

Lee

for me to identify Lee.

Cross Exam:

This was not really a first class fight. I saw blows exchanged. The lead from the English unit was about 5 ft. Two. small. There was light from the moon and from the door.

By the Court:

I saw blows being struck as the man came out the door, but I can't say who was striking. There was a crowd of men. Lee was in an aggressive mood when I arrived and was being restrained by his comrades. I can't say that I saw Lee striking blows. As I came across the street I saw blows being struck.

The evidence is read over by the witness.

Second Witness for Prosecution:

B 46808 Cpl. Armstrong A. L. 1st Can. Para. Bn.
sworn, states:

On the night of 19 Aug 43 at approximately 2100 hours I was at a dance in the New Theatre Ball Room, Amersbury. Lee was there. Lee came in and walked down the aisle & stood there. An English soldier walked by Lee and Lee stuck out his arm. The soldier stopped. I heard Lee ask him where did he think he was going. The soldier said he was going to have a dance. They talked some
