papers in England.

The English correspondent of Zion's Herald says: - A curious document has just been published by government authority, showing the circulation of our newspaper press during the year 1854. Looking at it as a whole, we have no cause for gratulation, but singling out the religious papers for examination, we cannot hide our humiliation. The "Nonconformist," edited by an ex-Independent minister. Mr. E. Miall, has the largest circulation, 3105; which to American readers must appear ludicrously small. AT RECHIRONID.

G. E. MORTON & CO.

To the Electors of the County of Hants. GENTLEMEN—In addressing you at this time, and on the very important subject which is the object of my address, viz:—The rights and privileges of British subjects in choosing men to represent you in General Assembly; I beg to thank you, most sincerely, ing Election, I feel it to be a duty I owe to my country, and especially to you, Gentlemen of Hants County, to accode to their request, and I now stand as your Candidate for the ensuing Election. If you should return me as your Representative, I can only say, as I did before, that I shall do all in my power, according to the best of my humble ability to promote the harmony, and advance the interests of my beloved country. As my acts and the course I pursued the last four years, are before you, suffice it to say, that I have acted to the best of my judgment, and if I have erred, it has been from the wast of knowledge, and I trust you will forgive me. And now, gentlemen, though nothing would give me more pleasure than to visit you at your houses, yet the shortness of the time between this and the election, renders it impossible. You will therefore please to take the will for the deed, and as I am deprived of the pleasure of seeing you before the election, if it is in my power I shall take the opportunity of visiting you in the Course of the season. With much respect, Gentlemen, I have the honor to subscribe myself you obedient humble servant. NICHOLAS MOSHER. Newport, May 3, 1855.
