anything gratuitously in this world — don't be misled by false allowances.

We believe that any sales policy which encourages the giving of fictitious values for used cars is an injustice to the public. We wish to establish definitely the fact that the McLaughlin Motor Car Co., Limited, has never followed this policy—rather has always based the price of its product upon actual costs and when costs come down correspondingly reduced the prices of its cars to the public without any camouflage whatsoever.

New series in Four Master Four Models in Roadster, Touring, Coupe and Sedan Types, ranging in prices from $1,340 to $1,995, and Seven Models of the Master Sixes in Roadster, Touring Cars, Coupes and Sedan Types, ranging in prices from $1,965 to $3,445 f.o.b. Oshawa, Sales Tax Extra.
