

MEN NEARING THE IDEAL, SAYS CLUB LEADER

He Is Not Effeminate, But Just Found Out How to be a Man.

Pittsburg, Sept. 25.—Saying "the ordination of women would dangerously tend to increase the spread of heresy, schism, error and fanaticism," the Rev. Dr. Clarence Edward McCartney, pastor of the Arch Street Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia, opened a flood of sarcasm, oratory and invective at the conference on the Allied Reformed Churches here.

Dr. McCartney's statement was characterized as "a slander on our womanhood." Another speaker, said the Foreign Mission Board of the Presbyterian Church has had "five times more satanic jealousies and controversies of men than of women."

Dr. McCartney asserted that ordaining of women as ministers would be prejudicial to the best interests of the church at large. After talking on scriptural authority he declared the matter was one to be decided not so much by the exegesis of difficult passages in the writings of St. Paul as by common sense, the great laws of nature and the experience of the whole church. He said:

"Even in those churches where women may now be ordained on equal footing with men there is no tendency or desire to increase the number of women preachers.

"The proposed step would increase the occasions for factional quarrels and unhappy satanic church quarrelling.

Need Not Follow Times.

"It is inexpedient because it seems to recognize the false principle that the Church of God must follow the times and most of the wishes of the day. But because women have been granted political suffrage is no reason why they should be made elders and ministers. The church does not take her cue from the state.

"From Eve down to Mrs. Eddy the record of woman as a leader and interpreter of religious thought is not an enviable one. What is the history of Christian Science? What is the history of New Thought? What is the history of spiritualism? What is the history of wild and fanatical movements in religion? What is the history of social work that is openly and bitterly anti-Christian?

"Take up the paper on a Saturday evening and read over the pseudo-religious advertising page. Who is it that is announced to speak at nine out of ten of these meetings? What is the history of these weird flyers by night tribes whose fakes and nostrums for the soul are advertised in the paper every Saturday and whose exponents in nine cases out of ten are women?

"Who are those who have floated these Oriental cakes in our Western communities? Among whom is it that some half-way thinker, giving himself out to be somewhat mysterious and calmly abolishing the soul, the life to come and the Creator Himself, gets the most eager hearing and most enthusiastic applause?"

Women in Fake Movement.

"There are questions that I do not need to answer for they answer themselves. To ask them is to answer them. Over all those movements the name of woman is written large.

"To throw open the holy offices of the church to women is to open the doors of the church to the most dangerous and common sense and the changeless law of creation and nature."

Mr. Arthur J. Brown, of New York City, in replying, pointed out the difference between ordination in the ministry and ordination in the laity. "Eldership is the administration of the business of the church and its councils. Women missionaries voice in business matters."

Dr. Brown was the man who said that in his twenty-five years' experience on the foreign mission board of the Presbyterian Church "there had been five times more satanic jealousies and controversies of the men than of the women."

"We might as well make up our minds to the recognition of women now as later," he added.

Fresh Trouble At Spike Island Camp

Cock, Sept. 25.—A serious situation has arisen in Spike Island Internment Camp where several hundred members of the Irish Republican Army are held as a result of prisoners protesting against the quality of food served to them.

The prisoners refused to carry out orders, whereupon military forces over them retaliated by removing the food and clothing and punishing them with rifles and bayonets. Twenty-eight stabbings are reported and severe beatings said to have been administered to some of the fastened men. Several prisoners are reported to have escaped during the night.

A minor conflict occurred between the six hundred members of the Republican police force, the six hundred men attempting to throw the "blow" into the river. One Republican was shot in the arm during the fray.

BARELY LIVED THROUGH IT.

A terrible experience had Mr. J. O'Connor of South St. Marks, when the boyhood he writes: "I have been a constant sufferer from asthma and catarrh. My nose and throat were often stopped up, and I had disagreeable discharges from my throat. When an attack of coughing came on, it seemed as if I would barely live through it. I would gasp for breath. Catarrhs of the nose were the result of my breathing. My nose was constantly running. My throat was constantly sore. I had a constant cough. I had a constant headache. I had a constant nervousness. I had a constant weakness. I had a constant loss of sleep. I had a constant loss of appetite. I had a constant loss of weight. I had a constant loss of vitality. I had a constant loss of health. I had a constant loss of life."

The Feast of Tabernacles

Begins September 26th and Lasts Eight Days—Suk-koth Festival.

(From the Tract Commission, Central Conference of American Rabbis Union of American Hebrew Congregations.)

During a period of eight days, ending on the eve of Sept. 26 and beginning on October 8, the Jews will celebrate the Feast of Tabernacles.

Once a year Israel reviews its love of the soil, and makes public avowal of the fact that even an industrial civilization, such as ours, depends primarily upon the elements of nature. This re-statement of love for and confidence in Mother Earth is indeed a fact of Jewish religiousness.

We know and we realize ourselves that God is at the centre of life through all the seasons and that the property and the satisfaction we seek come or do not come according to His Law.

Judaism is a religion in the very midst of the passions, aspirations and complications of life. Nowhere are these more insistent than in the economic interests of men. Here religion has a duty as well as an opportunity.

Judaism endeavors not merely to fortify men in their difficulties as to their daily bread, but also to keep their moral, large-hearted, and just.

The Sukkoth Festival is meant not as a season of self-congratulation on having garnered in the product of the farm or the gains of business, but as time for thought of men in the national and international life. The Jews are the first to have recognized political economy as the field where religion and morality must operate for the good of men.

In its modern form the suggestive-ness of this truth of the Sukkoth Festival is made more effective by the fact that it occurs at the beginning of the autumn, coincident with the increased activities of the economic agencies. It is, as it were, a timely lesson for each one to interpret his life as of larger scope, related to the national life and made possible in fullness only within it.

The "dwelling in booths" as characteristic of the Biblical phrase of the festival and observed as an archaic symbolization nowadays is a suggestive domestic ritual which re-affirms the fact of the Jewish household and the democracy of the Jewish household.

The five symbolic plants hint that, as the gifts of God in nature vary and in their totality make human life sweet and satisfactory, to the difference among men, as to service and character, may serve to make "society" an organization in which each one of us has a place and can make a helpful contribution. Some noble and some commonplace; some for the day and some for all time, according to what they do and what they are.

The Sukkoth Festival is the culminating season of the series of holidays of the month. It addresses itself to the fact of life which we might, otherwise, leave sordid. It widens the horizon of our individual interests, it brings our vocations and labors into when they bring private satisfactions, but when they vitalize our common humanity and make us more efficient in the work upon which depend the well, the peace and the joy of the community.

Carletons Won Double-Header

Trimmed St. Georges on Queen Square Diamond Saturday Afternoon.

The Carletons captured both games in the double header played with St. Georges on the Queen Square diamond West End, Saturday afternoon. The first game was won by Carleton by a score of 7 to 3. Some heavy hitting in the second inning, together with a few costly errors netted five runs for the winning team. The remainder of the game was very closely contested. The batteries were Carleton, Matthew and Mitchell; St. Georges, C. Maxwell and R. Merryweather.

The second game was an even better one than the first and was won by the Carletons by a score of 3 to 1. Carleton and Mitchell were the batter-ies for the winners. Dally and Merryweather for the St. Georges.

Although the weather was most favorable, the games were witnessed by small crowds.

Begins, Sept. 25.—As a memorial to Canadian dentists who lost their lives in the great war, the dentists of Saskatchewan are being asked to contribute their share towards the establishment of a permanent endowment fund for dental research for the Dominion.

"The foundation," states Dr. W. D. Cowan, "plans to work along lines that will be of practical advantage to the dentists of Canada, and subscriptions to the foundation will receive benefits from time to time, covering approved techniques of practical office problems. Subscribers will also, upon request, be able to secure special reports covering any difficult problem where clinical advice or laboratory report is desired."

LUDENDORFF CAUSES DISCORD BY INTERVIEW

Likely to Divide Country and Politicians Into Two Distinct Groups.

Paris, Sept. 24.—Into the French political world, the interview given by Ludendorff to Jules Auerwin of the Matin, of which the main portion was carried on Tuesday, has fallen like an enormous apple of discord. More than anything that has been printed in France since peace was signed, it seems likely to divide the country and politicians into two distinct camps.

All the elements of that division were there before Ludendorff's appeal to Europe to get together for mutual protection is forcing everyone into taking up definitely and openly a position for or against co-operation with Germany. The main body of the press, is, of course, just now loudly against such action, at least as suggested by Ludendorff.

The main in publishing the interview, is roundly accused of furnishing France's enemy with an opportunity to push an invidious propaganda in the country, and to except the Socialist newspapers, dare credit Ludendorff with saying what he said without deceit and an intention to harm France in the past by the spirits of France and the world in general.

From any other German almost, they might have stood for such advice and opinion, but Ludendorff is a kind of hypnotic influence over the French mind. Though Foch and circumstances beat him, he is still regarded with bated breath as a warrior and an influence unequalled in all the reactionary activity in Germany. He is given the main credit and blame, and his hand is seen in every movement. The Bavarian Government or the reactionary party.

Wall of Anger.

Criticism of the interview, therefore, has taken the form of a wall of anger. Ludendorff is, here, for instance, what the Journal des Debats said last night in answer to the German war lord's suggestion of economic Russia and economic Europe, economic solidarity ought to result in strangling all associates as soon as there is no further need for them. Especially the Deutscher Reichstag and others of the German general staff, in order to win victory for Germany, let Bolshevism loose on France and Germany and Trotsky to do the work, and are now hypocritically pretending that Europe must get together to resist the wrongs they have so recently committed. The Temps is not less outspoken. It was he himself, the Temps reminds Ludendorff, who created the Bolshevist peril about which he is so afraid and it is he, it says, who whatever he may pretend, is seeking now to strangle the republic in Germany.

Commercial Uses For The Shark

Consolidated Whaling Co. of Victoria, B. C. in a New Enterprise.

Victoria, B. C., Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press Ltd.)—Sharks in the waters along the British Columbia coast are to be turned into leather, liver oil, fertilizer, jewellery, and finally dollars, according to the plans of Sidney Buehler, head of the Consolidated Whaling Company, who has resigned to launch the new industry. Organization of the new company has been completed, and its reducing plant will be erected on the Alberni Canal.

Shark fishing, like whaling, is to be carried on along the west coast of Vancouver Island, where Mr. Buehler, examination has shown that the huge sun sharks, some of them weighing 2,000 pounds, race up and down in schools of thousands. Recently one of the coasting steamers reported running into a solid mass of these big fellows.

Fishing for the sharks will be carried on in the fashion of whaling harpoons shot from guns.

Livers of some of the big sun sharks, which are 60 to 65 per cent fat, are cured and sold to Oriental, who use them in preparation of table delicacies.

Membranes and intestines are turned into gloves, glue and gut, bicycle tires, and in the waters between the islands and the mainland, yield about ten gallons of oil.

Teeth of sharks are in great demand for the manufacture of necklaces, it is stated, owing to a new fad in neck ornament which recently developed.

The fins are almost pure gelatine. They are cured and sold to Oriental, who use them in preparation of table delicacies.

The most valuable part of the fish is the skin, which has the toughness of vulcanized rubber. The outer surface is as rough as sandpaper. This is taken off by acid treatment, and the skin is tanned.

NEW ENGLAND HAVING ITS NO ACCIDENT WEEK

Leading Cities Conducting Campaign for Prevention of Accidents.

(United Press) Boston, Sept. 25.—This is "no accident week" in New England. Every citizen is urged not to get hurt in any way, and to do his best to see that others do not meet with accidents. Especially is it urged to guard against being accidentally killed. New England's thirty-five leading cities have reported to Colonel Alfred F. Foote, Massachusetts Commissioner of Public Safety, that their programmes for the week is arranged and every effort will be bent to keep the week entirely free from accidental deaths and out other accidents to a minimum. It is hoped that after the public gets into the spirit of the thing "no accident week" can be converted into a proposition covering the entire year.

Colonel Foote outlined the "accident drive" on Sunday.

"Reports from our committees sum up as follows: Employees in hundreds of factories will strive to run during the week without accident. Every street car company and the three railroads will co-operate in the drive. Safety talks will be given to 600,000 children of school age. Churches talked safety today. Safety messages will appear on 150,000 milk bottles. There has been a call for 75,000 posters.

VIENNA GIRLS WANT HUSBANDS, AND ADVERTISE

Agonized Appeals for Mates Appearing Daily in Want Ad. Columns.

(United Press) London, Sept. 25.—There is a vast husband-shortage in Vienna. With ten women to every man, the Vienna correspondent of the Weekly Dispatch reports the so-called weaker sex is adopting newspaper want departments as the battle ground for mates, and some of these periodicals are printing four columns of agonized appeals for husbands every day.

It is not the women themselves who enter the struggle. They are backed by their mothers, fathers and brothers. For example, here is a typical advertisement of a variety which has become a common sight. "My daughter, highly educated, a blonde, twenty-six, modest and sympathetic, possessing million crowns worth the honorable acquaintance of a man of worth with view to marriage." Or, this one, "Brunette, small stature, large, hazel eyes, forty thousand crowns, wishes to marry state official."

Several of the fair advertisers demanded husbands who can boast of noble birth.

Children Cry for Fletcher's CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for babies. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA? Castoria is a harmless, substance for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrup. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. LIVE AND LET LIVE

A Plea for Broadmindedness

The world was on—and one-half disapproves of what the other half does. So it has been from time immemorial, and so it will, no doubt, until the end of the chapter. Intoxicating liquors, tobacco in all forms, chewing gum, picture shows, high heels for women's shoes, theatres, dances, ice cream, candies, face powder, soap, etc., are strongly objected to by all those who do not use them. All right to disapprove, but why seek to force your views down other people's throats or impose your will upon them through invoking the law of the land, to the protection of which they have the same right as yourself? Such a course has always ended in eventual failure.

The Stoics denied themselves the use of wine, but their sect soon died out. The Puritans tried the experiment of coercing people into temperance and virtue but they signally failed. Indeed, from the beginning the whole story of Prohibition was based, not on "legal" but on "moral" ideas. Indeed it is in flat contradiction to all the notions on the subject of the legal rights of the individual to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness enshrined by those who prize themselves upon their heritage to the traditions of British subjects.

The men who are doing things in the world—doctors, lawyers, giants of business and finance, are not advocates of Prohibition. The proper use of liquor has not hampered them in their careers; they "drink" and smile at the ranting of the reformer who would have us believe that every man who takes a drink is on his way to the drunkard's grave. Montreal is being put up as a "horrible example" of Vice and criminality. There are on the Island of Montreal about three times as many people as in ALL NEW BRUNSWICK. It seems that taking the province, by and large, that we have had an unenviable record of our own under Prohibition. St. John has less than 50,000 population—"what a horrible fate," if we should ever attain anything like the size and importance of Montreal. The reformer always has stood for reaction and stagnation. Give him a few more years and the country will be ruined.

Millions are invested in the Industries which produce these things of which the reformers disapprove; thousands of people are given employment here in our own country. How do they propose to fill the gap and to make up the difference in the taxes?
